Nixon to spell out new policy for conserving energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is proposing a new energy policy which sources say will include a request for broad authority to increase domestic petroleum production and to decrease consumption.

Specific measures were not revealed but Nixon was known to be considering such steps as imposing a nationwide highway speed limit of 50 miles per hour and ordering power plants to burn coal instead of oil or gas.

The White House has said Nixon's new energy policy, which was to be unfolded today at a morning briefing with congressional leaders and in an evening broadcast to the nation, would probably include proposed legislation.

An energy source said the legislation would likely seek specific new powers Nixon feels he needs to cope with the growing national fuel shortage.

The President was also expected to renew his appeal to the public for voluntary fuel conservation through lowering thermostat settings and driving less, but his top energy advisor, John A. Love, told newsmen Monday after a weekend meeting with the President that voluntary action just won't be enough.

Love previously advocated voluntary conservation, which he said could conserve up to 5 per cent of the nation's energy. But that was before last month's decision by the Arab oil nations to cut supplies to friends of Israel, threatening an estimated 14 to 21 per cent of the U.S. petroleum supply.

Proposals reportedly being considered by Nixon included:

—Authority to reduce the operating hours of nonessential businesses and industries.

—Authority to set up a standby fuel rationing program complete with printed tickets and ready for quick action.

—Easing of clean air standards so high sulphur coal and oil can be burned.

—A legislative requirement for state and local governments to adopt fuel conservation plans.

—Legislation to permit petroleum production from the Elk Hills naval petroleum reserve in California, now one of four oilfields held in reserve for military emergency use.

—Authority to require increases of commercial oil production above the maximum efficiency rate normally followed to conserve this resource over the long haul.

Mandatory conservation measures have been proposed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Interior Committee.

Jackson, ranking Republican Sen. Paul Fannon of Arizona and committee members met with Love and other administration officials two weeks ago and reported general agreement on the need for such authority.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — As chilling winter winds roll across Ohio, state officials expect to take no drastic action on the face of the fuel crisis.

"We think we can live within our fuel allocation if we tighten our belt," said Joseph Sommer, director of the Ohio Department of Administrative Services and chairman of a special state energy management board.

Jay Tepper, executive assistant to Gov. John Gilligan, said, "We're going to be as tight as we can. Drastic steps

Democrats win most major election races

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

Democrats scored strongly in off-year elections with a recordbreaking statewide victory in New Jersey and municipal triumphs in New York, Philadelphia, Minneapolis and Detroit in the first national balloting since the Watergate scandal erupted.

One of the GOP's potential 1976 candidates, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, also appeared headed for a setback on a constitutional amendment proposal. His plan to limit future state spending and taxation was trailing by more than 300,000 votes.

"The Republican party has taken a smashing defeat across the nation," said Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr. of New Jersey, who suffered one of the GOP's biggest setbacks in that state's gubernatorial race.

Democrat Brendan T. Byrne, a 49-year-old former judge and prosecutor, whipped Sandman by a margin of 2-to-1 and led his party to control of both houses of the state legislature for only the third time in the 20th Century.

Democratic State Sen. Joseph Merlino said the victory was a signal to the nation that voters will punish the Republican party until it decides to "dump" President Nixon.

Although Watergate was a campaign issue in few places, leaders of both parties saw its influence in the returns.

In Kentucky, Democratic Gov. Wendell Ford said the returns showed the scandal hurt all politicians "but it has hurt the Republicans the most." Democrats retained control of the state legislature as well as the mayor's office in Louisville, where 37-year-old physician Harvey Sloane won.

In Minneapolis, Democrat Al Hofstede, a 33-year-old former alderman, upset two-term independent Mayor Charles Stenvig. Mrs. Gladys Brooks, a Republican who finished a distant third, said it wasn't a Republican year. "A great deal of Watergate has carried over here," she added.

In Philadelphia, Democrat F. Emmett Fitzpatrick stunned two-term Republican Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter after a campaign in which a major issue was Specter's role as 1972 state

Statewide issues all gain approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An official of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation said today approval by voters of a constitutional amendment changing the method for taxing rural lands in the state may have saved the livelihood of many farmers.

"I was talking to a farmer near Marysville," William Swank commented as returns from Tuesday's election poured in, "and he said, 'today's the day we know whether we'll have to quit farming here and move to Iowa."

With 99 per cent of the vote tallied, Issue No. 1, the farmland proposal, was winning overwhelming passage, 1,768,-333-558,839.

Farm bureau federation officials hailed as successful a campaign to muster support for the issue in urban areas. Voters in Cuyahoga County, Ohio's most populous, approved the measure, 231,028-134,635.

They said legislation to provide for the tax break will be offered when the General Assembly convenes in January.

Issue No. 4, providing a bonus for veterans of the Vietnam conflict, also carried handily. It was leading, 1,606,114-631,730, with 99 per cent of the polling places counted.

Rep. Vernal G. Riffe, D-89 New Boston, the chief sponsor of the proposal, said he expects veterans may be able to apply for the bonuses as early as April 1, and no later than June.

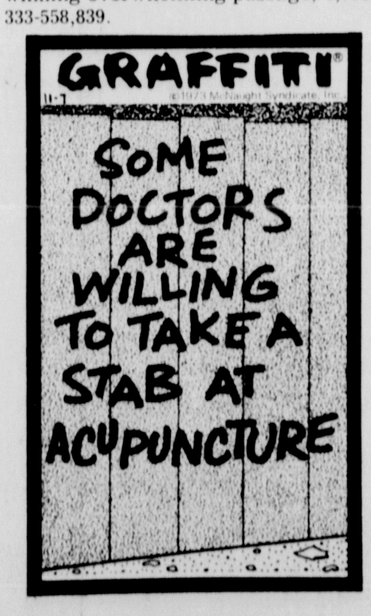

"I believe that the people have strongly honored the young men who fought in a war when at times they didn't know what it was all about," Riffe said.

Robert Kosydar, Ohio's tax commissioner, said he will propose to lawmakers in January unlimited exemptions from the state's income tax.

With 99 per cent of the voting places counted, Issue No. 2, to lift the $3,000 limit on tax exemptions, was winning easily, 1,271,675-863,545.

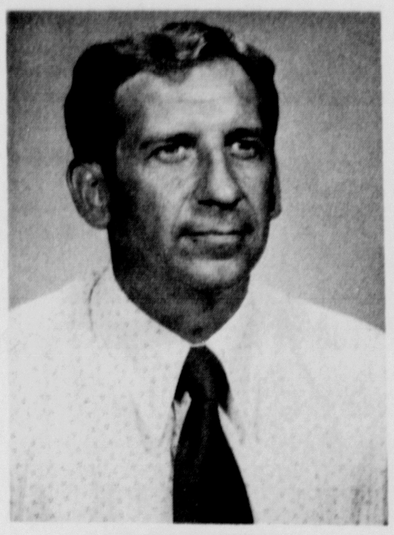

"Allowing unlimited exemptions would cost the state about $2 million in tax revenues," he said. "We're prepared to absorb the loss from current revenues."

Voters also approved, 1,287,-563-759,071 with 99 per cent counted, an amendment authorizing in-term pay raises for county and municipal judges.

Citizens nix additional school taxes

By GEORGE MALEK

Residents of Fayette County expressed their opposition to increased taxes Tuesday by approving only the smallest of the proposed increases. The .20-mill additional operating levy for the Fayette County Board of Health was passed by a 55 per cent vote.

The proposed two-mill increase in city school operating taxes and the $2,036,000 Miami Trace District bond issue were both defeated, but city residents did OK renewal of a current one-mill school levy.

Although the city school levy renewal was approved by an overwhelming 70 per cent, the additional tax was favored by only 42 per cent of the electorate. The renewal carried 18 of the 19 city precincts; the additional tax carried in only four.

Failure of the measure means that improvements in the libraries of the city schools are unlikely, and the possibility of raises for city teachers is greatly diminished.

A JUNIOR HIGH school for county students will have to wait for another time since the proposed 2.15-mill bond issue was defeated by a narrow margin. Although the issue was defeated in 18 of the 23 Fayette County precincts, the measure failed by 206 votes with more than 3,000 cast. The total vote was 1,527-1,733, including those Pickaway County residents who are a part of the Miami Trace District.

The additional monies provided to the Fayette County Board of Health will be used to cover the rising cost of existing services as well as to pay for some of the duties thrust upon the board by recent legislation governing protection of the environment and natural resources.

PERRY LIQUOR

In spite of a gallant effort by indulgers, spirituous liquor will not be sold by the glass in Perry Township. For the umpteenth time local residents voted down, by 114 to 149, a proposal authorizing such sales, which was filed by Bill Haines, Rt. 1, Greenfield, dba, the Mini-Bar, Ohio 41-S.

Renewal of levies for the maintenace of the Bloomingburg and Union Township fire departments were passed handily in their respective districts. In Bloomingburg the vote was 90-29 while the township renewal carried by a 557-141 margin.

STATE ISSUES 1 and 4 received thunderous support from residents of Fayette County while Issue 2 was slightly favored and Issue 3 was opposed.

"Saving Open Space" in Ohio, a great concern to area farmers, received better than 86 per cent approval from the county precincts and nearly 71 per cent from city voters.

Residents here favor, by better than a two-to-one margin, giving Ohio veterans who served during the Vietnam conflict bonuses for each month served. The bill carries a maximum benefit of $500 for each recipient, with certain exceptions.

The vote in favor of removing the $3,000 ceiling on state income tax exemptions was 2,541; with 2,119 opposed.

Issue 3, allowing municipal judges to receive in-term raises and allowing the legislature to combine county common pleas courts into court districts was opposed by 58 per cent of the local electorate.

Voters name first woman policy-maker

BY MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald City Editor

Three incumbents, with a total of 20 years combined experience, were successful in their bids for re-election to the Washington C.H. City Council, and for the first time in the city's history a woman was elected to the legislative body.

Officeholders Hugh S. (Bud) Patton, Ralph L. Cook and Willard W. (Billie) Wilson won re-election in the 14-candidate race, while Mrs. Bertha McCullough was chosen in her first bid for public office.

The terms of Patton, Cook and Wilson were scheduled to expire in January, but the trio garnered impressive vote totals. Mrs. McCullough will fill a vacancy created by the February resignation of John Michael Arnold.

Patton, 38, of 133 River Rd., co-owner of Sunshine Laundry and Dry Cleaning and the Fayette Supply Co., was the top vote-getter in the crowded City Council race as he polled a total of 1,143 votes. Over 45 per cent of the 2,531 persons who cast ballots at the city polling places at Tuesday's election chose Patton.

Patton, who was elected to Council 1969 and is currently chairman of the finance committee, carried 10 of the city's 19 precincts and tied for the top in two others.

The 44-year-old Cook, 1229 High St., was the second leading vote-getter as he was named to his fourth consecutive Council term. Cook, owner of Cook Home Improvements, trailed Patton by just 101 votes with a 1,042 total. He carried three city precincts.

Wilson, 57, of 215 McKinley Ave., currently serving as Council president, nudged Mrs. McCullough by 109 votes for the third seat on hte ticket as he polled 947 votes.

Mrs. McCullough, 53, of 431 W. Circle Ave., made a strong showing in Tuesday's voting as she collected 838 votes. A service representative for Ohio Bell, she carried one city precinct and tied for the lead in another.

Joseph Murphy, the youngest candidate in the Council race, was fifth with 729 votes, followed closely by Mrs. Nancy M. Black who made a strong showing with 712 votes.

John Morris, in his second Council bid, was seventh with 653 followed by James Vess (640), Fred Rost (631), George Hall (514), Larry Bennett (466), Chester Hamulak (355), Fay Washburn (126) and William Stolzenburg (61).

U.S., Egypt will exchange ambassadors

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt and the United States have agreed to exchange ambassadors immediately, the official Middle East News Agency said tonight.

Egypt broke diplomatic relations with the United States during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war because of U.S. support for Israel.

Since then the two countries have maintained contacts through small diplomatic missions in each other's capitals under the flag of friendly nations. But these missions were not of formal ambassadorial status.

The news agency announcement of an exchange of ambassadors came five hours after President Anwar Sadat and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met for three hours privately.

Cost of eating still going up

WASHINGTON (AP) — New government figures show it cost a family of four at least $40 per week to eat in September, up $3.30 in five months, even if the family bought plenty of beans and avoided expensive meat.

The budget was compiled by the Agriculture Department according to a low-cost plan for a four member family whose income is between $4,000 and $8,-000 per year.

Under a "moderate" plan for a family making $8,000 to $10,000 a year, groceries in September cost $51.70 per week, compared with $47.30 last April.

A more affluent family with an income of $10,000 or more would have spent $63.30 per week in September for a "liberal" plan, compared with $58.10 last April.

The new food cost figures were included Tuesday in a routine weekly publication Food and Home Notes, which is sent upon request to daily and weekly newspapers. There was no official news release by the department.

The three types of food budgets, for most household sizes, were up about nine per cent in September from last April. That covered five months during which the Nixon administration tried to curb soaring food prices through retail and wholesale ceilings.

Nixon's personal secretary to testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica awaited word today on whether Rose Mary Woods, President Nixon's personal secretary, will testify about the Watergate tapes she listened to and apparently transcribed.

A White House source said she probably will appear at a hearing into the circumstances surrounding two specific conversations that presidential lawyers say went unrecorded.

The White House had no official comment. But presidential lawyer Douglas Parker said he assumed Miss Woods would testify.

Gen. John C. Bennett, deputy to Nixon's chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., said Miss Woods received 14 tapes. He was still on the witness stand when court recessed Tuesday.

There also was testimony that Miss Woods listened to a number of the tapes, typing at the same time, prompting the judge to say:

"As long as we are going into this detail, will someone please get word to Miss Woods that she will be called as a witness in this case?"

The witnesses at the first four days of the hearing, all White House personnel, have testified voluntarily without subpoena.

"The real purpose of this hearing is to indicate the chain of possession of these tapes ...who had possession, who had access," Sirica said.

The White House claim that subpoenaed tapes of presidential conversations of June 20, 1972 and April 15, 1973 never existed was made Oct. 29 as lawyers for the special prosecutor's office and the President met with Sirica to work out details for turning over nine tapes.

Another such meeting was held Tuesday and afterward Sirica said security arrangements had been completed and that he had received lists of experts who could help determine whether the tapes had not been tampered with.

The judge said he hoped to get the tapes soon, perhaps within a month. But the lengthy process of review makes it unlikely the tapes will go to a Watergate grand jury before the first of the year, he indicated.

There were these other Watergate-related developments:

—The Senate Watergate committee planned to turn to campaign financing, after hearing five witnesses tell Tuesday of Democratic dirty tricks.

—The committee received 40 affidavits detailing various efforts to disrupt President Nixon's 1972 campaign. The affidavits detailed such tactics as bombings, violent demonstrations, arson and riots.

—Lawyers for the committee were instructed to try again to set up a meeting between Nixon and the seven

Slim margins decide many local issues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One vote margins and city council reverses stood out Tuesday as Ohio voters registered their choices in local political races and bond issues.

In Western Reserve, voters defeated a bond issue for school construction improvements by a slim one vote margin—485 to 486.

But the Berlin-Milan school district passed an additional tax levy by two votes, 780 to 778.

County boards of education in both Erie and Huron counties said they had asked for recounts.

In Findlay, Democrats traded places with Republicans in party strength on the city council. Democrats had held seven of the nine seats, but saw the Republicans win seven of the nine Tuesday.

Suburban Mount Healthy voters, after seeking delays for nearly 10 years, voted to let Hamilton County build a two mile link to the long planned Cross County Highway.

The highway runs through the southern edge of the city of 22,000. The vote was 1,550 to 1,177.

In the Akron suburb of Cuyahoga Falls, residents apparently have elected the first Democratic mayor in 25 years. Unofficial totals gave the race to Democrat Quirk over Republican incumbent William Coleman.

Coleman, who apparently lost by only 78 votes of the nearly 16,000 cast, said he won't decide on a recount until he sees official totals.

Summit County voters repealed the county's seven-month-old one half per cent piggy back sales tax by a 13,000 vote margin. County officials had warned that repeal of the tax would cause a severe setback in plans for a long-term capital improvement program.

Four school districts in the Findlay area approved school mill levies. Findlay voters approved a 9.6 mill levy, Liberty Benton approved a five mill operating levy and two mill school improvements levy, Arlington approved a 2.8 mill levy and McComb voters passed a 2.7 mill levy.

The Norwalk school renewal levy passed 2,222 to 1,053.

In the fifth try since 1965, a 3.4 mill levy for the Tri-Rivers Vocational School District was approved by 12,057 to 11,055. The district serves Marion, Marrow and part of Union counties.

In Hamilton County, voters approved a half mill levy to raise $2.5 million to purchase land for additional parks. The vote was 134,032 to 89,607.

Social Security boost in works

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee is nearing final approval on Social Security legislation that would boost benefits by 10 per cent in mid-1974 and payroll deductions in January.

The bill is before the Ways and Means Committee which, Tuesday, approved 13-12 the Republican plan to raise the Social Security benefits and the payroll deduction tax base.

However, final approval which would have sent the bill to the full House was delayed until today by Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore. Ullman said he looks for a full House vote on the measure next week.

Meanwhile, the House prepared to vote today on a bill that would temporarily raise the nation's debt ceiling from $465 billion to $478 through June 30, 1974. Unless Congress acts, the ceiling will automatically drop to its permanent level of $400 billion Nov. 30, at which time the national debt is expected to be about $467 billion.

The financing provision of the Social Security bill calls for hiking to $13,200 on Jan. 1 the amount of earnings from which Social Security taxes would be automatically withheld. The tax rate of 5.85 per cent would remain the same.

Translated, this would mean a worker and his boss, each of whom paid a maximum of $631.80 in Social Security taxes this year, would pay $772.20 each in 1974.

Under existing law, the wage base for withholding is to rise from $10,800 this year to $12,600, which would mean employe deductions up to $737.10 and an equal amount for employers.

Democratic backers of an alternative Social Security proposal, calling for a two-step benefit boost of 12 per cent next year, were expected to press for giving the House a chance to vote also on their version. Its financing is similar to the Republican-backed measure.

A Nixon administration spokesman said the President would be urged to sign the 10 per cent plan since it would be effective with paychecks beginning in July, meeting Nixon's goal of holding down expenditures during the fiscal year ending June 30.

The spokesman said Nixon would be asked to veto the two step, 12 per cent boost because of its impact on the current fiscal year.

Showdown slated for today on campaign spending bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Legislative leaders called for a conference committee showdown today in the partisan squabble dividing the special General Assembly session on campaign financing.

Rep. Michael Del Bane, D— 56 Hubbard, chairman of the committee of three Republicans and three Democrats, indicated he expects heated morning and afternoon sessions of the panel.

"If we lock horns, we might get a new conference committee appointed. That will be up to the leadership," he said. "The chairman hinted he thinks further sessions would be useless unless accord can be reached at the committee's Wednesday sessions.

The committee held its second session Tuesday and agreed on a number of relatively minor points, but again put aside the thorny problem of how to handle political contributions of unions and individual donations to political parties.

"Those are the main points of disagreement," Del Bane said.

Like the first meeting last Thursday, the conferees went over the various provisions in the separate Democratic and Republican bills but took no major action on amendments.

They did agree on various campaign spending limits, including those for governor. U. S. Senate and House, statewide offices other than governor, and several county and local offices.

For Governor, they agreed on a limit of 10 cents times the population of the state, or about $1.1 million, for both the primary and the general election. The Democratic House proposal had set a limit of five cents for the primary. A provision in both bills for 10 cents time the population for a U. S. Senate candidate was left intact.

The conferees also agreed on 18 cents times the district population for candidates for the U. S. House, about $37,000 for each campaign, and 1½ cents times the state population, or about $150,000, for each candidate for lieutenant governor, attorney general, treasurer, secretary of state, and auditor.

Search for missing U.S. soldiers likely to fade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The search for Americans missing in Indochina is slowing and Pentagon officials say it may be cut short in a few months.

There has been no U.S. decision to stop looking for the remains of 1,233 American servicemen still carried as missing in the Indochina fighting, which ended officially in January.

But three elements are contributing to doubts that more remains will be found and identified — including an impasse in negotiations with the North Vietnamese, continued heavy fighting in South Vietnam and Cambodia.

So far, Brig. Gen. Robert C. Kingston, chief of the Joint Casualty Resolution Center at Nakhon Phanom, Thailand, has located and positively identified the remains of nine missing men. The remains of six or seven others are undergoing laboratory examination.

Members of Kingston's 150-man staff have been limited to searches in uncontested areas of South Vietnam, although last January's cease-fire agreement called for cooperation among South Vietnam, North Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos on the exchange of information about missing soldiers.

Pentagon officials report "only a handful" of sites in uncontested territory remain to be explored in the two months before the rainy season begins.

Those sites are described as much less likely to produce remains than the 20 explored so far.

In other parts of South Vietnam, where there are another 250 possible sites, any search must await the end of repeated cease-fire violations.

Greene County votes on issues

XENIA — Elected to the Xenia City Commission Tuesday were James T. Henry Sr., William Wilson and Thomas Welsh. Four others were contending. John Thomas and Donald Anderson, both incumbents, were renamed to the Board of Education, along with Mrs. Barbara Falls. Six names were on the ballot.

A county-wide mental health levy, 2 mills for 5 years, passed, 10,778 to 9,695, but a one-mill, one-year levy to obtain funds for a Health Department building failed, thus releasing the Hill-Burton funds, which would have provided 50 per cent of the cost.

A levy to provide additional funds for county roads and bridges in Greene County failed to pass, 10,503 against and 9,856 for.

Sadat, Kissinger meet

CAIRO (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt met for more than three hours today, and Kissinger told newsmen: "We are moving toward peace."

Sadat repeated Kissinger's comment and added: "I agree with him."

The Egyptian president and his American guest posed for photographers on the lawn of the Tahira Palace, in suburban Heliopolis, then settled down to talk privately in a third-floor library.

U.S. officials said Kissinger, in his conversations in Washington last week with Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy, detected willingness to use the "good offices" of the United States to smooth out cease-fire problems and to approach peace talks.

Sadat has vowed publicly he will not bargain with the Jewish state. Kissinger, hoping to act as a catalyst, intends to find out whether the Egyptian leader really is adamant.

The principal immediate issues for discussion are Israel's demands for a prisoner exchange and the lifting of the Egyptian blockade at the mouth of the Red Sea, and Egypt's insistence that Israel give up the territory it occupied after the first cease-fire order Oct. 22.

Kissinger will convey Sadat's views to the Israelis. And while playing the middle man between Egypt and Israel, he is confident that the Soviet Union or another government will use its influence to enlist Syria, the other major combatant in the October war, should a negotiating process between Israel and Egypt develop.

Kissinger came to Cairo after meetings in Rabat with King Hassan of Morocco and in Tunis with President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia. On Thursday he sees King Hussein of Jordan in Amman and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia in Riyadh.

Israeli Premier Golda Meir had planned to report today to her parliament on her talks with Kissinger and President Nixon last week. But she postponed her speech until Monday to await word from the American secretary on his talks with the Arab leaders.

Demos win in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three members of the city council in Columbus, all Democrats, have been re-elected.

Also winning re-election in Columbus were city Auditor Hugh J. Dorrian and City Attorney James J. Hughes.

Three members of the school board in Columbus, Thomas J. Moyer, Virginia Prentice and Dr. Watson H. Walker, also were returned to office.

Approved, in addition, was a countywide 1.5-mill levy to provide for care and services for children.

Voter turnout light

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Voting in Tuesday's statewide election was lighter than had been predicted, state election officials said today, with only about 2.3 million Ohioans casting ballots.

In New York City, diminutive Democrat Abraham D. Beame led a citywide party sweep as he captured the mayoralty held for the past eight years by John V. Lindsay. The 67-year-old Beame will be the city's first Jewish mayor.

One of the major Republican victories came in normally Democratic Cleveland. GOP Mayor Ralph Perk swept to a 2-to-1 victory over his last-minute opponent, City Council Clerk Mercedes Cotner.

In other elections Tuesday:

—In Stamford, Conn., Democrat Frederick P. Lenz Jr. upset two-term Republican Mayor Julius M. Wilensky.

—In Miami, Fla., Democrat Maurice Ferre, a Puerto Ricoborn millionaire, won a majority in the mayor's race over six rivals.

—In Pittsburgh, Pa., Mayor Peter Flaherty, a Democrat, had both major parties' nominations.

—In Houston, Tex., the nonpartisan mayor's race appeared headed for a Dec. 4 runoff between attorney Fred Hofheinz and Dick Gottlieb, a city councilman and former television personality.

—Black mayors were elected in Raleigh, N.C., where Clarence E. Lightner defeated G. Wesley Williams, a white, and in Grand Rapids, Mich., where Lyman Parks defeated former Mayor Robert Bolens, both nonpartisan elections.

will only be necessary in a crisis situation."

Both Sommer and Tepper said the state has no plans to reduce office hours or close buildings this winter for lack of fuel.

"I don't like to consider curtailing state operations," said Sommer. "We would only get further behind in providing our services."

Sommer and seven other members of the energy board will meet Friday to make a list of conservation measures. The measures will be then presented to Gov. Gilligan for implementation.

Sommer said one certain recommendation will be that all thermostats in state-operated buildings be lowered.

Eventually, he said, "Each building will have an emergency program in case of severe cold spells. The plan will detail where the heat will be maintained and where the heat will be reduced."

Less exterior lighting, reduced lighting in offices and fewer Christmas decorations will also be discussed during the meeting.

Sommer said the energy board may also recommend "restructuring of cleaning and maintenance operations in state buildings. The crews can do some of their work during regular business hours so they are not in the building after work. That way they can turn out the lights earlier."

He said the board will also develop recommendations to protect fuel at state storage tanks.

"Obviously, with the shortage, we have to make sure that no one siphons off our fuel," he said. "We also want to make sure than a supplier delivers 1,000 gallons of fuel it's 1,000 gallons and not 900 gallons."

panel members — at which the President would not be made to testify under oath. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. had proposed such a meeting and publishing a record of the proceedings afterward.

—Elliot L. Richardson, who resigned as attorney general in the heat of the battle for the Nixon tapes, said there would have been "nothing inflicting any additional damage on the White House or the President," even if all of special prosecutor Archibald Cox's investigations had led to indictments. Cox was fired for refusing to ease up on legal moves for the tapes and other documents and Richardson said there was a White House feeling that Cox was "a ravenous beast whose appetite was insatiable."

—Fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco, a co-defendant with former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans in a conspiracy case, was arrested in the Bahamas. U.S. Atty. Paul Curran said in New York that Vesco was in custody and that his passport had been surrendered. The arrest was based on a fraud indictment, not on the case involving Mitchell and Stans.

Presidential aide Stephen V. Bull testified Tuesday that Miss Woods reviewed some of the tapes he delivered to her, typing at the same time. But he refused to say she was making a transcript and testified he didn't ask her about it "because it was not my business."

Bennett, who was placed in charge of the tapes and their security after the automatic recording system was dismantled July 18, said he turned over six more tapes to Miss Woods Monday making a total, he said, of 14.

Bull said Miss Woods began listening to the tapes and typing Sept. 29 at Camp David, Md., continued the next week in Washington and through the following weekend at Key Biscayne, Fla.

The 31-year-old aide said that he was searching through the tapes Sept. 29 at the request of the President and was unable to find two of the nine tapes sought in the prosecution subpoena.

The June 20 conversation between Nixon and Mitchell was on a unbugged telephone in the White House residence, witnesses said. The April 15 conversation between Nixon and Dean went unrecorded because the tape ran out, they testified.

Stock list down again

NEW YORK (AP — Stock prices were lower again today, continuing the trend of the seven previous sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction of a point and declining issues on the Big Board had a slight edge over gainers. The Dow blue chip indicator has lost more than 70 points in the seven previous sessions.

The Big Board volume leader was Revere Copper down ⅛ at 9½, followed by Texaco unchanged at 30½ and Boise Cascade unchanged at 15¼.

Stock prices closed down Tuesday after a brief attempt at a rally. Analysts said continuing worries about Watergate, Oil shortages and inflation overcame the bargain hunting rally.

The Dow Jones blue chip indicator, which had been up more than 10 points Tuesday morning, closed down 6.32 at 913.08.

Declining Big Board issues had a more than 2 to 1 lead over gainers Tuesday in a moderate trading volume of 16.43 million shares.

A heavy blanket of clouds is scheduled to cover all of Ohio today and extend into Thursday, with afternoon temperature readings climbing only into the 30s and 40s.

The National Weather Service also reported that temperatures tonight will be a bit warmer and readings will be mainly in the 30s and 40s. Some rain will spread into the extreme southern counties some time tonight as a storm developes in the southwest. Some of this rain may drift into the central counties during Thursday.

An increasing southerly flow of air will slowly moderate the temperatures and push afternoon readings on Thursday into the 40s and 50s. A rather unsettled weather situation appears on the weather horizon for the next couple of days with a threat of some rain or snow continuing over Ohio.

Cloudiness moved into the state Wednesday night and early Wednesday morning and allowed temperatures to lower only into the upper 20s and lower 30s. No precipitation was measured during the period.

There will be a chance of rain south and rain or snow north Friday, followed by flurries in the northeast on Saturday and fair skies on Sunday. Highs Friday through Sunday will be in the 40s north to the low 50s south. Lows all three days generally will be in the upper 20s or the 30s.

Panel hears of more dirty tricks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee is turning to its probe of campaign finances after hearing evidence that violence was aimed at Republicans last year and that President Nixon's medical files were rifled.

Committee lawyers, meanwhile, were instructed to contact the President's legal staff in a formal attempt to negotiate a question-and-answer session between Nixon and the seven-man committee.

The new investigation centers in part on allegations that government grants and contracts were used as inducements to procure large campaign contributions or to reward Nixon supporters.

The first scheduled witness was William Marumoto, a former White House talent seeker who once headed a White House task force pushing programs for Spanish-speaking Americans.

Marumoto has been cited in published reports as being the White House contact man who allegedly sought a $50,000 Nixon campaign contribution from Miami builder John Priestes, also scheduled to testify.

Priestes reportedly has been a central figure in a federal investigation revolving around a $300,000 expense fund allegedly set up for Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., a member of the Watergate committee.

Also on the committee's witness list is Ben Fernandez, a millionaire financier who headed the Hispanic Finance Committee for the Re-election of the President. Fernandez is now a candidate for lieutenant governor of California.

Tuesday, after calling five witnesses to testify about violence and dirty trick tactics aimed at President Nixon's campaign, Vice Chairman Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., filed 30 affidavits into the committee's record.

Among these was an affidavit in which Dr. John C. Lundgren of Long Beach, Calif., once the President's personal physician, said his offices were broken into on Sept. 20, 1972.

Dr. Lundgren said nothing was disturbed except a closet safe containing Nixon's personal medical records from 1960 until he entered the White House.

He said the Nixon records were strewn on the floor outside the closet.

The Lundgren break-in occurred just short of a year after the break-in at the office of Los Angeles psychiatrist Dr. Lewis Fielding, who had treated Pentagon papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

Committee lawyers said no evidence had been found linking the two break-ins. The Fielding break-in was committed by members of the special White House investigative unit known as the plumbers, who searched in vain for Ellsberg's psychiatric record.

Most of the rest of the affidavits — and the testimony of the five witnesses — dealt with efforts to disrupt the Nixon campaign. They included accounts of bombings, violent demonstrations, property damage, arson and riots.

College enrollment trends

The number of college students in the United States continues to rise faster than the general population increase. This is the basic finding set forth in the annual collegiate enrollment studies report provided by Dr. Garland G. Parker, University of Cincinnati vice provost for admissions and records, under auspices of the journal "Intellect."

Dr. Parker estimates that more than nine and one-half million collegiate-level students are now enrolled in institutions of post-secondary and higher education. That is a gain of about 2.5 per cent.

One noteworthy element in the general picture is that two-year schools at present have a decided edge on four-year schools in attracting new students. Whereas "the four-year schools still are shy of freshmen in the numbers they seek," 53.7 of the two-year schools showed freshmen increases. Parker also sees "a dramatic jump in part-time students" in such schools. This evidence that community colleges are burgeoning has important implications for the future with regard to both community planning and the total educational structure.

From the vantage point of his long experience in following enrollment trends, Dr. Parker urges caution in one regard. The proportion of high school graduates intering college is declining in comparison with the late 1960s. Dr. Parker comments: "With full appreciation for the societal relevance of and need for technical-vocational-service-oriented job preparation, there is a danger that too many young people will hearken to the counsel of those who are overkilling the idea that collegiate or other post-secondary training is oversold in our society." This is not an idle fear; there has been considerable emphasis on this of late, some of it from influential quarters.

We concur in Dr. Parker's view that "given the complexities of our problems . . . it is difficult to contend that we may have too many persons trained too highly." We also agree with his feeling that "not all should go to college but all who are motivated and either are or can be qualified to undertake the challenge of advanced training merit an opportunity to try it."

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Kissinger's most difficult mission

WASHINGTON — The journey that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is now on is surely the boldest and the most difficult he has ever undertaken.

He is searching for a peaceful solution of the Middle East conflict, which is rather like the pursuit of the philosophers' stone that alchemists in the Middle Ages considered to have the power to transmute baser metals into gold.

Kissinger has won to a degree the confidence of all but the more fanatical of the Arab states. This was achieved by his marathon efforts to bring about a cease-fire that would end the slaughter.

It was the Secretary's intervention that persuaded the Israelis to stop short of destroying the Egyptian III Corps with 20,000 men on the east bank of the Suez Canal. The army could have been destroyed by direct attack or by denying them food and water in the fierce heat of the desert. Convoys described by Kissinger as humanitarian have relieved the Egyptian troops.

KISSINGER was convinced that destruction of the III Corps would have greatly inflamed blood hatreds and have made a fifth Arab-Israeli war inevitable. This Israeli victory would have been costly to Israel as well as to Egypt. It is the denial of such a "victory," as construed in Jerusalem, that has embittered feeling among many Israelis toward the United States.

But it would have foreclosed any hope of a peaceful solution beyond the confused cease-fire with its indeterminate lines. That solution may, in any event, be beyond hope. The belief in Egypt is that Kissinger is bringing in his briefcase a miraculous answer to the conflict that has seen four wars in one generation.,

There is no miracle in the secretary's dispatch box that can bring a quick peace. He must rely on the diplomatic skill he has so often demonstrated — on his ability to persuade Egypt's President Anwar Sadat to have patience in pursuing a just settlement that will allow the two peoples to live side by side and gradually heal ancient wounds.

BY HER RESTRAINT and her determination to avoid recrimination, Prime Minister Golda Meir in her Washington visit enhanced the hope for peaceful negotiation. Hard-pressed in her own country by increasingly numerous hard-liners angry that victory was snatched from them by their only friend, the United States, she held to the response under repeated questioning that pressure from Washington had not been the reason for ending the war on Oct. 22.

A lot has been written about Kissinger's tirelessness, his ability to fly around the world and arrive at a point of major conflict or negotiation in apparent good humor and prepared to use his skills unimpaired by fatigue and the jet lag.

But this journey is surely a test of his capacities — four days in four Arab countries, then Iran and Pakistan, then Peking for three days and return by way of Tokyo.

A gregarious soul who loves power, he is often saved by his sense of humor which, in spite of a very healthy ego, he can turn against himself. Underneath is his profoundly serious view of the choices in this moment of turmoil.

WHAT HE SAID, both in his Pacem in Terris speech and in his press conference seems to have made little impression on a people preoccupied with domestic turbulence. Put as simply as possible, he gave it as his conviction that failure of the present efforts for peace in the world — with the Middle East a vital phase of that effort—will mean a return to all-out cold war and defense budgets far greater than the present record levels.

Although some participants take this as the foreordained course, consider what it would mean in more inflation, increased taxes, the starvation of badly needed social services, the whole panoply of troubles that afflict the nation today.

Kissinger cannot look back. He is almost literally on his own. A beleaguered President whose closest allies are beginning to demand his resignation can give him little help. The odds are probably heavily against the success of his present mission.

But to wish him ill, as part of the Nixon collapse, is to court the fate he has cogently warned of.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

D.C. press thinks Nixon guilty

HILLSDALE, Mich. — Sam Donaldson, the Capitol Hill correspondent for ABC, said an astounding thing at the local seminar on press credibility that has been running for a week at Hillsdale College. It was that most reporters in Washington are convinced that Richard Nixon is "guilty of wrongdoing."

This conviction, said Mr. Donaldson, had overcome the "presumption of regularity," meaning innocence, that had been originally extended to a badgered and beleaguered Chief Executive who might indeed have made a number of contradictory statements under the stress of the post-Watergate happenings.

Mr. Donaldson qualified his candid indication of bias by saying that he was giving his own impressions (he had taken no poll of his colleagues), and he made it plain that he was saying things in a Michigan small college atmosphere that he would not be saying quite so positively in the national capital. But if he was pleading for off-the-record status, he didn't get it. Jerry Ernst, a local reporter for the Hillsdale Daily News, a non-campus paper, put it all out in cold type: "Most Reporters View Nixon with Suspicion."

Presumably the wire services, if they are on to their job, will have picked up Mr. Ernst's account before this column, which takes a few days to go out through the mails, will have reached print.

WHAT MR. DONALDSON was saying amounted to a confession that the Washington press corps is no longer capable of considering the President innocent until he has been proved guilty. Sensing this as the probable truth, it is small wonder that Nixon has reacted with extreme bitterness to the behavior of the electronic media in particular during the period of his dispute over the proper way to make the substance of the tapes available to investigators.

Despite the "hysteria" of the TV commentary, Nixon had not disobeyed a court order during the week of controversy overwhether the idea of letting Senator Stennis judge the tapes would be an acceptable compromise. The legal basis for impeachment was just not there, and it evaporated utterly when the White House surrendered to Judge Sirica on the tapes issue.

The disheartening thing about undertaking to defend Nixon's right to a presumption of innocence until it has been proved otherwise is that the President's own demand for understanding comes in the foaming wake of the Agnew case.

I was one of those who thought Agnew must be innocent simply because I could not believe a guilty man would have sworn to Sen. Barry Goldwater that he had done nothing wrong when, at the very moment of proclaiming his purity, he was dickering with the Justice Department for a nolo contendere trade-off that would enable him to escape jail. I am not used to such consummate acting.

Suppose, now, that the ABC Capitol Hill correspondent turns out to be right and that Nixon is guilty of participation either in the Watergate cover-up or in something eles that is about to develop because of investigatory moves instigated by Archibald Cox before he was fired? Those of us who insist on Nixon's right to the presumption of innocence will look twice silly. Yet I, for one, think Nixon is getting a prejudged deal. It is totally unfair that he is a victim of prejudice, but it is also totally understandable.

THE WHITE HOUSE is getting bad press treatment for the obvious reason that the President, from the start, has never had the least understanding of the historic adversary relationship between press and government in America. With the single exception of Pat Buchanan, who knows the time of day, Nixon is in the habit of giving almost despotic power over press relations to men who are not only anti-journalist when dealing with liberals, but even more obtuse when dealing with conservatives.

Such a thing as the firing of Cox should have been carefully prepared for by briefings to friendly commentators. Any number of people could have been clued in to the alleged irregularities and prejudiced activities of Cox's sleuths. If this had been done, those 320,000 telegrams that poured in on Congress after the Cox firing would not have been forthcoming in such ghastly volume.

In spite of all this, however, Nixon is still entitled to forbearance until the admissible evidence is all in. I just hope that our President is not in Agnew's class as an actor.

School-run motel proves valuable aid to education

NELSONVILLE, Ohio (AP)— The Ohio Board of Education was skeptical when a high school here asked for $1 million—for a motel. Today's it's alive and well in this Appalacian corner of Ohio.

High school and college students operate the 42-unit Hocking Valley Motel largely as part of their study at the TriCounty Vocational High School, which owns it, and the Hocking Valley Technical College.

It is solvent but "was not intended to be a big money maker," says T. C. Porter, the high school's superintendent. "Our main idea was to have adequate facilities for on-the-job training," Porter says.

In cooperation with the college, the high school operates the motel with about 70 high school and college students under supervision of two hotel technology instructors at the college.

Only college students participate in management. A regular commercial staff of 10, plus several part-time workers, round out the employes.

The students earn course credits instead of money for the regular training duties, Porter says, but the school furnishes their uniforms. He says students get preference for jobs in their spare time and are paid regular wages in those cases.

The motel offers kitchen, restaurant, indoor swimming pool and rooms for dining, banquets and meetings.

Porter says the idea grew out of the need to improve training facilities for students in cafeteria, food management and hotel technology coures.

The board was skeptical but "finally approved the idea, granting us 80 per cent of the total construction money from federal Appalacian funds," Porter says. "We supplied the other 20 per cent."

The board required that the schools use a professional hotel management firm as consultants until September but two instructors and their students have run it since then.

See market for clothes in Russia

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— When Work Wear Corp. executive Milton A. Kramer visited a Russian department store recently, he was naturally curious about Russian work clothes.

The problem was there weren't any for sale—or display.

The Russians wear old clothes to work, Kramer said, noting, "They could not believe that management in our country furnishes work clothes to the worker."

Kramer, who toured Russia and a handful of Eastern European countries with a U.S. trade group, came back convinced "it would be a tremendous market."

Although no immediate deals are in the offing, he said, some of the countries expressed interest in a barter arrangement or establishing manufacturing sites within the country.

"There is no question that there is a shortage of consumer apparel in those countries," he said. He said visitors to Work Wear's displays were attracted by brightly colored smocks, colored hospital uniforms and flameproof work clothes.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: NOT TO KNOW WHAT HAS BEEN TRANSACTED IN FORMER TIMES IS TO CONTINUE ALWAYS A CHILD.—CICERO

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Snoopy mother learns facts of daughter's life

DEAR ABBY: I can't quit thinking about what I did today, and I've got to tell someone about it. If you consider it wrong, I won't do it again.

I became suspicious, and opened a letter my 17-year-old daughter received from her 19-year-old cousin who is in the service, stationed in a foreign country. It was full of explicit descriptions of sexual practices he said he had been indulging in-some I never even knew existed. I tore up the letter before I finished it. It was nauseating.

He also asked her to bake him some brownies with "grass" and send them to him without a return address on the box. I know "grass" is marijuana, but I never knew she had access to it.

Although I fully trust my daughter, I would shield her from the knowledge of such sexual practices as her cousin described. I am glad she will never read such trash, but I feel guilty about opening her mail.

Don't I have some rights as a parent to protect my daughter from unwanted, unwelcome information? Should I feel anxious about what she hears of abnormal sex practices? I lived all my life without this knowledge and still feel complete. She is the typical All-American girl, and I want to keep her mind pure and unadulterated. Am I wrong?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: No one (parent or not) has the right to open another person's mail, and then destroy it. If the lines of communication had been open between you and your daughter, you wouldn't have to resort to such acts to find out what kind of dialog she has with her cousin. Judging from his letter, your daughter probably knows much more about sex than you think she does.

Even the most protective parents can't "shield" her children from the real world. All you can do is teach your daughter by daily influence and example what YOU think is right, moral, and ethical, and let her make up her own mind.

DEAR ABBY: My sister and her husband have a French poodle they call "Zsa Zsa." They have no children, but they treat this dog just like a child. Zsa Zsa eats at the same table with them, and they even had a furrier make her a mink coat and bow to match.

They take Zsa Zsa everywhere with them. (If a place doesn't allow dogs, they won't go there.)

Abby, they even SPELL in front of this dog because they insist she is so smart she "understands" every word they say.

Well, I just had a baby girl. We named her Karen Sue, and the last straw was their sending a baby gift with a card saying: "With love to my COUSIN, Karen Sue, from Zsa Zsa."

SICK OF ZSA ZSA

DEAR SICK: No. As a former poodle owner, I can understand their feelings. Don't judge them too harshly. Some poodles are almost human.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE WIFE OF AN UNFAITHFUL HUSBAND: Don't ask yourself: "What does she have that I don't have?" (The answer is "Nothing.") Better ask yourself, "What has SHE given him that I haven't?"

NEW YORK (AP) — Barbara Walters of NBC's "Today" show and Sally Quinn of the "CBS Morning News" are scheduled to leave today for London to cover a quiet little wedding next Wednesday.

The match is between Princess Anne — the wedding notice doesn't give a last name — and Capt. Mark Phillips. Some consider the ceremonies the marital event of the season.

But it raises three questions. Question one is: Why is Sally Quinn going more than 3,400 miles just to cover a wedding?

"Why is Barbara Walters?" joked Lee Townsend, executive producer of the "CBS Morning News." He then noted that the show is being expanded to provide live coverage of the wedding.

"We thought it would be appropriate for one of our anchor persons to be over in England with the bulk of the broadcast," he said, referring to the day of the royal nuptials.

Question two: Why is Barbara Walters being sent over?

"Well, it's kind of a major spectacle and it's happening live on our time," said Stuart Schulberg, executive producer of "Today." By "our time" he meant the hours "Today" is on the air.

"We generally cover these things when they happen live on our time," he added.

Question three: Is CBS sending Miss Quinn to London because NBC is sending Miss Walters, or is it the other way around? What's going on here, anyway?

"We planned this probably two months ago," said CBS' Townsend. "I didn't have the faintest idea then whether Barbara Walters was going to go."

Schulberg said, "we had planned to do this even before we knew about Sally Quinn. When we took the show to Britain earlier this year we made the commitment then to do it.

"That was back in June and we had no idea of what CBS was doing. In fact, we made plans to go there even before Sally Quinn went on the air."

Upgraded teacher education proposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Association of Classroom Teachers has called on state Education Supt. Martin Essex to make a series of conferences on upgrading teacher education standards in the state more accessible to classroom personnel.

"There has been a great deal of criticism of this program because of the difficulty teachers are having in attending," Essex was told.

Cincy again turns down fluoridation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati voters thumbed their noses at fluoridation for the third time in 20 years Tuesday, leaving the city in a knotty tangle with the state.

The referendum on a city council ordinance to fluoridate the city's drinking water was defeated 50,302 to 38,830. They did the same thing in the 1950s and 1960s.

At the same time, the well-to-do suburb of Indian Hill turned down the issue 1,508 to 591.

Opponents claimed the chemical is poison. Proponents, including the American Dental Association said sodium fluoride strengthens childrens' teeth.

"For the third time," said Julian Bowman, leader of the anti-fluoridationist drive claiming 2,000 workers, "Cincinnatians have refused to believe the false propaganda of the arrogant governmental and dental association bureaucrats and the editorials and articles in our misleading newspapers.

"We have only begun to fight to restore our constitutional right of freedom of choice as to what shall be taken into our bodies."

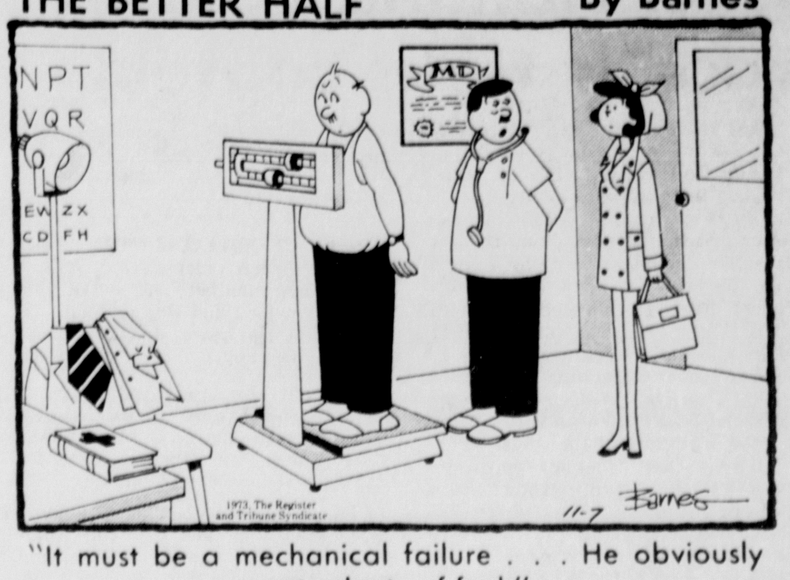

Bowman, who has headed the Citizen's Committee Against Fluoridation (CCAF) for 13 years, said his group now plans to expand its efforts to other Ohio cities.

The defeat leaves Cincinnati in a tangle between the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency and the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

The anti-fluoridationist won a court ruling in 1971 that Ohio's 1969 law ordering flurodation was unconstitutional.

Cincinnati City Council earlier this year, spurred by threats of action by the Ohio EPA, ordered the drinking water treated. Petitions were then circulated and the issue won a place on the ballot as a referendum, a victory for the CCAF.

Vote muddled in Butler County

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — There was little post-election celebration in Butler County last night.

Nobody knew who won.

For the second straight year, a computerized vote-counting system failed to work properly.

Butler County results are normally transferred from Middletown and Hamilton to a computerized office at Miami of Ohio University in Oxford.

First the computer garbled out incomplete results. Then it began rejecting approximately one ballot out of 10, an election official said.

Officials informed anxious candidates that it might be this afternoon before complete results could be compiled.

The first recorded mile run in under four minutes took place on May, 6, 1954, when Roger Bannister did it in London, in 3.59.4.

Farmer's cut of food cash most in years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The farmer's share of each dollar a consumer spends for food in 1973 is likely to be the most in 20 years, according to new figures by the Agriculture Department.

During the third quarter (July-September) farmers averaged 47 cents of each $1 spent on U. S. farm-produced food listed in a USDA "marked basket" analysis, the Outlook and Situation Board said Tuesday.

That compared with 44 cents of each food dollar received by farmers in the first half of 1973 and 40 cents averaged in July-September 1972, the report said.

Although farm prices of food items — a key to the share of a food dollar received by producers — were down sharply from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15, they still were much higher than a year ago.

Thus, according to the figures for the first three quarters of 1973, the food-dollar average for farmers could be near 45 cents for the entire year. That would be the most since a 45-cent share in 1953, according to USDA records.

The food market basket, theoretically enough for a household of 3.2 persons for an entire year, cost an annual rate of $1,604 during the July-September quarter, up seven per cent from May-June and 21 per cent above a year earlier.

New Holland Council race is tight contest

NEW HOLLAND — A tight race for four vacant seats on New Holland Village Council highlighted voting Tuesday in Pickaway County.

Only 24 votes separated the top vote-getter and the seventh place finisher. Russell L. Jacobs polled 137 votes to pace the seven-candidate field, and Robert Frazier collected 125 votes. Vicki L. Sheets was third with 121 votes, and Josef Louis won the fourth Council seat after getting 120 votes.

Voters in New Holland approved a one-mill (five year) fire protection tax levy request by a 139-63 margin, but village voters turned thumbs down on the proposed Miami Trace junior high school issue by a 74-121 count.

New Holland voters followed a Fayette County trend as Marion Waddle collected 152 votes to lead three school board candidates. Kenneth Payton followed with 142 and Wayne Arnold had 114.

IN CIRCLEVILLE, three new city councilmen were elected. Tom Wells, a new Council member, and incumbents David Crawford and Ben Gordon won council-at-large seats, and incumbent Robert Kenworthy was defeated.

Incumbent Joe Bell outdistanced James Locke 2,199-705 for the Council president seat. David Goldsmith was the only other incumbent to keep his seat as he beat Burl Wiggins.

Other new councilmen are unopposed candidate John Jenkins and Dixie Walters who topped incumbent Gladden Troutman in the Fourth Ward. In the Third Ward, Harold Hoffman was unopposed.

11 Council races settled in voting at Chillicothe

CHILLICOTHE — Eleven City Council races were decided Tuesday in Chillicothe, along with contests for city auditor and city treasurer. Two health levies were also balloted, with the 2½ mill renewal for the tuberculosis program passing, 5,726 to 4,730, and an additional half-mill levy for current operating expenses of the Ross County Board of Health defeated.

Only Council President Donald F. Breth (R) was unopposed in city races. For city auditor, incumbent Republican Donald E. McGee defeated William E. Marsh (D) 3,724 to 2,132. With two newcomers vying for city treasurer, Paul Van Voorhis, Republican, received 3,322 votes to Democrat Ronald H. Harper's 2,481.

Six candidates were in the race for three councilman-at-large seats, with two Republicans and a Democrat winning. James Caldwell (3,860) and David L. Dixon (3,022), both Republicans, will serve with James E. Strausbaugh (3,192), Democrat. Others were Robert M. Irwin (R), 2,717, John Dobbins (D), 1,179 and William Marsh Jr. (D), 2,106.

Ward councilmen elected were Edward R. Kunselman (R), Thomas L. Herrnstein (D), who defeated Republican Glenn E. McDonald by only eight votes, George W. Vaughn (R), Warden C. Seymour (R), Leonard L. Freeman (D) and Edward E. Wagner Jr. (D).

IN THE Chillicothe School Board race, with three to be elected, Valla B. Mowrey Jr. received 4,624 votes, David Ater, 4,546, and Joan M. Hess, 4,194. Samuel L. Wade was the other contender.

With three candidates for the three seats on the Ross County Board of Education, incumbents Paul W. Gearhart and Eldon Shoemaker and newcomer James E. Scott were assured of positions on the board.

A one-mill additional levy for maintaining cemeteries in Deerfield Township passed, and in the race for two trustee seats Harold Garrison received 256 votes, Roy Chenoweth, 178, and Harold Hurtt, 116.

Election officials in Ross County were pleased with Tuesday's turnout of voters. With 26,000 registered voters, 15,157 appeared at the polls to cast their votes.

4-H advisers to be honored Thursday night

Recognition will be given to the 165 Fayette County 4-H Club advisers, both men and women, at the annual Advisers Banquet Thursday evening in the Mahan Building on the Fairground.

The 73 clubs — 37 with home economics programs and 36 with agricultural projects (including five horse and pony clubs — have an enrollment of approximately 1,200 young people in the 9-19-year-old bracket.

A social get-together will precede the smorgasbord dinner at 6:30 p.m. The brief recognition program will follow the dinner.

Miss Beatrice J. Cleveland, associate state 4-H leader at Ohio State University, will be the speaker, and the Miami Trace Folk Singers will provide the entertainment.

Hawkinson Tread, 1106 Washington Ave., reported that efforts to locate the writer of a $26.94 check which had been returned by the bank have been fruitless.

Russ Yeoman, Jeffersonville, reported Tuesday night that two soft drink machines at his service station, U.S. 35 and Interstate 71, had been opened and about $3 in change removed.

Edith Bullock, 824 Clinton Ave., reported Tuesday night that she was unable to locate her purse as she prepared to leave Carnegie Public library. She stated that she may have misplaced it.

Postal Service can short-change you

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mailing a letter or package, like choosing new car options or ice cream flavors, has become more complicated. It helps to know what you're doing.

The Postal Service now offers seven different combinations of methods for getting your message or parcels to where you want them to go. If you live in Washington or New York, make that eight.

In the face of this array of services, individuals, by Postal Services officials' own admission, often get shortchanged. Efforts to appraise users of the varieties of service available are directed mainly at big-volume mailers. "That-'s where our bread and butter is," says William A. Rissell, customer services manager for the Postal Service.

"There is very good postal service if people know how and where to get it," said Rissell. "We probably have been remiss in not getting information to individuals."

And how you mail can make a difference. A one-pound book mailed 500 miles, for example, can cost $1.70 cents or 16 cents. The $1 buys priority mail, also called air parcel post, and is programmed to get the book there the next day. Seventy cents buys parcel post, which should get the book there in three days. Sixteen cents buys the special book rate, which you won't get if the clerk doesn't know the package is a book. The book rate, like parcel post, is designed to get the package there in three days.

Special delivery is another item which can be a bargain or a waste of money. It costs 60 cents extra for up to two pounds of first class and air mail or 80 cents extra for any other class the same weight.

Normally the special delivery routes leave metropolitan post offices every four hours until closing time or no later than 9 p.m. Special delivery also functions on Sundays and holidays. Otherwise, special delivery is handled like any other mail.

Thus special delivery on an air mail letter posted early in the afternoon and headed for a city within 600 miles would improve delivery by no more than a few hours, since the letter is targeted for next day delivery, anyway. But special delivery on a letter posted just before a three-day holiday can save up to two days in delivery time.

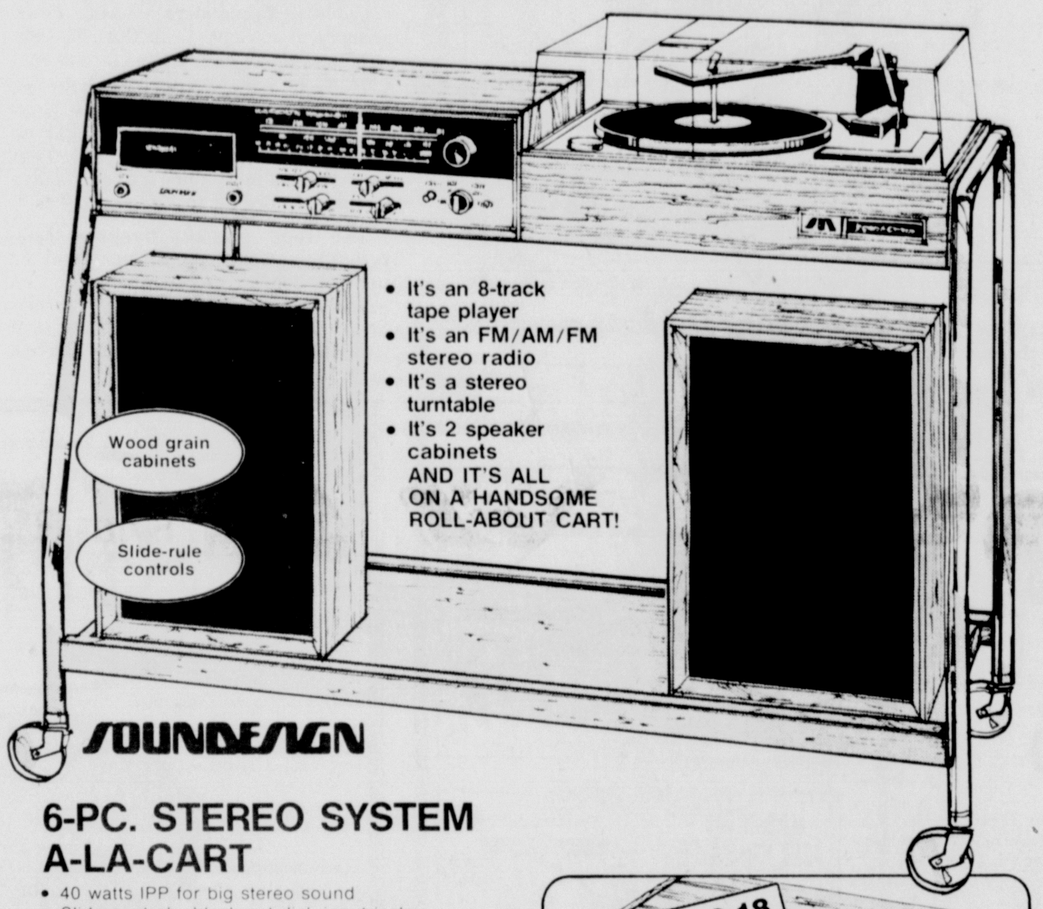

One of the options so new that it's still considered experimental is express mail. Basic express mail entails taking the letter or parcel to the post office and having the recipient pick it up on the other end. Express mail costs $1.50 for normal letters and $2.25 for parcels up to two pounds. It's available at 38 selected post offices—usually the larger ones— across the country.

Since the Postal Service aims for overnight delivery of air mail posted by 4 p.m. in special boxes or post offices, under normal circumstances express mail isn't any faster than air mail within 600 miles or to selected cities.

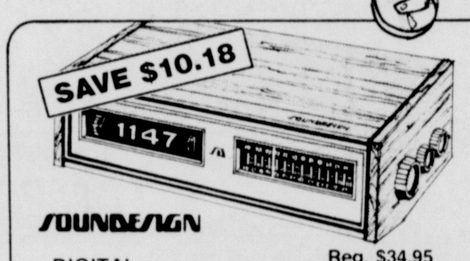

The waiteri, or fierce ones among Venezuela's Yanomamo people, resort to ritualized fights to relieve passions that might otherwise lead to aggression.

Ohio Perspective

Statewide trails planned

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bicycle trail winding through 110 miles of central Ohio has become the pilot project for an embryo state-wide trails system.

Don Olson, state lands planner for the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, said he hopes to open the first 10 miles of the bikeway next spring.

By the time the bikeway is completed, the department will have experience in acquiring varied sorts of rights of way and will be able to anticipate problems in future trails, Olson said.

"Generally, it's to evaluate potential rights of way," Olson said.

The planned bikeway will begin near Mount Gilead in Morrow County, wind southeast to Newark and through Dillon State Park, along the Muskingum River and end near McConnelsville in Morgan County.

Olson said the first section to open will run through Blackhand Gorge, near the headquarters of Dillon Lake.

He said the bikeway is a good pilot project because it involves acquiring public and private land and abandoned railroad right of way.

The experience gained there will help when the department moves to implement SB 247, the Trails Bill, passed by the last Ohio legislature, Olson said. That bill called for the department to develop a statewide trails plan.

Olson said department officials met with interested groups in a public meeting recently to get opinions on what sort of plan the state should have.

More meetings are planned next year, he said.

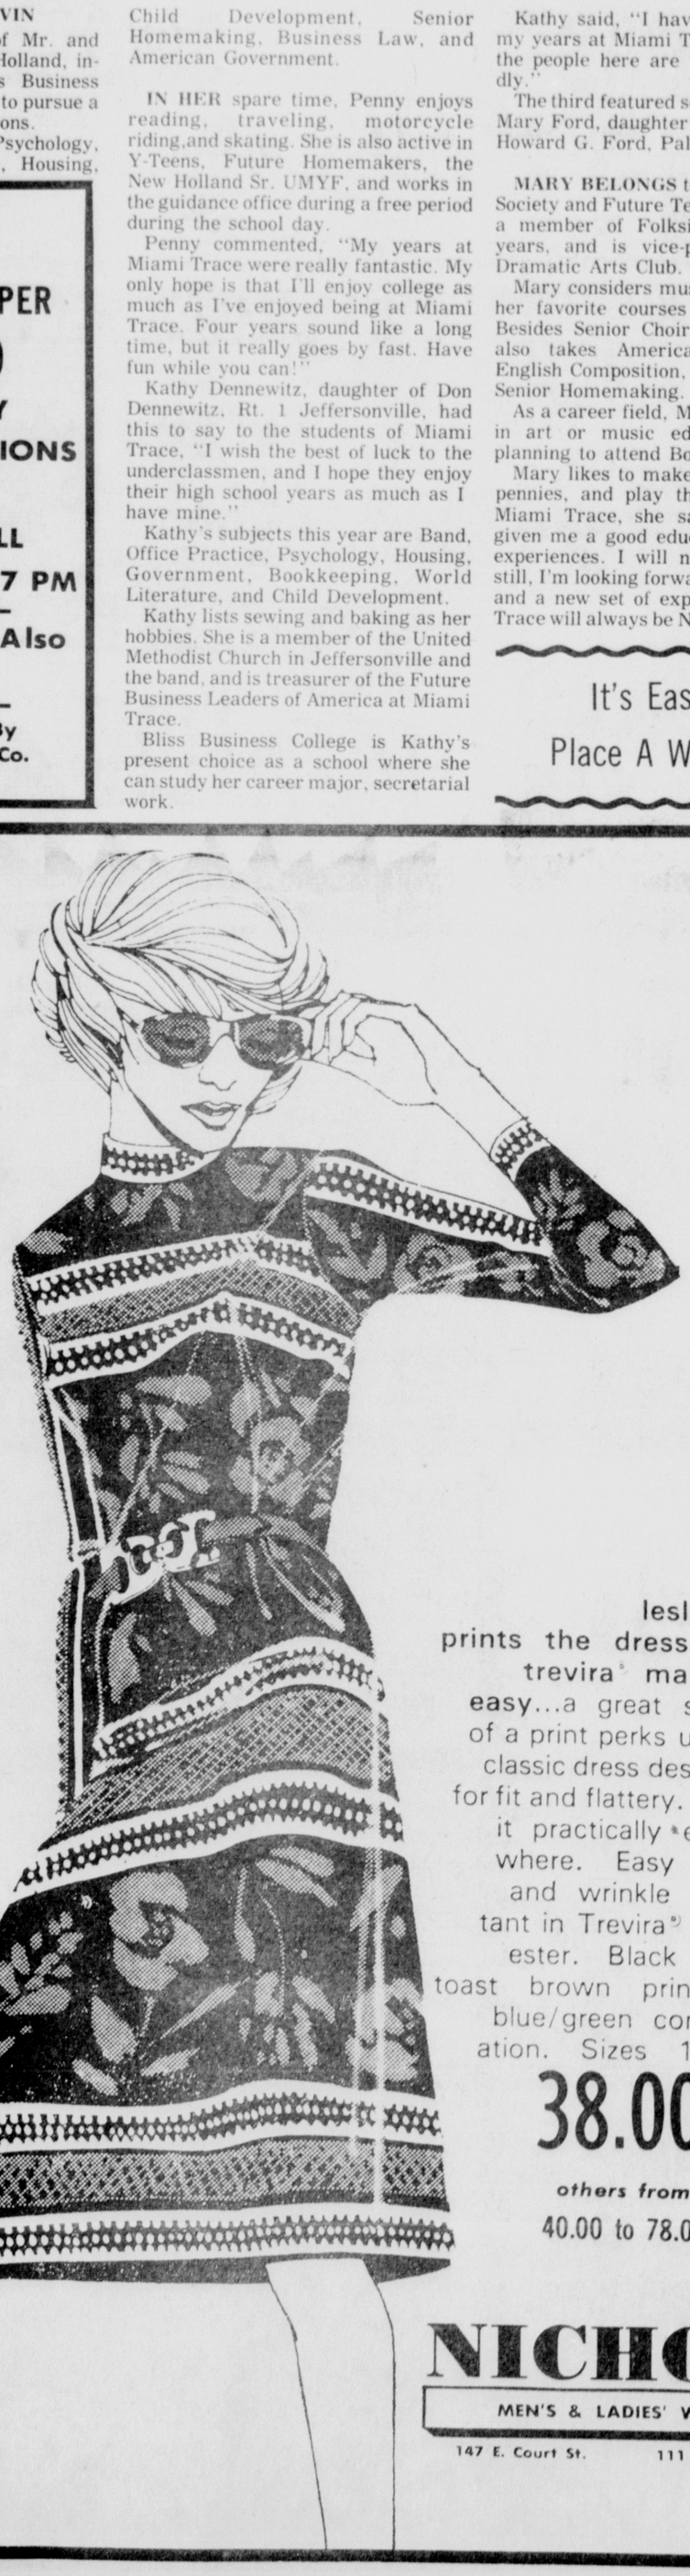

Groups working with the department on the trails plan include the American Youth Hostels, Ohio Horsemen's Council, Boy Scouts of America, the Sierra Club and the Buckeye Trail Association, Olson said.

'Romeo and Juliet' staged at Capital

"It will be funny to hear Romeo speak with an American accent," remarked Sheila Gordon, Miami Trace's AFS student from South Africa this year.

Sheila and 20 other students went to Capital University in Columbus last week to see "Romeo and Juliet" presented by the New Shakespeare Co., of San Francisco in Mees Hall Auditorium. Miss Jean Davis, Mrs. Pat Gall, and Mrs. Theresa Craig chaperoned the group.

The deepest mine in the world is the Kolar Gold Mine in Mysore, India. It is 11,500 feet deep.

The most common cause of a bad paint job is not the quality of the paint nor the lack of skill in handling a roller or a brush. It's the failure to prepare the surface properly.

What usually happens is that five minutes are spent on the preparation, several hours on the painting. Unless you have exceptionally clean walls and ceilings, almost as much time should be spent on getting the surfaces ready as in painting them.

Just how much time can't be pinpointed because of the differences in the condition of the surfaces, but five or 10 minutes are not enough even when everything seems to be visibly clean.

Dusting or vacuuming is an absolute must to rid the walls and ceiling of a room of tiny particles of dirt not visible to the naked eye.

If you are painting a kitchen, especially, it can be assumed that some grease has attached itself to the surfaces even if an exhaust fan has been used periodically.

This must be washed off with warm water and a detergent and permitted to dry thoroughly before going ahead with the job.

SINCE PAINT will not cling to a glossy surface, it is vital that all glossy spots be sanded to remove the shine.

When all or most of the surface is glossy — and sanding would be a real task — you should apply a coat of preparation liquid designed especially for this purpose.

Whether you have plaster or gypsum board walls, there may be cracks, holes or other openings that should be repaired before any paint is applied.

It's Easy To Place A Want Ad

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG — AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We recently moved into a house which has resilient floor tile in the kitchen and the family room. Although it's an old house, the tile is still in good condition and probably was put down long after the house was built.

My wife says she used a polishing wax on the tile floors in our other house, but is afraid to use it here because she read that it is bad for certain types of tile.

Can you tell me something about this and how I can tell what kind of tile it is?

A. — It is diffucult to determine the kind of tile that is already comented to a floor. Only a professional would be able to tell you after carefully looking it over — and in some cases even he might have difficulty.

Have you thought about contacting and asking the previous owners, who may have installed the tile or, if not, know what kind it is?

In any case, your wife is correct. Self-polishing waxes can be used on any kind of tile, but polishing waxes (those which must be buffed to attain a high degree of shine) have solvents that might damage certain tiles, especially asphalt.

If you are able to find what your tile is, be guided by the labels on the waxes, which tell you which floors they can and cannot be used on. If you can't find out, then use a self-polishing wax.

Q. — What's the difference between wall and ceiling paint? It seems to me they are the same and that manufacturers merely give them different labels so you have to buy two different kinds. Am I right?

A. — No. While there is no major difference, what there is can be important. For one thing, a ceiling paint usually is formulated so that it will cover in a single coat. For another, a wall paint usually is more washable.

Q. — My neighbor and I both used stain from the same can for the wood-paneled rooms in our attics. Mine came out noticeably darker. Is it because he did not mix the stain often enough?

A. — No. It's because different kinds of woods take the stain differently. Another possible factor is that he may have wiped off the excess stain more quickly than you did.

THURSDAY, NOV. 8

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

While Mars, your planet, is in excellent position, you may have to deal with others who are presently under stress and strain. Be understanding, tactful.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Stress discipline and self-control. This will be a period of sharp competition, so there's no room for self-complacency.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Steady does it now. If a plan or strategy is not bringing the results you desire, tailor it better. Listen to suggestions, but sift well before accepting.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Restlessness or overzealousness could send you off too readily on a detrimental bent, a truly wrong turn. Emphasize your inherent keenness of perception—and halt!

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Venture where a belief is sound and data readily available. In the latter connection, you may have to search more. Rewards for the effort.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

A pick-up, a brighter set of stimulating influences. Yet there goes with this, the admonition to avoid extremes, to curb emotions.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

By no means, discount the "little things," for through these you could attain your most worthwhile achievements. Study new trends, suggestions; be practical.

SCORPIO

Mixed influences. Organize talents and know-how to promote your interests more efficiently. Translate good ideas into working processes. Romance favored.

SAGITTARIUS

You may face some resistance, obstacles you had not anticipated. But you can find ways to skirt them. Mostly, it will depend upon your perception and good reasoning.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Be alert: A thoughtless move could have more serious repercussions than you could possibly imagine. Emphasize your steadfastness, practicality.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Shun controversies which merely take up time and dissipate energies. Change your mode of approach if the occasion demands.

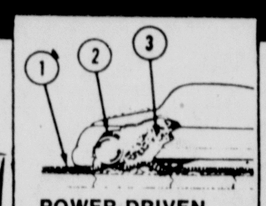

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

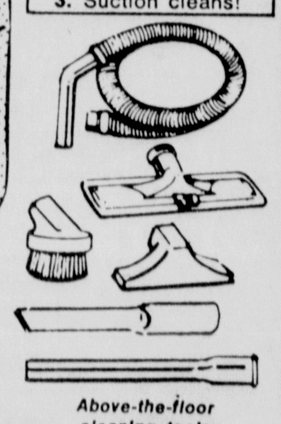

Look below the surface for more leads which will help you solve problems, get ahead faster in your occupation. Creative pursuits highly favored.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a dynamic personality, boundless ambition and a tremendous intensity of spirit. All these qualities, of course, are valuable assets with which to further your objectives but your forcefulness COULD keep family and business associates in a constant state of turmoil. You also have a strong gift of leadership and, if a man, would make an outstanding business executive or commander in any branch of the armed forces. If a woman, you are likely to be the family matriarch, whatever your age, and almost certainly are destined to lead community enterprises, political clubs or any organization involving the welfare of large groups of persons. Your financial acumen is remarkable and this fact, teamed with your soaring ambitions, should bring you a considerable amount of material success.

WAYNE ARNOLD

KENNETH PAYTON

MARION WADDLE

Waddle, Payton, Arnold county school choices

Veteran Marion L. Waddle and Kenneth A. Payton, both incumbents, and Wayne E. Arnold were successful Tuesday in their bids for election to the Fayette County Board of Education.

Waddle and Payton nearly dominated the voting as they won by comfortable margins, while Arnold, in his third attempt at a seat on the county board, defeated two declared write-in candidates.

Waddle, who was the top vote-getter with 1,922 carried 12 of Fayette County's 23 precincts and Payton carried the 11 others. The two candidates tied with 39 votes each in Selden Precinct in Jasper Township. Payton had 1,872 votes.

The 48-year-old Waddle, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., who operates a farm on Snow Hill Road, will begin his third four-year term on the Board of Education in January.

Payton, 40, Rt. 1, Washington C.H., vice president and senior loan officer at the Washington Savings Bank, is currently serving as president of the Fayette County Board of Education and will complete his first term in January.

Arnold, 31, Rt. 3, Washington C.H., who operates a farm on Palmer Road, collected a total of 1,254 votes to beat write-in candidate Marion Stockwell by a 367-vote margin.

Stockwell, Rt. 3, Washington C.,H., garnered 887 votes and George Thomas Anders, Rt. 1, Sabina, had 369 votes.

The vote totals do not reflect the results from Highland, Ross and Madison counties where a few residents cast ballots on the issues.

The terms of Payton and Waddle were to have expired in January, while Arnold will be filling the vacancy of Dwight Duff, who decided not to run again.

Federal agency studies auto pool system

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A computer-commuter study here next month may ease the gasoline shortage by squeezing more federal employes into car pools, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration says.

The car pool study will be fed into a computer at NASA's Lewis Research station in early December.

NASA Patent Counsel Norman Musial said the study will encompass 6,000 federal employes who work in downtown Cleveland. The computer's suggestions will be relayed to the workers in January.

"If we can double the people-per-auto density from the current 1.4 we can cut the number of cars in our parking lot from 2,300 to about 1,200," Musial said.

"There's no telling how much gas that would save," he added.

IBW votes teamster affiliation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The International Brewery Workers (IBW) and the Teamsters Union ended 70 years of membership rivalry here Tuesday when the IBW gave landslide support to a merger of the two unions beginning Dec. 1.

The peace treaty was something that "should have happened 20 years ago," said Karl Feller, president of the 40,000-member IBW at a news conference. He said the merger will be completed by the end of 1974.

He said the Teamsters general executive board notified him Tuesday morning that they have gone on record as seeking re-affiliation with the Canadian Labor Council.

The Teamsters left the CLC in 1960. Schoessling said the CLC would consider the request Dec. 11 in Ottawa at its quarterly meeting.

Close to 500 delegates representing locals in this country and Canada voted 26,129-4,756 for merger.

Deep snow piles higher in nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow from autumn storms piled up to a foot or more in the northern Rockies and the eastern Great Lakes region today, and zero cold added an extra sting to the weather in parts of the West.

In Montana, the accumulation reached 13 inches at Livingston, 12 at Great Falls and 9 at Missoula. Mullan, Idaho, had 10 inches.

Rapid City, S.D., was whitened with a 3-inch snowfall and farther east at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., 4 inches of snow piled up.

Fair skies dominated the Southwest and Southeast, but drizzle and fog crept from the Texas and southern Louisiana coasts northward over Oklahoma and Kansas.

Domenico, Morrow win city board positions

Incumbent Fred. L. Domenico and Philip M. Morrow won a four-candidate race for seats on the Washington C.H. Board of Education Tuesday.

Domenico, 51, of 137 River Rd., led all candidates with 1,194 votes in winning his fourth term on the city board. Domenico, a former board president and a field underwriter for the New York Life Insurance Co., carried the voting in 12 of the city's 19 precincts.

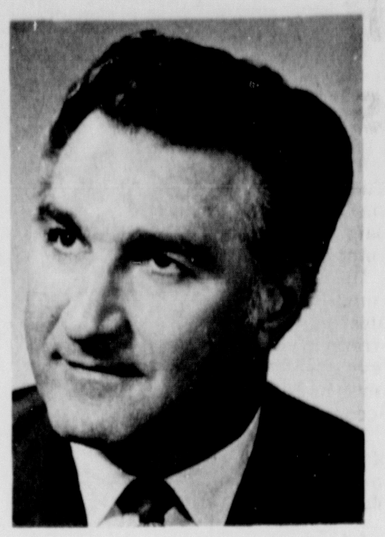

Morrow, 43, of 644 Warren Ave., won a tight race with Mrs. Kathryn G. Lee and will fill the vacancy of board member Mark J. Schaeper who chose not to seek re-election. Morrow, a personnel advisor at Armco Steel here, carried three precincts while Mrs. Lee carried four, but Morrow actually won his first bid for public office with a fine showing in the city's Third Ward with a total of 416 votes compared with 275 for Mrs. Lee.

Only 168 votes separated Morrow and Mrs. Lee. Morrow polled 1,128 and Mrs. Lee, 44, of 521 E. Market St., collected 960 votes.

Voting was extremely close in the city's First Ward as Mrs. Lee led the four-candidate field with 208, followed by 187 for Morrow and 181 for Domenico.

Morrow will join Domenico, James Wilson, Robert Highfield and Eugene Bienz on the city board in January.

Networks face federal lawsuits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is pursuing major antitrust suits against the three commercial television networks despite fears that the public may question its motives.

CBS, NBC and ABC lost the first round in the 18-month battle when a federal judge last week denied their motion to dismiss or delay the case. The order cleared the way for government attorneys to begin the lengthy process of obtaining and examining network records.

The government contends that the networks have illegally monopolized the production of TV entertainment programs and seeks a court order prohibiting the networks from producing their own shows.

The government suits claim that the networks have shut off competition in the production of entertainment programs by producing many themselves, and by retaining ownership interests in programs they buy from independent producers.

The FCC has prohibited the networks from holding financial interests in independently-produced programs, but the Justice Department wants to go further and ban in-house production of entertainment programs.

Questions about the motives of the court action were renewed by the disclosure of White House memos proposing pressure tactics against the networks and other news media the administration considered unfair.

However, Justice Department sources say that President Nixon's well-known antipathy toward the networks actually delayed the suits.

The antitrust division had been preparing the cases since the mid-1950s but two attorneys general, William P. Rogers in the late 1950s and Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach in 1964, decided not to file the suits.

After Nixon took office, Richard W. McLaren was installed as assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division. At some point, he recommended to then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell that the suits be filed.

Sources said that Mitchell demurred for fear that the action "would be seen as an attempt to muzzle the press."

That was at the time that former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was harshly criticizing the news media.

In the 18 months since the suits were filed, the department has taken no legal action against network news programming and sources say none is in the works.

Ford union vote close

DETROIT (AP) — While the United Auto Workers turned its contract sights to General Motors, it found mounting troubles with Ford Motor Co. workers, where 185,000 must ratify a tentative accord reached last month.

Many of Ford's 37,000 skilled-trades workers have indicated they're not happy with parts of the contract.

UAW president Leonard Woodcock said on Tuesday that ratification votes have been completed in about 25 per cent of the UAW-Ford locals "and it is very close" among skilled tradesmen.

Skilled workers include those in such trades as plumbing, pipefitting, steelworking, carpentry and tool and die making.

"They can vote down its application to them," Woodcock said, but ratification by the company's 148,000 production and parts workers would stand.

Board of Health sees zero balance

The Fayette County Board of Health Tuesday approved expenses of the successful general health levy campaign which appeared before all county voters on Tuesday's ballot.

Dr. William E. Covert, health commissioner, said board members also reviewed the 1973 budget and stressed the need for the additional tax levy. Dr. Covert said there will be a zero balance in the general health account at the end of the year.

The board also held the first reading of a new policy regarding nursing care in the home and reviewed the family planning program and its relation to the Office of Economic Opportunity, the sponsoring agent for the last three years. Funding for the family planning program is being changed from the OEO to the federal Health, Education and Welfare program, Dr. Covert said.

Board members also reviewed a traffic pattern for services rendered by each division of the county health department. Dr. Covert pointed out that there is less than a 10 per cent variation in traffic flow within each of the departments, ranging from sanitation to vital statistics.

He added that the department's services are very well balanced and there's no emphasis on one certain area. The Health Department conducted a 10-day survey which disclosed that the greatest number of visits to one area was 23 and the lowest was 19.

History buff speaker at Rotary meet

Fayette County has had its share of historic and unusual events. At least that's what members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club were informed of at their noon luncheon Tuesday in the Country Club.

Kenneth Craig, a well-known Washington C.H. history buff who is always full of stories about Fayette County's past, told Rotarians a number of entertaining tales concerning Fayette County and some of its former residents.

Craig said that A.P. Warner, inventor of the automobile speedometer, was born and raised in Jeffersonville. During his years in the Fayette County village Warner lived near a blacksmith shop and became intrigued by those works. He later formed the famous Stewart-Warner Co., a well-known automotive firm.

Craig, a former school teacher in Fayette County, told Rotarians that he had a youngster in his class at the old Madison Mills High School who graduated in 1940, joined the U. S. Army and was later captured by the enemy and placed in a German prisoner of war camp. While in the camp, the Fayette County soldier met another prisoner who just happened to be a 1941 Madison Mills graduate.

IN THE SERIES of interesting stories, Craig said that Nancy Hanks Lincoln, the mother of Abraham Lincoln, died of what was called milk sickness. He said he became interested in the sickness and later found five graves at the Cochran Cemetery on New Martinsburg Road where five children in the same family had died during the same week in 1837 of the same illness. Craig said three of the sons died on consecutive days and a Fayette County judge decided to investigate further. The judge discovered that a white snake root plant had caused the fatal poisoning.

He briefly mentioned the Underground Railroad in Fayette County during the Civil War years and told of the local homes that were involved. He talked about a freed slave named Gus West who later beecame a prominent landowner in Fayette County.

Tim Dove and Sue Moore, both WSHS students, explained the 30-hour fast period that will be staged here to dramatize the CROP campaign and asked monetary support from the Rotary Club.

Visiting Rotarians were Ralph Rich, of Mount Sterling, Merrill Kaufman, of Delaware, Sam Marting Jr., Britt, Iowa, and Cecil Cartwright, Yazoo City, Miss. Paul Smith was a guest of Sam Marting Sr. David Ellis, of WSHS, was the only student guest.

Ask no talk with Saxbe

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Slot machine magnate Sam W. Klein of Cleveland has asked that attorney general designate U.S. Sen. William Saxbe not be interviewed by Nevada gaming officials, the Dayton Daily News reported Tuesday.

In a copyrighted story, the newspaper quoted an official at Klein's Bally Manufacturing Corp. in Chicago as saying Klein "wants to spare" Saxbe comment on their relationship.

The Ohio newspaper said Klein, whose name has been linked with underworld crime figures, listed the Ohio senator as a reference earlier this year on an application for a Nevada gaming license.

The Dayton newspaper previously reported that Klein had listed Saxbe as a reference on a 1969 application which later was withdrawn. The newspaper reported Monday that the FBI was investigating a link between the two men.

Saxbe had been a stockbroker in Bally, but reportedly sold his holdings in 1970.

Farm loans for storage cut sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — A series of money-saving moves by the Nixon administration has reduced sharply the amount of loans to farmers for building grain-storage and drying facilities.

The Agriculture Department says those loans, by the Commodity Credit Corp., totaled $22.9 million during the first three months of the current fiscal year, which began last July 1.

That compared with $42.7 million loaned during the first quarter of the 1972-73 fiscal year, the corporation said Tuesday in a financial statement.

A year ago, as part of a general budget-tightening by the administration, the department reduced the amount a farmer could borrow from the corporation to install grain drying and storage from $35,000 maximum to $25,000. Other restrictions also were imposed.

Last Sept. 13, the department boosted interest rates on the organization's loans to nearly nine per cent from six per cent. Also, it was announced, farmers were required to increase their down payments from 15 per cent to 30 per cent.

About two billion bushels of farm grain storage has been built under the loan program since it began in 1949, with loans totaling about $800 million.

Warn of shortage in home fuel oil

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has warned anticipated home buyers they may not have heating fuels this year.

Edmund J. Turk said in a statement issued Tuesday the cautioning applies, too, to mobile homes which use propane gas for heating.

Allocation of the fuels for heating is up to the federal government, he said.

"At this time we're unable to guarantee that anyone who purchases a mobile home or a new home which depends on fuel oil will be able to get the fuel which he needs," Turk said.

FULL HOUSE — Lady Duchess, a black and tan registered German Shepherd owned by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Daugherty, just dares anyone to come closer to her big family than the length of the chain on her collar. She gave birth to 14 puppies — seven boys and seven girls — at Daugherty's gasoline service station, on W. Temple St. at the railroad crossing. One died soon after they were born. Their father, Big Lucky, a black-tipped silver registered German shepherd, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lightner. Mr. and Mrs. Daugherty said they plan to give the pups to "anyone who will give them good homes." To the suggestion that they could get a good price for registered German shepherd pups, Mrs. Daugherty replied emphatically "we just couldn't stand to sell even one of them." This was Lady Duchess' second litter' there were only seven in the first. Lady Duchess is the service station watchdog.

Prayer breakfast series continues

"God's Visitor from Outer Space was the theme of the message of the pastor, the Rev. Charles J. Richmond, during the meditation period at the weekly prayer breakfast Tuesday at the South Side Church of Christ.

The attendance of 109 students and teachers was slightly less than that at the last several breakfasts.

David Bryan, a senior, and Lu Ann Graham, of WSHS, led group singing, accompanied by Linda Hollingsworth, a WSHS sophomore. The invocation was given by Chuck Oesterle, a WSHS senior.

Following breakfast, which was prepared by Lucille Litz, Karen Massie, La Vonne Creamer, Fern Hollingsworth and Frances Starkey, Bruce Gilmore gave the student devotional and Andy Merritt the benediction.

Rail car shortage hurts nation

By DAVID BURKE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Record freight shipments, spurred by a booming economy and a sharp rise in grain exports, have put a severe strain on the nation's railway freight system, causing some critical car shortages.

While the problem apparently has had no major impact so far on consumers, a number of manufacturers report difficulties in obtaining enough freight cars. Some have been switched to trucks.

Government figures indicate the current shortage involves some 33,000 cars a day, less than 2 per cent of the nation's 1.7 million car fleet but still a significant number.

While all types of freight cars are affected, among the hardest hit are covered hoppers used for transporting grain. Large wheat deals with the Soviet Union and other countries have greatly boosted grain shipments, which are currently running about 32 per cent above last year's levels.

"The worst car shortage in the nation's history came earlier this year with the movement of Russian wheat. Now with new bumper crops it looks like we are on the brink of it again," said a spokesman for the Interstate Commerce Commission.

To meet the crush, railroads have been forced to assign livestock cars and open-topped coal hoppers to grain shippers, causing car shortages elsewhere down the line.

"They used everything possible, even regular boxcars normally used for appliances and furniture," said Bill Goldstein, general manager of the Chicago Shippers Association, a nationwide group which handles bulk shipping for large retail chains. "Still the situation was critical."

Some observers blame part of the problem on the financial conditions of some of the railroads, which prevents them from buying enough new cars. However, the Association of American Railroads, a trade group, says that orders for new and rebuilt cars in the first eight months are more than double 1972 levels.

"Adding more cars to the nation's fleet isn't the total answer," said a spokesman for Burlington Northern. "The whole transportation pipeline is not geared to handle the tremendous amounts of grain we have been pushing into it in the last 15 months."

Grain is only part of the problem. Because of the strong economy, total freight shipments this year are so far running about 9 per cent ahead of last year's records.

Burlington Northern, for example, says it is short on virtually all kinds of cars, while the Penn Central and Chessie System acknowledge a shortage of cars used for shipping steel.

A spokesman for Ford Motor Co. said, "We have been experiencing a shortage of rail cars for the past year. As a result, we've had to turn to other forms of transportation, mainly trucks, and pay a premium for this."

And R.J. Breitinger, traffic and transportation director for Westinghouse Electric, said: "We're being affected, but we're not missing any shipments. We just have to spend a great deal of time finding rail cars to ship with."

Anderson family to dominate Milledgeville policy-making

Following Tuesday's election, the Anderson Family Council" is capable of providing the Milledgeville Council with a quorum, and a quorum of Council will soon be necessary for the selection of a replacement for Mayor Johnny Dale Blair, who is now obliged to resign.

Ronnie Anderson, an incumbent who was re-elected Tuesday for another term as Milledgeville councilman will be reunited with his brother, Larry, whose term on the law-making body has not yet expired. The two will be joined in policy making by Ronnie's wife, Anna, who was also elected to serve on Council.

Blair, elected to a four-year term as mayor two years ago, is forced to resign because he was elected to the Jasper Township Board of Trustees and cannot hold both positions.

The ex-mayor will join James R. Pierson, incumbent trustee, who successfully sought re-election. Arnett Kelley, the other candidate for the two openings on the board of trustees, fell 11 votes short of Blair's tally. Pierson had 227 votes, Blair 133 and Kelley 122.

Four of the six seats on the Milledgeville Council were vacant and they will be filled by incumbent Franklin D. Culwell and Wilbur Anders Jr., in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

IN NEARBY OCTA, father and son ran for two of four seats open on the Village Council. Elmer Kingery Sr., maintained paternal prestige by drawing 26 votes to Kingery Jr.'s 25. Donald Hendricks, a write-in candidate received 20 votes, and the fourth seat remains empty.

Bloomingburg's blank ballot provided the Village Council with three incumbents and Daniel H. Thompson, all via the write-in process. David R. Johnson, Michael Simpson and Ray C. Deere are the incumbents.

A fifth write-in candidate, G.H. Biddle, was elected to serve on the Board of Public Affairs. Only the five were eligible for office since no other candidates filed petitions for placement on the ballot or for write-in status.

Three positions in Jeffersonville were left open when only three candidates stepped forward to fill six vacancies. Although four persons were to be elected to Council, there were only three candidates. Gordon McCarty and Larry Milstead, incumbents, retained their seats, but Richard Thornberry a newcomer to Council, received the most votes with 58.

No one declared himself a candidate for treasurer, nor did anyone express interest in becoming a member of the Board of Public Affairs.

In the only contested trustee race incumbent, Jack Cubbage finished a mere seven votes ahead of Roy E. Coe to retain his seat on the Union Township governing body. Cubbage received 348 votes to Coe's 341. The other seat was retained by Ronald J. Campbell who led all candidates with 401 votes.

OTHER TRUSTEESHIPS two in each township, went to unopposed candidates.

In Concord Township Robert F. Garland received 177 votes; Charles E. Ellis, 155.

In Madison Township Russell D. Lindsay received 141 votes; Lawrence E. Grim, 132.

Voting turnout short of guess

The turnout for the 1973 off-year election in Fayette County fell just short of a conservative estimate made by Board of Elections officials last week.

A total of 5,868 ballots were cast in Fayette County Tuesday, which was just 132 short of the 6,000 prediction. The turnout, termed light, more than doubled the turnout for the May election in Fayette County when only state issues appeared on the ballot.

Ironically, Tuesday's election and the 1969 election when city councilmen were also elected show some similarities. This year's election produced only 285 more voters than the one four years ago when 5,583 cast ballots.

The first results filtered into the Board of Elections office at 8:50 p.m. Precinct F in the city's First Ward was the first to report while the last results were not received until about 11:30 p.m. from Perry Township.

APPARENTLY there was some keen voter interest in Perry Township where a liquor question was the primary issue. Election officials reported that several voters were standing in line at the polls in Perry Township located at the Township Hall in New Martinsburg. The liquor issue was turned down.

Women candidates fared quite well in this year's election as Mrs. Bertha McCullough was elected to a City Council term and Mrs. Nancy M. Black finished sixth in the balloting for four members to serve on City Council. Mrs. Kathryn G. Lee rounded out the women candidates and turned in a strong showing in her bid for a seat on the Washington C.H. City Board of Education by collecting 960 votes.

There apparently was some confusion regarding the write-in candidates for the Fayette County Board of Education. It was reported that the names of the declared write-in hopefuls were found on Township trustee ballots.

The Courthouse lobbies were unusually quiet for the biggest part of the evening as just a few curious persons mingled while the results were being received. Most of the onlookers were keenly interested in the City Council race.

Walkout continues

At least 30 persons were arrested on minor charges in connection with the walkout that began Monday after suspension of 120 workers.

No negotiations were reported scheduled.

The arrests came when police dispatched tactical squads to the plant to control picket lines and remove cars from blocking entrances to the plant.

Charles Bigrigg, president of Local 20202 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said the strike was unauthorized by the union because of a no-strike clause in the contract with Western Electric.

Paul Narcross named as Greenfield mayor

GREENFIELD — Paul (Bo) Narcross, former Council president who has been serving as mayor for the past 10 months, was elected as Greenfield's mayor by a comfortable margin Tuesday.

Narcross, who replaced Mayor Rowland T. Craig after the latter resigned because of health reasons, defeated Democrat Jack Boyll, a former City Council president, by a 658-485 vote.

Incumbents Wendell George and Ray Cameron along with write-in George Coler were the only candidates for three at-large seats.

Another incumbent, Republican Robert Trent, was defeated by Larry Chapman 137-113 in the Ward IV race and incumbent Robert Williams won handily over Ronald Haines for the Council president seat by a 696-365 count.

Ray Devitt, a Republican, repeated as city auditor and was unopposed. Alice Jury was also unopposed for the city treasurer post. Devitt garnered 830 votes and Mrs. Jury received 876 votes.

Voters in Greenfield also cast ballots for school board members. Only three candidates filed for three vacant seats.

The unopposed school board candidates and their complimentary vote totals were Ralph W. Phillips (1,098), Ted Dumbauld (1,034) and Daniel Thompson (1,183).

Minor traffic mishap investigated by police

A minor accident was investigated by the Police Department Tuesday afternoon.

George M. Smallwood, 16, New Holland, said he was following another vehicle in the curb lane on W. Court Street as the car ahead began a right turn. When it stopped in the middle of its turn, Smallwood swerved left, striking a car in the center lane which was driven by Gladys K. Larkins, 54, Rt. 6, Washington C.H. Damage was minor and there were no injuries.

YUAN MOUN-RU

Former prisoner of Chinese Reds will speak here

The thaw in relations between the United States and Communist China will be the subject of an address by a former Chinese Red Guard, Miss Yuan Moun-Ru, at Sunnyside Elementary School Saturday night.

Her appearance at 8 p.m. is sponsored by the John Birch Society of Fayette County. The public is welcome to attend, and tickets are available at Pensyl's Camera Shop.

Miss Yuan, whose subject will be "I Accuse Mao—Let's Cut the Red China Connection", is an electrical engineering graduate of Chungking University and was sentenced to a labor reform camp in Communist China after being denounced by the regime as a "rightist". She escaped in 1969 and made her way to the United States where she testified before a congressional committee about a Red Chinese drug offensive against this country.

Miss Yuan charges that "The ping-pong diplomacy being conducted by Mao Tse-tung and Henry Kissinger is lulling the American people into a false sense of security regarding the true intentions of the Communists. You don't have to see a tiger in action to know it's dangerous. Too many Americans are accepting the new policy of accommodation toward China without realizing that the tiger has not changed its stripes."

"The Red Chinese are today the most vicious, outspoken, and determined enemies of the United States anywhere in the world," Miss Yuan warns.

Securities industry eyes central market

By JOSH FITZHUGH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pushed by a Congress anxious for reform, the nation's fragmented securities industry is moving slowly and painfully toward a central market system designed to serve the American investor as fairly and efficiently as possible.

Despite continued controversy and disagreement within the industry itself, the first step in such a central market — a composite ticker tape to record the sale of securities anywhere in the United States — could begin to operate as soon as next summer.

Further steps foreseen by most observers include a composite tape for bid and ask prices, and central facilities for paperwork on securities transactions and handling of stock certificates.

The goal "is a network of brokers and dealers, operating both from offices and on exchange floors, linked together by an electronic communications network and subject to a common regulatory framework," according to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Though technologically the central market could begin relatively soon, the controversy now is over who will have access to it and on what terms. "We want to know the rules of the games before we start playing," said a spokesman for the New York Stock Exchange, the nation's biggest auction market for securities.

"Like motherhood and apple pie, everyone here is in favor of a central market," said one broker intimately involved in current negotiations. "The only question is how."

Resolving the "how" requires the delicate balancing of strong and varied interests throughout the industry and within the government itself.

Many stocks today are traded, auction-style, on the New York Stock Exchange, the American Stock Exchange, and 11 regional exchanges. In addition there is the over-the-counter market, in which dealer firms buy and sell thousands of stocks not listed on the exchanges.

Because of the tremendous increase in block trading, particularly by such institutions as banks and pension funds, a dealer-operated "third market" has developed to buy and sell large quantities of listed issues away from exchange floors. Finally there is the so-called "fourth market," where institutions simply swap stock among themselves at whatever price is mutually acceptable.

Why is the central market needed? To assure greater efficiency and give the investor access to the best available price, observers agree. Proliferating markets have caused inequities between markets and tended to confuse and befuddle the average investor.

For an illustration, take the stock of XYZ Corp., traded both on the New York and Philadelphia's PBW stock exchanges. Although XYZ may be quoted at two different prices simultaneously on both exchanges, the investor may not be able to get the better price because exchange rules prohibit his broker from operating on both exchanges.

Likewise, XYZ trading may be halted on the Big Board because of an imbalance of buy or sell orders, even as it continues to move on the regional exchanges.

The third-market can be even more frustrating to the average investor. There, large blocks of XYZ moved at undisclosed prices. For example an institution may be able to buy XYZ at $25 a share from a third market firm, while the Exchange ticker shows a price of $25.25. The small investor must also pay a brokerage fee, while the dealer's commission is included in his quoted price.

As a Senate subcommittee which has studied the issue concluded, "We believe that all investors are entitled to the best market available, given the characteristics of the particular stock."

To achieve this, most government officials believe in "regulating in" more competition among the different markets. As former SEC Chairman Bradford Cook said, "We want the chips, that is, the profits, to fall where they may in fair and open competititon between markets."

But to some in the industry, closer government supervision — even in the name of competition — means more red tape and lower profits.

Some government intervention seems inevitable, however.

Americans active in Egypt despite low official profile

By C.C. MINICLIER
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO (AP) — It's not easy for a stranger to find the American diplomatic presence in Egypt; it appears on page 69 of the diplomatic list under "Espagne" and is identified by the red and gold flag of Spain.

Cairo broke formal diplomatic relations with Washington with the 1967 war, and Spain has been the official American representative here ever since. But its embassy shelters a small American diplomatic mission, just as the Indian Embassy in Washington provides a cover for the Egyptian government's representatives.

Despite the low diplomatic profile, Americans are all over Egypt, prospecting for and producing oil, digging for archeological treasures, examining the sick, teaching and doing business.

Country taxis tend to be 25-year-old Dodges or Chevrolets. Egypt Air, the national airline, has just bought three more Boeings to add to its mixed Soviet and American fleet.

Three billion cigarette filters a year are to be produced by new machines from America. American cigarettes continue to be popular, even at $1.25 a pack. American movies, television shows and Time and Newsweek also are popular with the Egyptians.

Some 2,285 Egyptians went to the United States in the first seven months of 1973 as tourists or students and another 617 obtained visas to emigrate to the United States. As many Egyptians have studied at Harvard, Princeton or Yale as at Cambridge or Oxford.

There is an American university in Cairo two blocks from the Nile, and a TWA advertisement with the American flag is posted on a railroad underpass on the road to the pyramids. Chicago House, run by the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, is on the Nile at Luxor.

Fifty American firms have offices in Cairo or Alexandria.

American oilmen are operating in the Gulf of Suez, opposite the battlefront in the southern Sinai Desert. They have prospected in the Western Desert and soon will be looking for oil off the Nile Delta in the Mediterranean. An Egyptian official pointed out that other Arab countries already have their oil, but Egypt is still searching and needs American know-how and money to help.

MT faces revived Eagles in finale

BY DENNIS STAPLETON
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Big games are everything to a team. They make for good team spirit and morale. It provides the incentive for a player to give more than the so-called 100 per cent. It stimulates fan support for the battling players. Big games can also prove to be most hazardous.

If a team, such as the Miami Trace Panthers, would have defeated the Washington C.H. Blue Lions last week, well, feelings would certainly be different than they are now. But then, all is not lost just in one game. The Panthers can still come out second in the South Central Ohio League with a victory over Madison Plains this Friday. Second to whom someone asks? Second only to the No. 1 team in the state in both wire polls. That is a pretty darn good finish.

After losing such a crucial game as the one last week, a team is certainly left out in the cold. Hopes of a league championship floated down the drain along with the cold rain left on Miami Trace Field last Friday evening. But the pride of a good football team must remain intact in order for that team to keep face with itself. And a good football team indeed will be put against the test when the Panthers travel to Madison Plains for the 8 p.m. contest.

The Golden Eagles have been bantered all year for a lack of quality players. But the tide has turned for the Madison Plains players.

Against Wilmington the ridiculed Eagles smashed the hopes of a strong Clinton County team. Madison Plains, a dreadful underdog in almost every game this season, popped Wilmington 32-30 last Friday night.

So see the difference in big games. The Madison Plains team is coming off a big win while the Panthers are licking the wounds from a defeat.

Head coach Dean Porter, in his 14th season, has brought his Eagles a long way from the start of the season. Even though a 2-3 record in the league and a 2-7 record overall is not that impressive the size of the Eagles is surprising.

The offensive team, described as punchless early in the season, drilled Wilmington for 32 points in its last contest. Balancing the attack for the Eagles are running backs Thom Barker and Geoff Smith. Against Wilmington Smith scored three touchdowns on the ground. Barker tallied 82 yards in 20 carries against the Clinton Countians.

AGAINST A powerful Wilmington team Madison Plains picked up 293 total yards with 120 of those yards coming through the airways.

In the Wilmington contest the Golden Eagles managed only three offensive plays in the first quarter as compared to 20 plays for the Hurricanes. But the remaining three quarters had the Eagles with 19, 15, and 16 plays respectively, as compared to Wilmington's 12,10 and 9 plays.

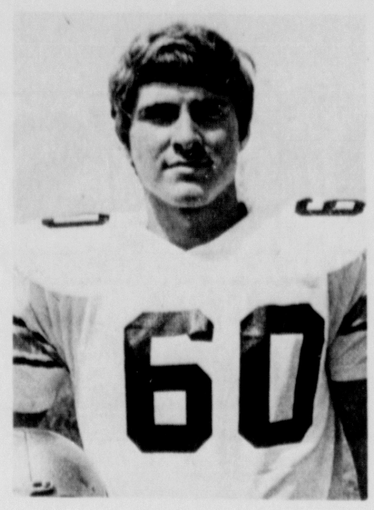

Coach Porter reported on Tuesday that his boys had come a long way since the beginning of the season and are a completely different team now. Against Hillsboro the Eagles coughed up the ball eight times. But, in the rain-soaked Wilmington game, the players didn't turn the ball over to the Hurricanes at all.

Before Tuesday's practice head coach Fred Zechman reported that there weren't any injuries that would keep his players from participating in the last game of the season.

DOUG FORD

GREG WIELAND

MT's Players of Week

Two seniors have been selected as Miami Trace's Players of the Week for their performances in last Friday's 36-12 loss to Washington C.H.

The top offensive honors went to fullback Doug Ford, while Greg Wieland polled the most points in the defensive category. Both players are tri-captains for the Panthers this season.

Ford, a bruising fullback, curned out 69 yards in only seven attempts. The majority of Ford's yardage came from well-executed draw plays. Several times quarterback Tom Riley slipped the ball off to Ford without the Washington C.H. team knowing it until Ford had picked up big yardage.

THE PANTHERS also received good efforts from junior tightend Jay Mossbarger and running back Jeff Sagar. On numerous occasions both Mossbarger and Sagar broke loose for pass completions.

Defensively, Greg Wieland collected 42 points, the most points received by any player this season. Wieland, coming off an injury the last three weeks, played inspired football against a very physical Washington C.H. team. The strong linebacker garnered seven individual tackles and had assistance on 12 other stops. Included in those tackles were four take-downs behind the line of scrimage.

Finishing second and third to Wieland were John Woodrow and Tom Pfaff respectively. Woodrow played his best game to date against some pretty rugged opponents. Pfaff's touchdown-saving tackles from his defensive backfield position kept Miami Trace in the game in the early going.

The Panthers "big lick" awards went to Ford on defense for a jarring tackle on the first play of the game. The hard smack by Ford caused a Washington C.H. fumble. On offense the award went to Dan Ryan for a crackback block on an invert man.

Miami Trace is tied with Wilmington for second place honors in the South Central Ohio League and finish out the season against a rejuvinated Madison Plains team Friday night at Madison Plains.

'Wild Card' race seen by Brown

CINCINNATI (AP)—With six games remaining in the National Football League's regular season, Cincinnati Bengals' Coach Paul Brown says the race is on for the "wild card" spot.

"It's a five-team race," said Brown Tuesday as the Bengals regrouped from a 38-10 loss to Dallas—the worst setback in 50 games for Cincinnati.

"We're not out of it, not by a long shot," said Brown.

Cincinnati dropped to 4-4 for the season. The Bengals wrap up a three-game road trip Sunday against the Buffalo Bills then return home for a fourgame stand. Cincinnati is unbeaten at home in six games, including three exhibition outings.

Brown isn't ready yet to concede a division title to once-beaten Pittsburgh. The Steelers are 7-1.

As far as Sunday's meeting with Buffalo, Bengals' safety Neal Craig says: "we welcome it. But we'd better not forget that they still play with 11 men."

Golf Tourney doesn't draw big names

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — United States Open champion Johnny Miller has joined a growing list of big-name absentees for the richest golf tournament in history.

The new World Open begins a two-week, 144-hole run Thursday at the Pinehurst Country Club. It offers one-half million dollars in total prizes with $100,000 to the winner.

Both figures represent records. The biggest previous prize money for a single event was $300,000 by two recent Japanese tournaments and in the Dow Jones Open, a onetime event played in New Jersey in 1970.

The huge prizes have drawn a field of 240 professionals, with more than 20 countries represented.

But the absentees include Jack Nicklaus, the present PGA champion and leading money winner; Tom Weiskopf, winner of the British Open and five other events this year, and Lee Trevino, who scored his third victory of the season just last Sunday in Australia.

None of them entered. Miller pulled out Tuesday. He told tournament officials he has influenza and would be unable to play. Dave Hill and former PGA champion Ray Floyd also withdrew. Hill wasn't completely recovered from a knee operation, and Floyd has tendonitis.

"It looks like there's $100,000 just sitting there that no one wants," mused Arnold Palmer, the 44-year-old who ranks as one of the top attractions in the tournament that stretches through Nov. 17.

Some of the other leading contenders in the bulky field include rookie sensation Ben Crenshaw, the winner of last week's San Antonio-Texas Open; South African Gary Player; Australian Bruce Crampton; Argentian's aging Roberto de Vicenzo; Masters champion Tommy Aaron; England's Peter Oosterhuis; ageless Sam Snead, and all but a handful of the 1973 winners of regular tour events.

Harper sparks Tiger triumph

SPRINGFIELD — Lowell Harper, Wittenberg University's star senior tight end from Washington C.H., was the man of the hour last Saturday as the unbeaten and seventh-ranked Tigers won their eighth game of the season.

Harper caught a vital 19-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Lloyd Ball to give the Tigers the go-ahead score in a 31-14 romp over last year's Ohio Conference and Stagg Bowl champion Heidelberg College.

Wittenberg was trailing 14-9 when Harper made his scoring reception.

Harper, who was switched to tight end midway last season from fullback, now has a total of 13 pass receptions for 257 yards, or an average of 19.8 yards per catch.

In addition to his touchdown, Harper help set up two more Tiger scores with key catches.

Wittenberg's win over Heidelberg lifted the Tigers into the Ohio Conference game Nov. 17 at Marietta College.

Pistol match set Saturday

The Fayette County Fish and Game Association will conduct a pistol match starting at noon Saturday at the association lodge on Stafford Road.

Don Leisure, chairman, said events will be conducted for several different categories of handguns. Cash prizes will be awarded in each event and the public is invited to participate or watch.

Pistol matches are now being held regularly on the second Sunday of each month at the association range.

Ohio high school

Sheared gridders still win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Turmoil over haircuts swirled around the Dayton Jefferson High School football team last week, but the Broncos still pushed the state's longest current winning streak to 38 games.

Jefferson Coach Vince Shelby ordered his team to get their hair cut or they wouldn't play against Germantown Valley View.

"I told them I didn't care if they won or lost," Shelby said, "they weren't playing for me looking like that."

Three players didn't play. They refused to cut their hair. Several others had their hair trimmed in the lockerroom before a 14-0 victory.

The Broncos' margin was the smallest of the 1973 season and the players said the reason was because they were upset over their haircuts.

Around Ohio: Yellow Springs is in its second season of football, yet the Bulldogs need only a victory at Waynesville for a 10-0-0 campaign. "Our kids knew fundamentals from club football," Coach Bob Hartley explained of the unbeaten record.

Buffalo Bills superstar O. J. Simpson telephoned Youngstown Mooney standout Ted Bell last week to plug his alma mater of Southern California. The 6-foot-2, 190-pound Bell has 1,551 rushing yards and 24 touchdowns this fall.

Walnut Ridge and Northland clash Saturday morning for the Columbus City League title. Northland won it a year ago. Columbus Watterson has won eight Columbus Central Catholic crowns and tied for another in 12 seasons.

Bron Bacevich coaches his final Cincinnati Bacon game this week, ending 43 high school seasons in Illinois, Michigan and Ohio. The 67-year-old Baevich, with 311 career victories, spent the last 20 at Bacon.

Bob Lewis, who once guided Wyoming to statewide recognition, is assured of his worst year in 23 seasons. The Cincinnati school is 5-4 going into its finale against Sycamore.

Terry Belli of Sugar Grove Berne Union suffered his first high school coaching loss in 19 games. Berne Union bowed to Canal Winchester 12-6. Teams of Circleville mentor Larry Cook haven't been shut out in 59 games.

Beaver Local, near Lisbon, can claim its first unbeaten season against Jefferson Union this week. Incidentally, Beaver Local has recovered 30 fumbles and intercepted 21 passes in nine triumphs.

Warren Western Reserve, No. 1 in Class AAA, has handed Barberton and Youngstown Mooney, both in the top ten, their only losses this season.

Cleveland Benedictine's Class AA record of 5-2-2 is deceiving. The two losses were to 9-0 Class AAA teams, Willoughby South and Lake Catholic. The two ties were against AAA toughies Massillon (8-0-1) and Lakewood St. Edward (8-0-1).

Zoarville Tuscarawas Valley shoots for its 100th career victory against Tuscarawas Catholic. Valley opened in 1957. John Fishley rushed for 236 yards and scored four touchdowns for Valley against Centerburg last week.

A couple of opposites: Warren Western Reserve, with 26 straight victories, meets Lorain Southview, which has lost 29 in a row.

John Shoemaker, grandson of state legislator Myrl Shoemaker, has hit 77 of 147 passes for 975 yards and six touchdowns for 1-7-1 Waverly. Frankfort Adena in Ross County enjoyed the first perfect campaign in its nine years.

Cincy Bearcats coach cooler

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Gale Catlett, the University of Cincinnati's head basketball coach, said Bearcat fans can expect more fireworks on the floor and fewer of his stormy sideline outbursts this season.

Catlett, at 33 one of the youngest major college cage coaches, said he's more mature after a lesson-learning rookie season.

He learned the hard way. A year ago, in his debut, he was expelled before halftime and charged with four technical fouls after a heated exchange with a referee.

"Officials don't and won't bother me," said Catlett. "Last year they did. I really was too involved with the players."

"Every foul, every call against my players, I took personally," said Catlett. "I am not going to worry so much about those things now. I am not going to worry about officials."

The West Virginia native said he learned more about coaching— "I mean what coaching really is"—than in nine previous years as an assistant at Kentucky, Kansas, and Davidson.

"And I had some good teachers too," he said, referring to former tutors Adolph Rupp of Kentucky, Ted Owens at Kansas and Lefty Driesell at Davidson.

His first Bearcat club won 10 of its last 13 games after a disappointing 7-6 start to finish with a 17-9 record.

"But the way they played at the end convinced me we would have been very competitive in either the NCAA or National Invitational tournaments," said Catlett.

He faces a major rebuilding job, but high-scoring 6-foot-5 guard Lloyd Batts is back to ease the burden.

Oklahoma heads winners list by grid forecasters

NEW YORK (AP) — Courtesy of Kansas State's Vince Gibson, we bring you in advance the winner of Saturday's key Big Eight Conference clash between Oklahoma and Missouri.

"Oklahoma is a better football team than Missouri, but Missouri will play them close," Gibson said following a 31-7 loss to Missouri last week. The previous week, Gibson lost to Oklahoma 56-14.

The experts thought Nebraska would be leading the Big Eight by now, but there is Oklahoma with a 3-0 record (6-0-1 over-all) to Missouri's 3-1, 7-1. Coach Barry Switzer says the Sooners would be "in a great position to win the conference championship" by beating Missouri on the road. But he also says it won't be easy.

Last week's mark was 42 right and 17 wrong with four ties for .712, including picking the exact score of Pitt's 28-14 victory over Syracuse. For the season, the count is 382-134-14 — .740.

Michigan State at Ohio State: Woody Hayes is wild about his defense but is concerned about offensive errors in last week's 30-0 triumph over Illinois. "Our offense did not have a good ballgame. We made mistakes, especially in the first half, that a good, veteran team like ours shouldn't." Ohio State was unbeaten last year, too, coming into this game and lost 19-12. Hayes has a good memory. Ohio State 28-6.

Illinois at Michigan: After the Ohio State game, Illinois' Bob Blackman said he has ranked Ohio State and Michigan "No. 1 and No. 2 all season long and I didn't see a thing out there to make me change my mind." The Wolverines may help him see the light. Michigan 27-7.

Notre Dame at Pitt: Pitt hasn't had a winning season since 1963, but the Panthers now are in the Top Twenty with a 5-2-1 record. So long, it's been good to know ya. Notre Dame 35-14.

North Carolina State at Penn State: The experts predicted N.C. State would lose to Nebraska, Georgia and Penn State. They've already lost to Nebraska and Georgia. Penn State 45-21.

Stanford at Southern California: This one has been billed as the Blood Bowl ever since USC's John McKay said he wanted to beat Stanford by 2,000 points following last year's 30-21 triumph. Cardinals are coming with three in a row and it could be an aerial duel between Pat Haden and Mike Boryla. Southern Cal 34-17.

UCLA at Oregon: Ducks got caught looking ahead by Washington State. Bruins haven't stumbled in seven games since the Nebraska debacle. UCLA 31-21.

Iowa State at Nebraska: Coach Tom Osborne says Nebraska isn't going to romp despite ISU's 2-5 record. "They tied us last year and they should have won but they missed the last extra point. And they have virtually the same team back." Nebraska 34-10.

Texas Tech at Texas Christian: After losing this game the last two years, Jim Carlen of 71 Tech says the only bowl he's concerned with is "The TCU Bowl." Texas Tech 28-14.

Baylor at Texas: Baylor has lost three in a row by six points each. Enough of that. Texas 49-20.

Wyoming at Arizona State: Sun Devils after double revenge. They lost to Wyoming last year and to Utah last week. Arizona State 56-14.

Houston at Colorado State: One loss is Houston's limit. Houston 45-14.

Miami, Ohio at Kent State: This one's for the Mid-American Conference title and it could be the best game of the day. Both are undefeated in MAC play. Miami's 8-0 over-all, Kent is 7-1,losing only to San Diego State. How's a 20-20 tie grab you?

Colorado at Kansas: After playing Oklahoma, Missouri and Nebraska the last three weeks, Kansas should seem like a breeze for ... Colorado 21-14.

Richmond at East Caroline: Southern Conference crown on the line. East Carolina 24-17.

Miami, Fla. at Army: Will the real Hurricanes please stand up. Are they the team that upset Texas and almost beat Oklahoma or the club that struggled to defeat winless Florida State and Syracuse? Upset Special of the Week ... previously winless Army 20-17.

Second Upset Special: Previously winless Syracuse 17, Holy Cross 14.

Professor's lifestyle takes a major turn

DOVER, N.H. (AP) — Things that seem ordinary to most career women are extraordinary to Jeanne Gardner.

For the first time in her life, she is financially independent. She comes home to her own apartment filled with bright clothes, skiing and sailing equipment. She goes out at night with both male and female friends, and she can take off for a European vacation anytime she wants.

Jeanne Gardner is 40 years old, but she began her current lifestyle just 10 months ago.

Now she is assistant professor of education at the University of New Hampshire in Durham. She is strong-willed and dedicated to teaching.

"I have been accused of being powerful, overwhelming," Dr. Gardner said. "A male-oriented society just can't accept that. I have my feet on the ground, and it's not always appreciated."

SHE LEFT the Sisters of Mercy Convent in Cumberland, R.I., last August when she realized she couldn't resolve the questions she had about herself and her status in the order.

"I think the direction of my life changed because the direction of education and thrusts have changed. It doesn't mean that I'm turned off on the church. That has nothing to do with it at all," Dr. Gardner said.

"It's just that my dedication to education is stronger at this point than my dedication to service in the church."

As a teaching nun, Dr. Gardner said she often felt thwarted by the religious community.

"I saw myself doing some different things in the community if they would let me," she said. "As time went on, it became much more obvious they weren't going to let me.

Dr. Gardner earned a master's degree from Rhode Island College and a doctorate from the University of Connecticut while she was still in the order.

She used the time at school to make up her mind about leaving the Sisters of Mercy.

"My belief in the church has not changed" since she left, she said. "My stand on birth control very definitely has. I still can't accept abortion, but that is for my own personal reasons. I think the church would not be in the position that it's in concerning abortion if it had realistically looked at the birth control issue."

"I'm not sorry for that 22-year phase of my life. I think I gained as much from it as they gained from me," she said. "But admittedly there is a need for other kinds of companionship that were not available in the church."

Opening lead — jack of hearts.

It would seem that South must go down one against proper defense, but actually the contract can be made in a perfectly legitimate way.

A heart is led, won by South with the queen, and declarer, whether he realizes it or not, is now faced with a crucial decision. He can see that if he attacks diamonds, forcing out the ace, he will certainly run into a dead end.

Back will come a heart and West's suit will become established. South can then cash eight tricks — two hearts, three diamonds and three clubs — but, when he leads a spade, West takes the ace and runs his hearts to put the contract down one.

So, instead of putting his head in a noose by playing a diamond at trick two, South hits upon the expedient of playing a low spade towards the king. He does this for two reasons. First, there is a chance that West, holding the ace, will make a mistake and not go up with it. If this occurs, South is home free. Having stolen a spade trick, he speedily attacks diamonds and so makes nine tricks.

Second, there is the possibility of West's holding three spades to the ace — in which case he is dead whatever he does. Thus, if West rises with the ace, South makes his nine tricks by scoring four spades, two hearts and three clubs.

So the principle emerges that you don't always attack your strongest suit — diamonds, in this case — when there is a good tactical reason for attacking another suit. Bridge is by no means a game of hard and fast rules. You play according to the common sense of a situation, not by rigid rules.

Speaking of Your Health...

Coronary: Worse for the Young

Is there any truth to the statement that older people are better able to survive a coronary heart attack than younger people?

Mr. S.E.I., Fla.

Dear Mr. I.:

There are many factors that alter the predictability of recovery after a coronary heart attack.

If contributing factors like excess tobacco, marked overweight and high blood pressure are not present, the elderly do seem to survive an uncomplicated attack of coronary thrombosis better than a man of 35.

If the severity of an attack for a young men and an older man is the same, there may be reasons to explain better recovery in the elderly.

Some of the reasons are valid, while others are speculative. The arteries that bring blood to the heart muscle itself are called the "coronaries" because their distribution around the heart resemble a crown.

It is believed by some that as one gets older tiny, additional arteries may have sprouted from the main blood vessel to bring additional blood and oxygen to the heart.

This is called "collateral circulation" and may well be a factor in recovery. Perhaps in the young this fine network of additional blood vessels has had little or no time to develop.

Health campaigns are devoted to eliminating the major causes of coronary heart disease. Would that the young respect their lifegiving possession and listen to the dictates of authority! The chances of prolonging their life span are great if they follow the teachings of modern medical educators and their own doctors.

Cigarette smoking, excess weight, undiscovered high blood pressure, emotional stress and indiscreet diet are culprits that should be eliminated.

A firm growth was found on the palate of our newborn child. It doesn't bother her now, but can it be the cause of trouble later on?

Mrs. B.A., N.M.

Dear Mrs. A.:

This bony enlargement is known as a "torous" or "torose." It does not alter normal growth nor does it usually affect the child's speech.

It is caused by some slight malformation of the embryo and is not associated with any unusual changes in the body.

Many people do not learn about the presence of a torous until they are adults.

Rarely is it ever necessary to remove these growths by surgery.

You really have no cause for concern, but you should seek the added assurance of your own doctor.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH . . . All teeth, even in the young, should not be indiscriminately removed. Modern dentistry tries to preserve teeth as long as possible.

Organized crime eyed by workshop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — How does organized crime infiltrate legitimate businesses? Why are racketeers compelled to commit economic crimes?

Herbert Edelhertz, former head of the criminal fraud section, U.S. Justice Department, was to discuss these and other topics at today's session of the Ohio Organized Crime Training Conference.

The conference, which ends Friday, has brought together some 200 law enforcement, legal and state officials to study ways to recognize and combat organized crime.

A workshop on gambling and organized crime was to be held this afternoon, keynoted by Alfred N. King, director of evaluation and planning, organized crime and racketeering section, U.S. Department of Justice.

A federal drug expert told participants Tuesday that the bulk of illegal narcotics in the United States is brought over southern borders.

Andrew Tartaglino, acting deputy administrator of the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration, said brown heroin and cocaine entering the U.S. is grown mainly in Latin America and Mexico.

Most major European drug rings supplying the U.S. have been broken, he said, and now Chinese and Cuban suppliers are concentrating on the American drug market.

Domestically, Tartaglino said all agents involved in mistaken drug raids on residences should either be suspended or fired.

He referred to two such raids in Illinois, and said they were caused by "bad judgment, impatience and overzealousness."

Commuter train ending

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Ohio's last commuter train, Erie Lackawanna Railway Co.'s Cleveland-Youngstown run, will end Feb. 15, a victim of what the railroad says is rising costs.

County board eyes wage-hour rulings

Members of the Fayette County Board of Education Tuesday night heard a report from Superintendent Guy M. Foster that a compliance officer with the U. S. Department of Labor had reviewed with the administration some changes which should be made in terms of wage and hour regulations.

Superintendent Foster said the board agreed to review the report at a later meeting and make adjustments deemed necessary after a full investigation. A resolution was adopted to comply with one of the requests that would reduce the work week of employes holding two contracts with the board to a maximum of 40 hours. The regulation becomes effective Dec. 1.

Information was received prior to the meeting that the cost of extra milk sold through the school lunch program may be reduced as schools were now eligible for a federal reimbursement. A motion was adopted to reduce the cost of a half-pint carton of milk from 9 cents to 5 cents. The new price of 5 cents will become effective Nov. 12. It was also mentioned that within a short time the overall cost of lunches could be increased to meet rising costs, Foster said.

BOARD MEMBERS expressed concern over the fuel shortage situation in response to a letter received recently stating that Miami Trace School District would receive only three-fourths the amount of fuel oil in November as it did in the same month last year.

Michael Yambor, principal at Madison Mills, was appointed coordinator of the junior high basketball program. Coaches assigned were Joe Henry, Eber; Sonny Walters, Madison Mills; Roger Zimmerman, Wayne; Paul Petitt, New Holland; Richard Bell, Bloomingburg, and Larry Garringer and Rick Hughes, Jeffersonville.

The board agreed that many citizens of the district had worked hard in support of the junior high school issue. The level of support seemed considerably higher than in the past, and board members expressed their appreciation to everyone who had assisted with the campaign.

In other matters:

The board authorized Cecil Coates, transportation supervisor, to allow five school buses to be used at the district transportation rodeo in Wilmington Saturday;

Appointed Principal Curtis E. Fleisher as acting athletic director until a permanent assignment is made; and Authorized Mrs. June Slaughter to attend the Ohio Supervisors' meeting Nov. 8-9. Also, Mrs. Lucille Hammond, a Bloomingburg teacher, along with Mrs. Slaughter will be visiting a Cleveland school during the month.

Brown will head Hillsboro Council

HILLSBORO — Voters Tuesday reaffirmed Paul E. Brown, Democrat incumbent, as president of city council over William J. Alexander (R), 854 to 551, but defeated Mark McMahon, Democrat incumbent, by voting for H. Lawson Walker (R) 855 to 537.

City school board members and county board members were unopposed.

Highland village renewed a 5-year levy for current operating expenses, 50 to 18, and also approved a 2-mill additional levy for operating expenses, 35 to 32.

HILLSBORO — A woman who claims she is permanently disabled by injuries received when she stumbled into a hole around a sewer drain on a street, asks $100,000 damages in a suit against the City of Greenfield. The plaintiff in the action, Ruth E. Mick, Rt. 1, Bainbridge, states that the accident occurred June 9, 1972.

VFW post plans part in parade

Preliminary plans for participating in the Christmas parade here Dec. 1 were made at the meeting of the Burnett-Ducey post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Tuesday night.

The Voice of Democracy program, which is designed to interest more young people in politics and public service, also was discussed and a $25 contribution was made to the National Children's Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Members of the post, who have been attending Sunday worship services at different churches, will attend the First Baptist Church Sunday, Nov. 11, the day still observed as Veterans Day by the three veterans organizations here.

Cmdr. Ben Jamison urged VFW members to join members of the American Legion and Veterans of World War I at the Legion Home at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and then attend the memorial service at the monument on the Courthouse lawn. He also announced that the post has for sale 24 American flags suitable for display at homes on national holidays. He said those interested could contact him or Quartermaster Walter Wilson for a flag.

The Rev. Cloyce Dean Copley, post chaplain and past commander, urged the members to visit the VA hospital at Chillicothe and give encouragement to the patients.

Conservatives win school contests

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The conservative Better Neighborhood Schools slate, which campaigned against busing for racial integration, won control of the Cincinnati Board of Education by a two-to-one margin Tuesday.

The group campaigned for retention of neighborhood schools and against added educational programs.

Bradshaw named Jamestown mayor

JAMESTOWN — Jamestown elected a new mayor Tuesday, giving Virgil Bradshaw 154 votes. William Harden, incumbent, was a write-in and got 141 votes. Willard Thuma received 128.

Four members elected to Council from a slate of six were Phyllis Lang, John Reese, Roy Heading and James Collins.

Robert Heifner and Lamar Long, incumbents, were returned to the Greeneview Board of Education, along with Frances Tidd. There were four other contenders.

Nixon to spell out new policy for conserving energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is proposing a new energy policy which sources say will include a request for broad authority to increase domestic petroleum production and to decrease consumption.

Specific measures were not revealed but Nixon was known to be considering such steps as imposing a nationwide highway speed limit of 50 miles per hour and ordering power plants to burn coal instead of oil or gas.

The White House has said Nixon's new energy policy, which was to be unfolded today at a morning briefing with congressional leaders and in an evening broadcast to the nation, would probably include proposed legislation.

An energy source said the legislation would likely seek specific new powers Nixon feels he needs to cope with the growing national fuel shortage.

The President was also expected to renew his appeal to the public for voluntary fuel conservation through lowering thermostat settings and driving less, but his top energy advisor, John A. Love, told newsmen Monday after a weekend meeting with the President that voluntary action just won't be enough.

Love previously advocated voluntary conservation, which he said could conserve up to 5 per cent of the nation's energy. But that was before last month's decision by the Arab oil nations to cut supplies to friends of Israel, threatening an estimated 14 to 21 per cent of the U.S. petroleum supply.

Proposals reportedly being considered by Nixon included:

—Authority to reduce the operating hours of nonessential businesses and industries.

—Authority to set up a standby fuel rationing program complete with printed tickets and ready for quick action.

—Easing of clean air standards so high sulphur coal and oil can be burned.

—A legislative requirement for state and local governments to adopt fuel conservation plans.

—Legislation to permit petroleum production from the Elk Hills naval petroleum reserve in California, now one of four oilfields held in reserve for military emergency use.

—Authority to require increases of commercial oil production above the maximum efficiency rate normally followed to conserve this resource over the long haul.

Mandatory conservation measures have been proposed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Interior Committee.

Jackson, ranking Republican Sen. Paul Fannon of Arizona and committee members met with Love and other administration officials two weeks ago and reported general agreement on the need for such authority.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — As chilling winter winds roll across Ohio, state officials expect to take no drastic action on the face of the fuel crisis.

"We think we can live within our fuel allocation if we tighten our belt," said Joseph Sommer, director of the Ohio Department of Administrative Services and chairman of a special state energy management board.

Jay Tepper, executive assistant to Gov. John Gilligan, said, "We're going to be as tight as we can. Drastic steps

Democrats win most major election races

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

Democrats scored strongly in off-year elections with a recordbreaking statewide victory in New Jersey and municipal triumphs in New York, Philadelphia, Minneapolis and Detroit in the first national balloting since the Watergate scandal erupted.

One of the GOP's potential 1976 candidates, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, also appeared headed for a setback on a constitutional amendment proposal. His plan to limit future state spending and taxation was trailing by more than 300,000 votes.

"The Republican party has taken a smashing defeat across the nation," said Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr. of New Jersey, who suffered one of the GOP's biggest setbacks in that state's gubernatorial race.

Democrat Brendan T. Byrne, a 49-year-old former judge and prosecutor, whipped Sandman by a margin of 2-to-1 and led his party to control of both houses of the state legislature for only the third time in the 20th Century.

Democratic State Sen. Joseph Merlino said the victory was a signal to the nation that voters will punish the Republican party until it decides to "dump" President Nixon.

Although Watergate was a campaign issue in few places, leaders of both parties saw its influence in the returns.

In Kentucky, Democratic Gov. Wendell Ford said the returns showed the scandal hurt all politicians "but it has hurt the Republicans the most." Democrats retained control of the state legislature as well as the mayor's office in Louisville, where 37-year-old physician Harvey Sloane won.

In Minneapolis, Democrat Al Hofstede, a 33-year-old former alderman, upset two-term independent Mayor Charles Stenvig. Mrs. Gladys Brooks, a Republican who finished a distant third, said it wasn't a Republican year. "A great deal of Watergate has carried over here," she added.

In Philadelphia, Democrat F. Emmett Fitzpatrick stunned two-term Republican Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter after a campaign in which a major issue was Specter's role as 1972 state

Statewide issues all gain approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An official of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation said today approval by voters of a constitutional amendment changing the method for taxing rural lands in the state may have saved the livelihood of many farmers.

"I was talking to a farmer near Marysville," William Swank commented as returns from Tuesday's election poured in, "and he said, 'today's the day we know whether we'll have to quit farming here and move to Iowa."

With 99 per cent of the vote tallied, Issue No. 1, the farmland proposal, was winning overwhelming passage, 1,768,-333-558,839.

Farm bureau federation officials hailed as successful a campaign to muster support for the issue in urban areas. Voters in Cuyahoga County, Ohio's most populous, approved the measure, 231,028-134,635.

They said legislation to provide for the tax break will be offered when the General Assembly convenes in January.

Issue No. 4, providing a bonus for veterans of the Vietnam conflict, also carried handily. It was leading, 1,606,114-631,730, with 99 per cent of the polling places counted.

Rep. Vernal G. Riffe, D-89 New Boston, the chief sponsor of the proposal, said he expects veterans may be able to apply for the bonuses as early as April 1, and no later than June.

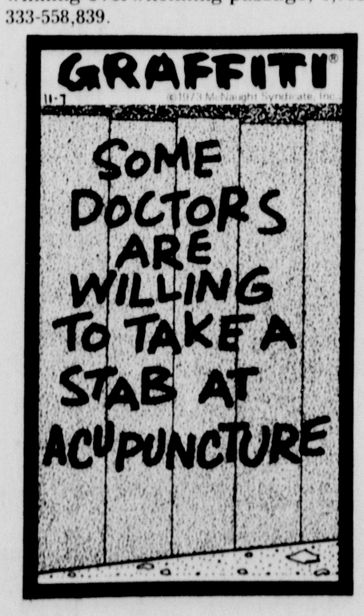

"I believe that the people have strongly honored the young men who fought in a war when at times they didn't know what it was all about," Riffe said.

Robert Kosydar, Ohio's tax commissioner, said he will propose to lawmakers in January unlimited exemptions from the state's income tax.

With 99 per cent of the voting places counted, Issue No. 2, to lift the $3,000 limit on tax exemptions, was winning easily, 1,271,675-863,545.

"Allowing unlimited exemptions would cost the state about $2 million in tax revenues," he said. "We're prepared to absorb the loss from current revenues."

Voters also approved, 1,287,-563-759,071 with 99 per cent counted, an amendment authorizing in-term pay raises for county and municipal judges.

By GEORGE MALEK

Residents of Fayette County expressed their opposition to increased taxes Tuesday by approving only the smallest of the proposed increases. The .20-mill additional operating levy for the Fayette County Board of Health was passed by a 55 per cent vote.

The proposed two-mill increase in city school operating taxes and the $2,036,000 Miami Trace District bond issue were both defeated, but city residents did OK renewal of a current one-mill school levy.

Although the city school levy renewal was approved by an overwhelming 70 per cent, the additional tax was favored by only 42 per cent of the electorate. The renewal carried 18 of the 19 city precincts; the additional tax carried in only four.

Failure of the measure means that improvements in the libraries of the city schools are unlikely, and the possibility of raises for city teachers is greatly diminished.

A JUNIOR HIGH school for county students will have to wait for another time since the proposed 2.15-mill bond issue was defeated by a narrow margin. Although the issue was defeated in 18 of the 23 Fayette County precincts, the measure failed by 206 votes with more than 3,000 cast. The total vote was 1,527-1,733, including those Pickaway County residents who are a part of the Miami Trace District.

The additional monies provided to the Fayette County Board of Health will be used to cover the rising cost of existing services as well as to pay for some of the duties thrust upon the board by recent legislation governing protection of the environment and natural resources.

PERRY LIQUOR

In spite of a gallant effort by indulgers, spirituous liquor will not be sold by the glass in Perry Township. For the umpteenth time local residents voted down, by 114 to 149, a proposal authorizing such sales, which was filed by Bill Haines, Rt. 1, Greenfield, dba, the Mini-Bar, Ohio 41-S.

Renewal of levies for the maintenace of the Bloomingburg and Union Township fire departments were passed handily in their respective districts. In Bloomingburg the vote was 90-29 while the township renewal carried by a 557-141 margin.

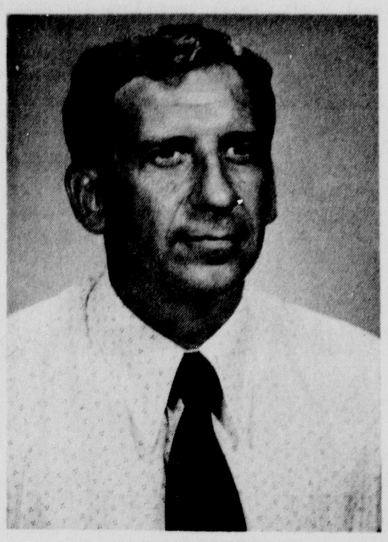

STATE ISSUES 1 and 4 received thunderous support from residents of Fayette County while Issue 2 was slightly favored and Issue 3 was opposed.

"Saving Open Space" in Ohio, a great concern to area farmers, received better than 86 per cent approval from the county precincts and nearly 71 per cent from city voters.

Residents here favor, by better than a two-to-one margin, giving Ohio veterans who served during the Vietnam conflict bonuses for each month served. The bill carries a maximum benefit of $500 for each recipient, with certain exceptions.

The vote in favor of removing the $3,000 ceiling on state income tax exemptions was 2,541; with 2,119 opposed.

Issue 3, allowing municipal judges to receive in-term raises and allowing the legislature to combine county common pleas courts into court districts was opposed by 58 per cent of the local electorate.

U.S., Egypt will exchange ambassadors

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt and the United States have agreed to exchange ambassadors immediately, the official Middle East News Agency said tonight.

Egypt broke diplomatic relations with the United States during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war because of U.S. support for Israel.

Since then the two countries have maintained contacts through small diplomatic missions in each other's capitals under the flag of friendly nations. But these missions were not of formal ambassadorial status.

The news agency announcement of an exchange of ambassadors came five hours after President Anwar Sadat and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met for three hours privately.

Voters name first woman policy-maker

Record-Herald City Editor

Three incumbents, with a total of 20 years combined experience, were successful in their bids for re-election to the Washington C.H. City Council, and for the first time in the city's history a woman was elected to the legislative body.

The terms of Patton, Cook and Wilson were scheduled to expire in January, but the trio garnered impressive vote totals. Mrs. McCullough will fill a vacancy created by the February resignation of John Michael Arnold.

Patton, 38, of 133 River Rd., co-owner of Sunshine Laundry and Dry Cleaning and the Fayette Supply Co., was the top vote-getter in the crowded City Council race as he polled a total of 1,143 votes. Over 45 per cent of the 2,531 persons who cast ballots at the city polling places at Tuesday's election chose Patton.

Patton, who was elected to Council 1969 and is currently chairman of the finance committee, carried 10 of the city's 19 precincts and tied for the top in two others.

The 44-year-old Cook, 1229 High St., was the second leading vote-getter as he was named to his fourth consecutive Council term. Cook, owner of Cook Home Improvements, trailed Patton by just 101 votes with a 1,042 total. He carried three city precincts.

Wilson, 57, of 215 McKinley Ave., currently serving as Council president, nudged Mrs. McCullough by 109 votes for the third seat on hte ticket as he polled 947 votes.

Mrs. McCullough, 53, of 431 W. Circle Ave., made a strong showing in Tuesday's voting as she collected 838 votes. A service representative for Ohio Bell, she carried one city precinct and tied for the lead in another.

Joseph Murphy, the youngest candidate in the Council race, was fifth with 729 votes, followed closely by Mrs. Nancy M. Black who made a strong showing with 712 votes.

John Morris, in his second Council bid, was seventh with 653 followed by James Vess (640), Fred Rost (631), George Hall (514), Larry Bennett (466), Chester Hamulak (355), Fay Washburn (126) and William Stolzenburg (61).

Cost of eating still going up

WASHINGTON (AP) — New government figures show it cost a family of four at least $40 per week to eat in September, up $3.30 in five months, even if the family bought plenty of beans and avoided expensive meat.

The budget was compiled by the Agriculture Department according to a low-cost plan for a four member family whose income is between $4,000 and $8,-000 per year.

Under a "moderate" plan for a family making $8,000 to $10,000 a year, groceries in September cost $51.70 per week, compared with $47.30 last April.

A more affluent family with an income of $10,000 or more would have spent $63.30 per week in September for a "liberal" plan, compared with $58.10 last April.

The new food cost figures were included Tuesday in a routine weekly publication Food and Home Notes, which is sent upon request to daily and weekly newspapers. There was no official news release by the department.

The three types of food budgets, for most household sizes, were up about nine per cent in September from last April. That covered five months during which the Nixon administration tried to curb soaring food prices through retail and wholesale ceilings.

Nixon's personal secretary to testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica awaited word today on whether Rose Mary Woods, President Nixon's personal secretary, will testify about the Watergate tapes she listened to and apparently transcribed.

A White House source said she probably will appear at a hearing into the circumstances surrounding two specific conversations that presidential lawyers say went unrecorded.

The White House had no official comment. But presidential lawyer Douglas Parker said he assumed Miss Woods would testify.

Gen. John C. Bennett, deputy to Nixon's chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., said Miss Woods received 14 tapes. He was still on the witness stand when court recessed Tuesday.

There also was testimony that Miss Woods listened to a number of the tapes, typing at the same time, prompting the judge to say:

"As long as we are going into this detail, will someone please get word to Miss Woods that she will be called as a witness in this case?"

The witnesses at the first four days of the hearing, all White House personnel, have testified voluntarily without subpoena.

"The real purpose of this hearing is to indicate the chain of possession of these tapes ...who had possession, who had access," Sirica said.

The White House claim that subpoenaed tapes of presidential conversations of June 20, 1972 and April 15, 1973 never existed was made Oct. 29 as lawyers for the special prosecutor's office and the President met with Sirica to work out details for turning over nine tapes.

Another such meeting was held Tuesday and afterward Sirica said security arrangements had been completed and that he had received lists of experts who could help determine whether the tapes had not been tampered with.

The judge said he hoped to get the tapes soon, perhaps within a month. But the lengthy process of review makes it unlikely the tapes will go to a Watergate grand jury before the first of the year, he indicated.

There were these other Watergate-related developments:

—The Senate Watergate committee planned to turn to campaign financing, after hearing five witnesses tell Tuesday of Democratic dirty tricks.

—The committee received 40 affidavits detailing various efforts to disrupt President Nixon's 1972 campaign. The affidavits detailed such tactics as bombings, violent demonstrations, arson and riots.

—Lawyers for the committee were instructed to try again to set up a meeting between Nixon and the seven

Slim margins decide many local issues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One vote margins and city council reverses stood out Tuesday as Ohio voters registered their choices in local political races and bond issues.

In Western Reserve, voters defeated a bond issue for school construction improvements by a slim one vote margin—485 to 486.

But the Berlin-Milan school district passed an additional tax levy by two votes, 780 to 778.

County boards of education in both Erie and Huron counties said they had asked for recounts.

In Findlay, Democrats traded places with Republicans in party strength on the city council. Democrats had held seven of the nine seats, but saw the Republicans win seven of the nine Tuesday.

Suburban Mount Healthy voters, after seeking delays for nearly 10 years, voted to let Hamilton County build a two mile link to the long planned Cross County Highway.

The highway runs through the southern edge of the city of 22,000. The vote was 1,550 to 1,177.

In the Akron suburb of Cuyahoga Falls, residents apparently have elected the first Democratic mayor in 25 years. Unofficial totals gave the race to Democrat Quirk over Republican incumbent William Coleman.

Coleman, who apparently lost by only 78 votes of the nearly 16,000 cast, said he won't decide on a recount until he sees official totals.

Summit County voters repealed the county's seven-month-old one half per cent piggy back sales tax by a 13,000 vote margin. County officials had warned that repeal of the tax would cause a severe setback in plans for a long-term capital improvement program.

Four school districts in the Findlay area approved school mill levies. Findlay voters approved a 9.6 mill levy, Liberty Benton approved a five mill operating levy and two mill school improvements levy, Arlington approved a 2.8 mill levy and McComb voters passed a 2.7 mill levy.

The Norwalk school renewal levy passed 2,222 to 1,053.

In the fifth try since 1965, a 3.4 mill levy for the Tri-Rivers Vocational School District was approved by 12,057 to 11,055. The district serves Marion, Marrow and part of Union counties.

In Hamilton County, voters approved a half mill levy to raise $2.5 million to purchase land for additional parks. The vote was 134,032 to 89,607.

Social Security boost in works

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee is nearing final approval on Social Security legislation that would boost benefits by 10 per cent in mid-1974 and payroll deductions in January.

The bill is before the Ways and Means Committee which, Tuesday, approved 13-12 the Republican plan to raise the Social Security benefits and the payroll deduction tax base.

However, final approval which would have sent the bill to the full House was delayed until today by Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore. Ullman said he looks for a full House vote on the measure next week.

Meanwhile, the House prepared to vote today on a bill that would temporarily raise the nation's debt ceiling from $465 billion to $478 through June 30, 1974. Unless Congress acts, the ceiling will automatically drop to its permanent level of $400 billion Nov. 30, at which time the national debt is expected to be about $467 billion.

The financing provision of the Social Security bill calls for hiking to $13,200 on Jan. 1 the amount of earnings from which Social Security taxes would be automatically withheld. The tax rate of 5.85 per cent would remain the same.

Translated, this would mean a worker and his boss, each of whom paid a maximum of $631.80 in Social Security taxes this year, would pay $772.20 each in 1974.

Under existing law, the wage base for withholding is to rise from $10,800 this year to $12,600, which would mean employe deductions up to $737.10 and an equal amount for employers.

Democratic backers of an alternative Social Security proposal, calling for a two-step benefit boost of 12 per cent next year, were expected to press for giving the House a chance to vote also on their version. Its financing is similar to the Republican-backed measure.

A Nixon administration spokesman said the President would be urged to sign the 10 per cent plan since it would be effective with paychecks beginning in July, meeting Nixon's goal of holding down expenditures during the fiscal year ending June 30.

The spokesman said Nixon would be asked to veto the two step, 12 per cent boost because of its impact on the current fiscal year.

Showdown slated for today on campaign spending bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Legislative leaders called for a conference committee showdown today in the partisan squabble dividing the special General Assembly session on campaign financing.

Rep. Michael Del Bane, D— 56 Hubbard, chairman of the committee of three Republicans and three Democrats, indicated he expects heated morning and afternoon sessions of the panel.

"If we lock horns, we might get a new conference committee appointed. That will be up to the leadership," he said. "The chairman hinted he thinks further sessions would be useless unless accord can be reached at the committee's Wednesday sessions.

The committee held its second session Tuesday and agreed on a number of relatively minor points, but again put aside the thorny problem of how to handle political contributions of unions and individual donations to political parties.

"Those are the main points of disagreement," Del Bane said.

Like the first meeting last Thursday, the conferees went over the various provisions in the separate Democratic and Republican bills but took no major action on amendments.

They did agree on various campaign spending limits, including those for governor. U. S. Senate and House, statewide offices other than governor, and several county and local offices.

For Governor, they agreed on a limit of 10 cents times the population of the state, or about $1.1 million, for both the primary and the general election. The Democratic House proposal had set a limit of five cents for the primary. A provision in both bills for 10 cents time the population for a U. S. Senate candidate was left intact.

The conferees also agreed on 18 cents times the district population for candidates for the U. S. House, about $37,000 for each campaign, and 1½ cents times the state population, or about $150,000, for each candidate for lieutenant governor, attorney general, treasurer, secretary of state, and auditor.

Search for missing U.S. soldiers likely to fade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The search for Americans missing in Indochina is slowing and Pentagon officials say it may be cut short in a few months.

There has been no U.S. decision to stop looking for the remains of 1,233 American servicemen still carried as missing in the Indochina fighting, which ended officially in January.

But three elements are contributing to doubts that more remains will be found and identified — including an impasse in negotiations with the North Vietnamese, continued heavy fighting in South Vietnam and Cambodia.

So far, Brig. Gen. Robert C. Kingston, chief of the Joint Casualty Resolution Center at Nakhon Phanom, Thailand, has located and positively identified the remains of nine missing men. The remains of six or seven others are undergoing laboratory examination.

Members of Kingston's 150-man staff have been limited to searches in uncontested areas of South Vietnam, although last January's cease-fire agreement called for cooperation among South Vietnam, North Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos on the exchange of information about missing soldiers.

Pentagon officials report "only a handful" of sites in uncontested territory remain to be explored in the two months before the rainy season begins.

Those sites are described as much less likely to produce remains than the 20 explored so far.

In other parts of South Vietnam, where there are another 250 possible sites, any search must await the end of repeated cease-fire violations.

Greene County votes on issues

XENIA — Elected to the Xenia City Commission Tuesday were James T. Henry Sr., William Wilson and Thomas Welsh. Four others were contending. John Thomas and Donald Anderson, both incumbents, were renamed to the Board of Education, along with Mrs. Barbara Falls. Six names were on the ballot.

A county-wide mental health levy, 2 mills for 5 years, passed, 10,778 to 9,695, but a one-mill, one-year levy to obtain funds for a Health Department building failed, thus releasing the Hill-Burton funds, which would have provided 50 per cent of the cost.

A levy to provide additional funds for county roads and bridges in Greene County failed to pass, 10,503 against and 9,856 for.

Sadat, Kissinger meet

CAIRO (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt met for more than three hours today, and Kissinger told newsmen: "We are moving toward peace."

Sadat repeated Kissinger's comment and added: "I agree with him."

The Egyptian president and his American guest posed for photographers on the lawn of the Tahira Palace, in suburban Heliopolis, then settled down to talk privately in a third-floor library.

U.S. officials said Kissinger, in his conversations in Washington last week with Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy, detected willingness to use the "good offices" of the United States to smooth out cease-fire problems and to approach peace talks.

Sadat has vowed publicly he will not bargain with the Jewish state. Kissinger, hoping to act as a catalyst, intends to find out whether the Egyptian leader really is adamant.

The principal immediate issues for discussion are Israel's demands for a prisoner exchange and the lifting of the Egyptian blockade at the mouth of the Red Sea, and Egypt's insistence that Israel give up the territory it occupied after the first cease-fire order Oct. 22.

Kissinger will convey Sadat's views to the Israelis. And while playing the middle man between Egypt and Israel, he is confident that the Soviet Union or another government will use its influence to enlist Syria, the other major combatant in the October war, should a negotiating process between Israel and Egypt develop.

Kissinger came to Cairo after meetings in Rabat with King Hassan of Morocco and in Tunis with President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia. On Thursday he sees King Hussein of Jordan in Amman and King Faisal of Saudi Arabia in Riyadh.

Israeli Premier Golda Meir had planned to report today to her parliament on her talks with Kissinger and President Nixon last week. But she postponed her speech until Monday to await word from the American secretary on his talks with the Arab leaders.

Demos win in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three members of the city council in Columbus, all Democrats, have been re-elected.

Also winning re-election in Columbus were city Auditor Hugh J. Dorrian and City Attorney James J. Hughes.

Three members of the school board in Columbus, Thomas J. Moyer, Virginia Prentice and Dr. Watson H. Walker, also were returned to office.

Approved, in addition, was a countywide 1.5-mill levy to provide for care and services for children.

Voter turnout light

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Voting in Tuesday's statewide election was lighter than had been predicted, state election officials said today, with only about 2.3 million Ohioans casting ballots.

In New York City, diminutive Democrat Abraham D. Beame led a citywide party sweep as he captured the mayoralty held for the past eight years by John V. Lindsay. The 67-year-old Beame will be the city's first Jewish mayor.

One of the major Republican victories came in normally Democratic Cleveland. GOP Mayor Ralph Perk swept to a 2-to-1 victory over his last-minute opponent, City Council Clerk Mercedes Cotner.

—In Stamford, Conn., Democrat Frederick P. Lenz Jr. upset two-term Republican Mayor Julius M. Wilensky.

—In Pittsburgh, Pa., Mayor Peter Flaherty, a Democrat, had both major parties' nominations.

—In Houston, Tex., the nonpartisan mayor's race appeared headed for a Dec. 4 runoff between attorney Fred Hofheinz and Dick Gottlieb, a city councilman and former television personality.

—Black mayors were elected in Raleigh, N.C., where Clarence E. Lightner defeated G. Wesley Williams, a white, and in Grand Rapids, Mich., where Lyman Parks defeated former Mayor Robert Bolens, both nonpartisan elections.

Both Sommer and Tepper said the state has no plans to reduce office hours or close buildings this winter for lack of fuel.

"I don't like to consider curtailing state operations," said Sommer. "We would only get further behind in providing our services."

Sommer and seven other members of the energy board will meet Friday to make a list of conservation measures. The measures will be then presented to Gov. Gilligan for implementation.

Sommer said one certain recommendation will be that all thermostats in state-operated buildings be lowered.

Eventually, he said, "Each building will have an emergency program in case of severe cold spells. The plan will detail where the heat will be maintained and where the heat will be reduced."

Less exterior lighting, reduced lighting in offices and fewer Christmas decorations will also be discussed during the meeting.

Sommer said the energy board may also recommend "restructuring of cleaning and maintenance operations in state buildings. The crews can do some of their work during regular business hours so they are not in the building after work. That way they can turn out the lights earlier."

He said the board will also develop recommendations to protect fuel at state storage tanks.

"Obviously, with the shortage, we have to make sure that no one siphons off our fuel," he said. "We also want to make sure than a supplier delivers 1,000 gallons of fuel it's 1,000 gallons and not 900 gallons."

panel members — at which the President would not be made to testify under oath. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. had proposed such a meeting and publishing a record of the proceedings afterward.

—Elliot L. Richardson, who resigned as attorney general in the heat of the battle for the Nixon tapes, said there would have been "nothing inflicting any additional damage on the White House or the President," even if all of special prosecutor Archibald Cox's investigations had led to indictments. Cox was fired for refusing to ease up on legal moves for the tapes and other documents and Richardson said there was a White House feeling that Cox was "a ravenous beast whose appetite was insatiable."

—Fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco, a co-defendant with former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans in a conspiracy case, was arrested in the Bahamas. U.S. Atty. Paul Curran said in New York that Vesco was in custody and that his passport had been surrendered. The arrest was based on a fraud indictment, not on the case involving Mitchell and Stans.

Presidential aide Stephen V. Bull testified Tuesday that Miss Woods reviewed some of the tapes he delivered to her, typing at the same time. But he refused to say she was making a transcript and testified he didn't ask her about it "because it was not my business."

Bennett, who was placed in charge of the tapes and their security after the automatic recording system was dismantled July 18, said he turned over six more tapes to Miss Woods Monday making a total, he said, of 14.

Bull said Miss Woods began listening to the tapes and typing Sept. 29 at Camp David, Md., continued the next week in Washington and through the following weekend at Key Biscayne, Fla.

The 31-year-old aide said that he was searching through the tapes Sept. 29 at the request of the President and was unable to find two of the nine tapes sought in the prosecution subpoena.

The June 20 conversation between Nixon and Mitchell was on a unbugged telephone in the White House residence, witnesses said. The April 15 conversation between Nixon and Dean went unrecorded because the tape ran out, they testified.

Panel hears of more dirty tricks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee is turning to its probe of campaign finances after hearing evidence that violence was aimed at Republicans last year and that President Nixon's medical files were rifled.

Committee lawyers, meanwhile, were instructed to contact the President's legal staff in a formal attempt to negotiate a question-and-answer session between Nixon and the seven-man committee.

The new investigation centers in part on allegations that government grants and contracts were used as inducements to procure large campaign contributions or to reward Nixon supporters.

The first scheduled witness was William Marumoto, a former White House talent seeker who once headed a White House task force pushing programs for Spanish-speaking Americans.

Marumoto has been cited in published reports as being the White House contact man who allegedly sought a $50,000 Nixon campaign contribution from Miami builder John Priestes, also scheduled to testify.

Priestes reportedly has been a central figure in a federal investigation revolving around a $300,000 expense fund allegedly set up for Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., a member of the Watergate committee.

Also on the committee's witness list is Ben Fernandez, a millionaire financier who headed the Hispanic Finance Committee for the Re-election of the President. Fernandez is now a candidate for lieutenant governor of California.

Tuesday, after calling five witnesses to testify about violence and dirty trick tactics aimed at President Nixon's campaign, Vice Chairman Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., filed 30 affidavits into the committee's record.

Among these was an affidavit in which Dr. John C. Lundgren of Long Beach, Calif., once the President's personal physician, said his offices were broken into on Sept. 20, 1972.

Dr. Lundgren said nothing was disturbed except a closet safe containing Nixon's personal medical records from 1960 until he entered the White House.

He said the Nixon records were strewn on the floor outside the closet.

The Lundgren break-in occurred just short of a year after the break-in at the office of Los Angeles psychiatrist Dr. Lewis Fielding, who had treated Pentagon papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

Committee lawyers said no evidence had been found linking the two break-ins. The Fielding break-in was committed by members of the special White House investigative unit known as the plumbers, who searched in vain for Ellsberg's psychiatric record.

Most of the rest of the affidavits — and the testimony of the five witnesses — dealt with efforts to disrupt the Nixon campaign. They included accounts of bombings, violent demonstrations, property damage, arson and riots.

The Big Board volume leader was Revere Copper down ⅛ at 9½, followed by Texaco unchanged at 30½ and Boise Cascade unchanged at 15¼.

Stock prices closed down Tuesday after a brief attempt at a rally. Analysts said continuing worries about Watergate, Oil shortages and inflation overcame the bargain hunting rally.

The Dow Jones blue chip indicator, which had been up more than 10 points Tuesday morning, closed down 6.32 at 913.08.

Declining Big Board issues had a more than 2 to 1 lead over gainers Tuesday in a moderate trading volume of 16.43 million shares.

A heavy blanket of clouds is scheduled to cover all of Ohio today and extend into Thursday, with afternoon temperature readings climbing only into the 30s and 40s.

The National Weather Service also reported that temperatures tonight will be a bit warmer and readings will be mainly in the 30s and 40s. Some rain will spread into the extreme southern counties some time tonight as a storm developes in the southwest. Some of this rain may drift into the central counties during Thursday.

An increasing southerly flow of air will slowly moderate the temperatures and push afternoon readings on Thursday into the 40s and 50s. A rather unsettled weather situation appears on the weather horizon for the next couple of days with a threat of some rain or snow continuing over Ohio.

Cloudiness moved into the state Wednesday night and early Wednesday morning and allowed temperatures to lower only into the upper 20s and lower 30s. No precipitation was measured during the period.

There will be a chance of rain south and rain or snow north Friday, followed by flurries in the northeast on Saturday and fair skies on Sunday. Highs Friday through Sunday will be in the 40s north to the low 50s south. Lows all three days generally will be in the upper 20s or the 30s.

College enrollment trends

The number of college students in the United States continues to rise faster than the general population increase. This is the basic finding set forth in the annual collegiate enrollment studies report provided by Dr. Garland G. Parker, University of Cincinnati vice provost for admissions and records, under auspices of the journal "Intellect."

Dr. Parker estimates that more than nine and one-half million collegiate-level students are now enrolled in institutions of post-secondary and higher education. That is a gain of about 2.5 per cent.

One noteworthy element in the general picture is that two-year schools at present have a decided edge on four-year schools in attracting new students. Whereas "the four-year schools still are shy of freshmen in the numbers they seek," 53.7 of the two-year schools showed freshmen increases. Parker also sees "a dramatic jump in part-time students" in such schools. This evidence that community colleges are burgeoning has important implications for the future with regard to both community planning and the total educational structure.

From the vantage point of his long experience in following enrollment trends, Dr. Parker urges caution in one regard. The proportion of high school graduates intering college is declining in comparison with the late 1960s. Dr. Parker comments: "With full appreciation for the societal relevance of and need for technical-vocational-service-oriented job preparation, there is a danger that too many young people will hearken to the counsel of those who are overkilling the idea that collegiate or other post-secondary training is oversold in our society." This is not an idle fear; there has been considerable emphasis on this of late, some of it from influential quarters.

We concur in Dr. Parker's view that "given the complexities of our problems . . . it is difficult to contend that we may have too many persons trained too highly." We also agree with his feeling that "not all should go to college but all who are motivated and either are or can be qualified to undertake the challenge of advanced training merit an opportunity to try it."

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Kissinger's most difficult mission

WASHINGTON — The journey that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is now on is surely the boldest and the most difficult he has ever undertaken.

He is searching for a peaceful solution of the Middle East conflict, which is rather like the pursuit of the philosophers' stone that alchemists in the Middle Ages considered to have the power to transmute baser metals into gold.

Kissinger has won to a degree the confidence of all but the more fanatical of the Arab states. This was achieved by his marathon efforts to bring about a cease-fire that would end the slaughter.

It was the Secretary's intervention that persuaded the Israelis to stop short of destroying the Egyptian III Corps with 20,000 men on the east bank of the Suez Canal. The army could have been destroyed by direct attack or by denying them food and water in the fierce heat of the desert. Convoys described by Kissinger as humanitarian have relieved the Egyptian troops.

KISSINGER was convinced that destruction of the III Corps would have greatly inflamed blood hatreds and have made a fifth Arab-Israeli war inevitable. This Israeli victory would have been costly to Israel as well as to Egypt. It is the denial of such a "victory," as construed in Jerusalem, that has embittered feeling among many Israelis toward the United States.

But it would have foreclosed any hope of a peaceful solution beyond the confused cease-fire with its indeterminate lines. That solution may, in any event, be beyond hope. The belief in Egypt is that Kissinger is bringing in his briefcase a miraculous answer to the conflict that has seen four wars in one generation.,

There is no miracle in the secretary's dispatch box that can bring a quick peace. He must rely on the diplomatic skill he has so often demonstrated — on his ability to persuade Egypt's President Anwar Sadat to have patience in pursuing a just settlement that will allow the two peoples to live side by side and gradually heal ancient wounds.

BY HER RESTRAINT and her determination to avoid recrimination, Prime Minister Golda Meir in her Washington visit enhanced the hope for peaceful negotiation. Hard-pressed in her own country by increasingly numerous hard-liners angry that victory was snatched from them by their only friend, the United States. she held to the response under repeated questioning that pressure from Washington had not been the reason for ending the war on Oct. 22.

A lot has been written about Kissinger's tirelessness, his ability to fly around the world and arrive at a point of major conflict or negotiation in apparent good humor and prepared to use his skills unimpaired by fatigue and the jet lag.

But this journey is surely a test of his capacities — four days in four Arab countries, then Iran and Pakistan, then Peking for three days and return by way of Tokyo.

A gregarious soul who loves power, he is often saved by his sense of humor which, in spite of a very healthy ego, he can turn against himself. Underneath is his profoundly serious view of the choices in this moment of turmoil.

WHAT HE SAID, both in his Pacem in Terris speech and in his press conference seems to have made little impression on a people preoccupied with domestic turbulence. Put as simply as possible, he gave it as his conviction that failure of the present efforts for peace in the world — with the Middle East a vital phase of that effort—will mean a return to all-out cold war and defense budgets far greater than the present record levels.

Although some participants take this as the foreordained course, consider what it would mean in more inflation, increased taxes, the starvation of badly needed social services, the whole panoply of troubles that afflict the nation today.

Kissinger cannot look back. He is almost literally on his own. A beleaguered President whose closest allies are beginning to demand his resignation can give him little help. The odds are probably heavily against the success of his present mission.

But to wish him ill, as part of the Nixon collapse, is to court the fate he has cogently warned of.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

D.C. press thinks Nixon guilty

HILLSDALE, Mich. — Sam Donaldson, the Capitol Hill correspondent for ABC, said an astounding thing at the local seminar on press credibility that has been running for a week at Hillsdale College. It was that most reporters in Washington are convinced that Richard Nixon is "guilty of wrongdoing."

This conviction, said Mr. Donaldson, had overcome the "presumption of regularity," meaning innocence, that had been originally extended to a badgered and beleaguered Chief Executive who might indeed have made a number of contradictory statements under the stress of the post-Watergate happenings.

Mr. Donaldson qualified his candid indication of bias by saying that he was giving his own impressions (he had taken no poll of his colleagues), and he made it plain that he was saying things in a Michigan small college atmosphere that he would not be saying quite so positively in the national capital. But if he was pleading for off-the-record status, he didn't get it. Jerry Ernst, a local reporter for the Hillsdale Daily News, a non-campus paper, put it all out in cold type: "Most Reporters View Nixon with Suspicion."

Presumably the wire services, if they are on to their job, will have picked up Mr. Ernst's account before this column, which takes a few days to go out through the mails, will have reached print.

WHAT MR. DONALDSON was saying amounted to a confession that the Washington press corps is no longer capable of considering the President innocent until he has been proved guilty. Sensing this as the probable truth, it is small wonder that Nixon has reacted with extreme bitterness to the behavior of the electronic media in particular during the period of his dispute over the proper way to make the substance of the tapes available to investigators.

Despite the "hysteria" of the TV commentary, Nixon had not disobeyed a court order during the week of controversy overwhether the idea of letting Senator Stennis judge the tapes would be an acceptable compromise. The legal basis for impeachment was just not there, and it evaporated utterly when the White House surrendered to Judge Sirica on the tapes issue.

The disheartening thing about undertaking to defend Nixon's right to a presumption of innocence until it has been proved otherwise is that the President's own demand for understanding comes in the foaming wake of the Agnew case.

I was one of those who thought Agnew must be innocent simply because I could not believe a guilty man would have sworn to Sen. Barry Goldwater that he had done nothing wrong when, at the very moment of proclaiming his purity, he was dickering with the Justice Department for a nolo contendere trade-off that would enable him to escape jail. I am not used to such consummate acting.

Suppose, now, that the ABC Capitol Hill correspondent turns out to be right and that Nixon is guilty of participation either in the Watergate cover-up or in something eles that is about to develop because of investigatory moves instigated by Archibald Cox before he was fired? Those of us who insist on Nixon's right to the presumption of innocence will look twice silly. Yet I, for one, think Nixon is getting a prejudged deal. It is totally unfair that he is a victim of prejudice, but it is also totally understandable.

THE WHITE HOUSE is getting bad press treatment for the obvious reason that the President, from the start, has never had the least understanding of the historic adversary relationship between press and government in America. With the single exception of Pat Buchanan, who knows the time of day, Nixon is in the habit of giving almost despotic power over press relations to men who are not only anti-journalist when dealing with liberals, but even more obtuse when dealing with conservatives.

Such a thing as the firing of Cox should have been carefully prepared for by briefings to friendly commentators. Any number of people could have been clued in to the alleged irregularities and prejudiced activities of Cox's sleuths. If this had been done, those 320,000 telegrams that poured in on Congress after the Cox firing would not have been forthcoming in such ghastly volume.

In spite of all this, however, Nixon is still entitled to forbearance until the admissible evidence is all in. I just hope that our President is not in Agnew's class as an actor.

School-run motel proves valuable aid to education

NELSONVILLE, Ohio (AP)— The Ohio Board of Education was skeptical when a high school here asked for $1 million—for a motel. Today's it's alive and well in this Appalacian corner of Ohio.

High school and college students operate the 42-unit Hocking Valley Motel largely as part of their study at the TriCounty Vocational High School, which owns it, and the Hocking Valley Technical College.

It is solvent but "was not intended to be a big money maker," says T. C. Porter, the high school's superintendent. "Our main idea was to have adequate facilities for on-the-job training," Porter says.

In cooperation with the college, the high school operates the motel with about 70 high school and college students under supervision of two hotel technology instructors at the college.

Only college students participate in management. A regular commercial staff of 10, plus several part-time workers, round out the employes.

The students earn course credits instead of money for the regular training duties, Porter says, but the school furnishes their uniforms. He says students get preference for jobs in their spare time and are paid regular wages in those cases.

The motel offers kitchen, restaurant, indoor swimming pool and rooms for dining, banquets and meetings.

Porter says the idea grew out of the need to improve training facilities for students in cafeteria, food management and hotel technology coures.

The board was skeptical but "finally approved the idea, granting us 80 per cent of the total construction money from federal Appalacian funds," Porter says. "We supplied the other 20 per cent."

The board required that the schools use a professional hotel management firm as consultants until September but two instructors and their students have run it since then.

See market for clothes in Russia

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— When Work Wear Corp. executive Milton A. Kramer visited a Russian department store recently, he was naturally curious about Russian work clothes.

The problem was there weren't any for sale—or display.

The Russians wear old clothes to work, Kramer said, noting, "They could not believe that management in our country furnishes work clothes to the worker."

Kramer, who toured Russia and a handful of Eastern European countries with a U.S. trade group, came back convinced "it would be a tremendous market."

Although no immediate deals are in the offing, he said, some of the countries expressed interest in a barter arrangement or establishing manufacturing sites within the country.

"There is no question that there is a shortage of consumer apparel in those countries," he said. He said visitors to Work Wear's displays were attracted by brightly colored smocks, colored hospital uniforms and flameproof work clothes.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: NOT TO KNOW WHAT HAS BEEN TRANSACTED IN FORMER TIMES IS TO CONTINUE ALWAYS A CHILD.—CICERO

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Snoopy mother learns facts of daughter's life

DEAR ABBY: I can't quit thinking about what I did today, and I've got to tell someone about it. If you consider it wrong, I won't do it again.

I became suspicious, and opened a letter my 17-year-old daughter received from her 19-year-old cousin who is in the service, stationed in a foreign country. It was full of explicit descriptions of sexual practices he said he had been indulging in-some I never even knew existed. I tore up the letter before I finished it. It was nauseating.

He also asked her to bake him some brownies with "grass" and send them to him without a return address on the box. I know "grass" is marijuana, but I never knew she had access to it.

Although I fully trust my daughter, I would shield her from the knowledge of such sexual practices as her cousin described. I am glad she will never read such trash, but I feel guilty about opening her mail.

Don't I have some rights as a parent to protect my daughter from unwanted, unwelcome information? Should I feel anxious about what she hears of abnormal sex practices? I lived all my life without this knowledge and still feel complete. She is the typical All-American girl, and I want to keep her mind pure and unadulterated. Am I wrong?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: No one (parent or not) has the right to open another person's mail, and then destroy it. If the lines of communication had been open between you and your daughter, you wouldn't have to resort to such acts to find out what kind of dialog she has with her cousin. Judging from his letter, your daughter probably knows much more about sex than you think she does.

Even the most protective parents can't "shield" her children from the real world. All you can do is teach your daughter by daily influence and example what YOU think is right, moral, and ethical, and let her make up her own mind.

DEAR ABBY: My sister and her husband have a French poodle they call "Zsa Zsa." They have no children, but they treat this dog just like a child. Zsa Zsa eats at the same table with them, and they even had a furrier make her a mink coat and bow to match.

They take Zsa Zsa everywhere with them. (If a place doesn't allow dogs, they won't go there.)

Abby, they even SPELL in front of this dog because they insist she is so smart she "understands" every word they say.

Well, I just had a baby girl. We named her Karen Sue, and the last straw was their sending a baby gift with a card saying: "With love to my COUSIN, Karen Sue, from Zsa Zsa."

SICK OF ZSA ZSA

DEAR SICK: No. As a former poodle owner, I can understand their feelings. Don't judge them too harshly. Some poodles are almost human.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THE WIFE OF AN UNFAITHFUL HUSBAND: Don't ask yourself; "What does she have that I don't have?" (The answer is "Nothing.") Better ask yourself, "What has SHE given him that I haven't?"

NEW YORK (AP) — Barbara Walters of NBC's "Today" show and Sally Quinn of the "CBS Morning News" are scheduled to leave today for London to cover a quiet little wedding next Wednesday.

The match is between Princess Anne — the wedding notice doesn't give a last name — and Capt. Mark Phillips. Some consider the ceremonies the marital event of the season.

But it raises three questions. Question one is: Why is Sally Quinn going more than 3,400 miles just to cover a wedding?

"Why is Barbara Walters?" joked Lee Townsend, executive producer of the "CBS Morning News." He then noted that the show is being expanded to provide live coverage of the wedding.

"We thought it would be appropriate for one of our anchor persons to be over in England with the bulk of the broadcast," he said, referring to the day of the royal nuptials.

Question two: Why is Barbara Walters being sent over?

"Well, it's kind of a major spectacle and it's happening live on our time," said Stuart Schulberg, executive producer of "Today." By "our time" he meant the hours "Today" is on the air.

"We generally cover these things when they happen live on our time," he added.

Question three: Is CBS sending Miss Quinn to London because NBC is sending Miss Walters, or is it the other way around? What's going on here, anyway?

"We planned this probably two months ago," said CBS' Townsend. "I didn't have the faintest idea then whether Barbara Walters was going to go."

Schulberg said, "we had planned to do this even before we knew about Sally Quinn. When we took the show to Britain earlier this year we made the commitment then to do it.

"That was back in June and we had no idea of what CBS was doing. In fact, we made plans to go there even before Sally Quinn went on the air."

Upgraded teacher education proposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Association of Classroom Teachers has called on state Education Supt. Martin Essex to make a series of conferences on upgrading teacher education standards in the state more accessible to classroom personnel.

"There has been a great deal of criticism of this program because of the difficulty teachers are having in attending," Essex was told.

Cincy again turns down fluoridation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati voters thumbed their noses at fluoridation for the third time in 20 years Tuesday, leaving the city in a knotty tangle with the state.

The referendum on a city council ordinance to fluoridate the city's drinking water was defeated 50,302 to 38,830. They did the same thing in the 1950s and 1960s.

At the same time, the well-to-do suburb of Indian Hill turned down the issue 1,508 to 591.

Opponents claimed the chemical is poison. Proponents, including the American Dental Association said sodium fluoride strengthens childrens' teeth.

"For the third time," said Julian Bowman, leader of the anti-fluoridationist drive claiming 2,000 workers, "Cincinnatians have refused to believe the false propaganda of the arrogant governmental and dental association bureaucrats and the editorials and articles in our misleading newspapers.

"We have only begun to fight to restore our constitutional right of freedom of choice as to what shall be taken into our bodies."

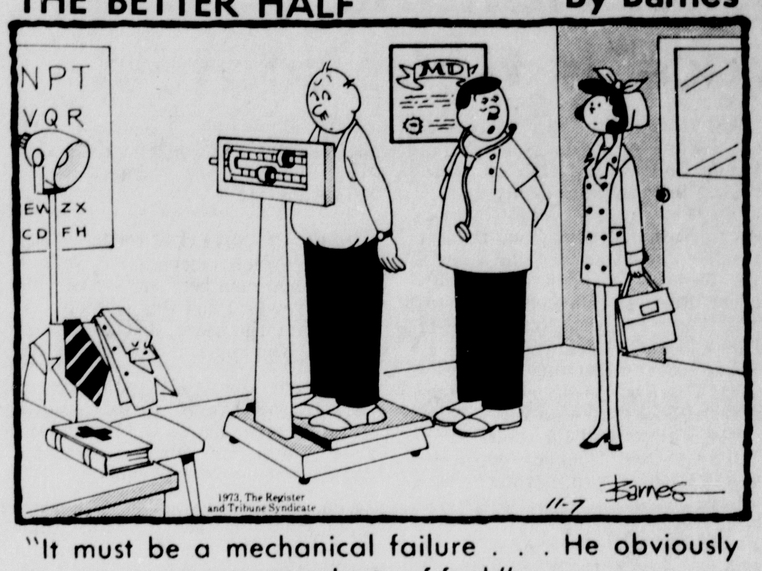

Bowman, who has headed the Citizen's Committee Against Fluoridation (CCAF) for 13 years, said his group now plans to expand its efforts to other Ohio cities.

The defeat leaves Cincinnati in a tangle between the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency and the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

The anti-fluoridationist won a court ruling in 1971 that Ohio's 1969 law ordering flurodation was unconstitutional.

Cincinnati City Council earlier this year, spurred by threats of action by the Ohio EPA, ordered the drinking water treated. Petitions were then circulated and the issue won a place on the ballot as a referendum, a victory for the CCAF.

Vote muddled in Butler County

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — There was little post-election celebration in Butler County last night.

Nobody knew who won.

For the second straight year, a computerized vote-counting system failed to work properly.

Butler County results are normally transferred from Middletown and Hamilton to a computerized office at Miami of Ohio University in Oxford.

First the computer garbled out incomplete results. Then it began rejecting approximately one ballot out of 10, an election official said.

Officials informed anxious candidates that it might be this afternoon before complete results could be compiled.

The first recorded mile run in under four minutes took place on May, 6, 1954, when Roger Bannister did it in London, in 3.59.4.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The farmer's share of each dollar a consumer spends for food in 1973 is likely to be the most in 20 years, according to new figures by the Agriculture Department.

During the third quarter (July-September) farmers averaged 47 cents of each $1 spent on U. S. farm-produced food listed in a USDA "marked basket" analysis, the Outlook and Situation Board said Tuesday.

That compared with 44 cents of each food dollar received by farmers in the first half of 1973 and 40 cents averaged in July-September 1972, the report said.

Although farm prices of food items — a key to the share of a food dollar received by producers — were down sharply from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15, they still were much higher than a year ago.

Thus, according to the figures for the first three quarters of 1973, the food-dollar average for farmers could be near 45 cents for the entire year. That would be the most since a 45-cent share in 1953, according to USDA records.

The food market basket, theoretically enough for a household of 3.2 persons for an entire year, cost an annual rate of $1,604 during the July-September quarter, up seven per cent from May-June and 21 per cent above a year earlier.

New Holland Council race is tight contest

NEW HOLLAND — A tight race for four vacant seats on New Holland Village Council highlighted voting Tuesday in Pickaway County.

Only 24 votes separated the top vote-getter and the seventh place finisher. Russell L. Jacobs polled 137 votes to pace the seven-candidate field, and Robert Frazier collected 125 votes. Vicki L. Sheets was third with 121 votes, and Josef Louis won the fourth Council seat after getting 120 votes.

Voters in New Holland approved a one-mill (five year) fire protection tax levy request by a 139-63 margin, but village voters turned thumbs down on the proposed Miami Trace junior high school issue by a 74-121 count.

New Holland voters followed a Fayette County trend as Marion Waddle collected 152 votes to lead three school board candidates. Kenneth Payton followed with 142 and Wayne Arnold had 114.

IN CIRCLEVILLE, three new city councilmen were elected. Tom Wells, a new Council member, and incumbents David Crawford and Ben Gordon won council-at-large seats, and incumbent Robert Kenworthy was defeated.

Incumbent Joe Bell outdistanced James Locke 2,199-705 for the Council president seat. David Goldsmith was the only other incumbent to keep his seat as he beat Burl Wiggins.

Other new councilmen are unopposed candidate John Jenkins and Dixie Walters who topped incumbent Gladden Troutman in the Fourth Ward. In the Third Ward, Harold Hoffman was unopposed.

11 Council races settled in voting at Chillicothe

CHILLICOTHE — Eleven City Council races were decided Tuesday in Chillicothe, along with contests for city auditor and city treasurer. Two health levies were also balloted, with the 2½ mill renewal for the tuberculosis program passing, 5,726 to 4,730, and an additional half-mill levy for current operating expenses of the Ross County Board of Health defeated.

Only Council President Donald F. Breth (R) was unopposed in city races. For city auditor, incumbent Republican Donald E. McGee defeated William E. Marsh (D) 3,724 to 2,132. With two newcomers vying for city treasurer, Paul Van Voorhis, Republican, received 3,322 votes to Democrat Ronald H. Harper's 2,481.

Six candidates were in the race for three councilman-at-large seats, with two Republicans and a Democrat winning. James Caldwell (3,860) and David L. Dixon (3,022), both Republicans, will serve with James E. Strausbaugh (3,192), Democrat. Others were Robert M. Irwin (R), 2,717, John Dobbins (D), 1,179 and William Marsh Jr. (D), 2,106.

Ward councilmen elected were Edward R. Kunselman (R), Thomas L. Herrnstein (D), who defeated Republican Glenn E. McDonald by only eight votes, George W. Vaughn (R), Warden C. Seymour (R), Leonard L. Freeman (D) and Edward E. Wagner Jr. (D).

IN THE Chillicothe School Board race, with three to be elected, Valla B. Mowrey Jr. received 4,624 votes, David Ater, 4,546, and Joan M. Hess, 4,194. Samuel L. Wade was the other contender.

With three candidates for the three seats on the Ross County Board of Education, incumbents Paul W. Gearhart and Eldon Shoemaker and newcomer James E. Scott were assured of positions on the board.

A one-mill additional levy for maintaining cemeteries in Deerfield Township passed, and in the race for two trustee seats Harold Garrison received 256 votes, Roy Chenoweth, 178, and Harold Hurtt, 116.

Election officials in Ross County were pleased with Tuesday's turnout of voters. With 26,000 registered voters, 15,157 appeared at the polls to cast their votes.

4-H advisers to be honored Thursday night

A social get-together will precede the smorgasbord dinner at 6:30 p.m. The brief recognition program will follow the dinner.

Miss Beatrice J. Cleveland, associate state 4-H leader at Ohio State University, will be the speaker, and the Miami Trace Folk Singers will provide the entertainment.

Postal Service can short-change you

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mailing a letter or package, like choosing new car options or ice cream flavors, has become more complicated. It helps to know what you're doing.

The Postal Service now offers seven different combinations of methods for getting your message or parcels to where you want them to go. If you live in Washington or New York, make that eight.

In the face of this array of services, individuals, by Postal Services officials' own admission, often get shortchanged. Efforts to appraise users of the varieties of service available are directed mainly at big-volume mailers. "That-'s where our bread and butter is," says William A. Rissell, customer services manager for the Postal Service.

"There is very good postal service if people know how and where to get it," said Rissell. "We probably have been remiss in not getting information to individuals."

And how you mail can make a difference. A one-pound book mailed 500 miles, for example, can cost $1.70 cents or 16 cents. The $1 buys priority mail, also called air parcel post, and is programmed to get the book there the next day. Seventy cents buys parcel post, which should get the book there in three days. Sixteen cents buys the special book rate, which you won't get if the clerk doesn't know the package is a book. The book rate, like parcel post, is designed to get the package there in three days.

Special delivery is another item which can be a bargain or a waste of money. It costs 60 cents extra for up to two pounds of first class and air mail or 80 cents extra for any other class the same weight.

Normally the special delivery routes leave metropolitan post offices every four hours until closing time or no later than 9 p.m. Special delivery also functions on Sundays and holidays. Otherwise, special delivery is handled like any other mail.

Thus special delivery on an air mail letter posted early in the afternoon and headed for a city within 600 miles would improve delivery by no more than a few hours, since the letter is targeted for next day delivery, anyway. But special delivery on a letter posted just before a three-day holiday can save up to two days in delivery time.

One of the options so new that it's still considered experimental is express mail. Basic express mail entails taking the letter or parcel to the post office and having the recipient pick it up on the other end. Express mail costs $1.50 for normal letters and $2.25 for parcels up to two pounds. It's available at 38 selected post offices—usually the larger ones— across the country.

Since the Postal Service aims for overnight delivery of air mail posted by 4 p.m. in special boxes or post offices, under normal circumstances express mail isn't any faster than air mail within 600 miles or to selected cities.

The waiteri, or fierce ones among Venezuela's Yanomamo people, resort to ritualized fights to relieve passions that might otherwise lead to aggression.

Kathy Dennewitz, daughter of Don Dennewitz, Rt. 1 Jeffersonville, had this to say to the students of Miami Trace, "I wish the best of luck to the underclassmen, and I hope they enjoy their high school years as much as I have mine."

Kathy lists sewing and baking as her hobbies. She is a member of the United Methodist Church in Jeffersonville and the band, and is treasurer of the Future Business Leaders of America at Miami Trace.

Ohio Perspective

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bicycle trail winding through 110 miles of central Ohio has become the pilot project for an embryo state-wide trails system.

Don Olson, state lands planner for the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, said he hopes to open the first 10 miles of the bikeway next spring.

By the time the bikeway is completed, the department will have experience in acquiring varied sorts of rights of way and will be able to anticipate problems in future trails, Olson said.

"Generally, it's to evaluate potential rights of way," Olson said.

The planned bikeway will begin near Mount Gilead in Morrow County, wind southeast to Newark and through Dillon State Park, along the Muskingum River and end near McConnelsville in Morgan County.

Olson said the first section to open will run through Blackhand Gorge, near the headquarters of Dillon Lake.

He said the bikeway is a good pilot project because it involves acquiring public and private land and abandoned railroad right of way.

The experience gained there will help when the department moves to implement SB 247, the Trails Bill, passed by the last Ohio legislature, Olson said. That bill called for the department to develop a statewide trails plan.

Olson said department officials met with interested groups in a public meeting recently to get opinions on what sort of plan the state should have.

More meetings are planned next year, he said.

Groups working with the department on the trails plan include the American Youth Hostels, Ohio Horsemen's Council, Boy Scouts of America, the Sierra Club and the Buckeye Trail Association, Olson said.

'Romeo and Juliet' staged at Capital

"It will be funny to hear Romeo speak with an American accent," remarked Sheila Gordon, Miami Trace's AFS student from South Africa this year.

Sheila and 20 other students went to Capital University in Columbus last week to see "Romeo and Juliet" presented by the New Shakespeare Co., of San Francisco in Mees Hall Auditorium. Miss Jean Davis, Mrs. Pat Gall, and Mrs. Theresa Craig chaperoned the group.

The deepest mine in the world is the Kolar Gold Mine in Mysore, India. It is 11,500 feet deep.

BY ANDY LANG

AP Newsfeatures

The most common cause of a bad paint job is not the quality of the paint nor the lack of skill in handling a roller or a brush. It's the failure to prepare the surface properly.

What usually happens is that five minutes are spent on the preparation, several hours on the painting. Unless you have exceptionally clean walls and ceilings, almost as much time should be spent on getting the surfaces ready as in painting them.

Just how much time can't be pinpointed because of the differences in the condition of the surfaces, but five or 10 minutes are not enough even when everything seems to be visibly clean.

Dusting or vacuuming is an absolute must to rid the walls and ceiling of a room of tiny particles of dirt not visible to the naked eye.

If you are painting a kitchen, especially, it can be assumed that some grease has attached itself to the surfaces even if an exhaust fan has been used periodically.

This must be washed off with warm water and a detergent and permitted to dry thoroughly before going ahead with the job.

SINCE PAINT will not cling to a glossy surface, it is vital that all glossy spots be sanded to remove the shine.

When all or most of the surface is glossy — and sanding would be a real task — you should apply a coat of preparation liquid designed especially for this purpose.

Whether you have plaster or gypsum board walls, there may be cracks, holes or other openings that should be repaired before any paint is applied.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG — AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We recently moved into a house which has resilient floor tile in the kitchen and the family room. Although it's an old house, the tile is still in good condition and probably was put down long after the house was built.

My wife says she used a polishing wax on the tile floors in our other house, but is afraid to use it here because she read that it is bad for certain types of tile.

Can you tell me something about this and how I can tell what kind of tile it is?

A. — It is diffucult to determine the kind of tile that is already comented to a floor. Only a professional would be able to tell you after carefully looking it over — and in some cases even he might have difficulty.

Have you thought about contacting and asking the previous owners, who may have installed the tile or, if not, know what kind it is?

In any case, your wife is correct. Self-polishing waxes can be used on any kind of tile, but polishing waxes (those which must be buffed to attain a high degree of shine) have solvents that might damage certain tiles, especially asphalt.

If you are able to find what your tile is, be guided by the labels on the waxes, which tell you which floors they can and cannot be used on. If you can't find out, then use a self-polishing wax.

Q. — What's the difference between wall and ceiling paint? It seems to me they are the same and that manufacturers merely give them different labels so you have to buy two different kinds. Am I right?

A. — No. While there is no major difference, what there is can be important. For one thing, a ceiling paint usually is formulated so that it will cover in a single coat. For another, a wall paint usually is more washable.

Q. — My neighbor and I both used stain from the same can for the wood-paneled rooms in our attics. Mine came out noticeably darker. Is it because he did not mix the stain often enough?

A. — No. It's because different kinds of woods take the stain differently. Another possible factor is that he may have wiped off the excess stain more quickly than you did.

WAYNE ARNOLD

KENNETH PAYTON

MARION WADDLE

Veteran Marion L. Waddle and Kenneth A. Payton, both incumbents, and Wayne E. Arnold were successful Tuesday in their bids for election to the Fayette County Board of Education.

Waddle and Payton nearly dominated the voting as they won by comfortable margins, while Arnold, in his third attempt at a seat on the county board, defeated two declared write-in candidates.

Waddle, who was the top vote-getter with 1,922 carried 12 of Fayette County's 23 precincts and Payton carried the 11 others. The two candidates tied with 39 votes each in Selden Precinct in Jasper Township. Payton had 1,872 votes.

The 48-year-old Waddle, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., who operates a farm on Snow Hill Road, will begin his third four-year term on the Board of Education in January.

Payton, 40, Rt. 1, Washington C.H., vice president and senior loan officer at the Washington Savings Bank, is currently serving as president of the Fayette County Board of Education and will complete his first term in January.

Arnold, 31, Rt. 3, Washington C.H., who operates a farm on Palmer Road, collected a total of 1,254 votes to beat write-in candidate Marion Stockwell by a 367-vote margin.

Stockwell, Rt. 3, Washington C.,H., garnered 887 votes and George Thomas Anders, Rt. 1, Sabina, had 369 votes.

The vote totals do not reflect the results from Highland, Ross and Madison counties where a few residents cast ballots on the issues.

The terms of Payton and Waddle were to have expired in January, while Arnold will be filling the vacancy of Dwight Duff, who decided not to run again.

Madison County results posted

LONDON — Unopposed in Tuesday's election in London were President of Council John Ewart, Auditor Mary Alcott and Treasurer Neil Roddy. Elected from a field of five candidates for councilman-at-large were John Dixon, with 985 votes, Vernon Smith, with 883, and Helen Roddy, with 847. Midway village passed a 2.9-mill levy for street lighting, 104 to 33.

Mount Sterling's renewal levy of three mills for current expenses passed, 299 to 141.

IBW votes teamster affiliation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The International Brewery Workers (IBW) and the Teamsters Union ended 70 years of membership rivalry here Tuesday when the IBW gave landslide support to a merger of the two unions beginning Dec. 1.

The peace treaty was something that "should have happened 20 years ago," said Karl Feller, president of the 40,000-member IBW at a news conference. He said the merger will be completed by the end of 1974.

He said the Teamsters general executive board notified him Tuesday morning that they have gone on record as seeking re-affiliation with the Canadian Labor Council.

The Teamsters left the CLC in 1960. Schoessling said the CLC would consider the request Dec. 11 in Ottawa at its quarterly meeting.

Close to 500 delegates representing locals in this country and Canada voted 26,129-4,756 for merger.

Sabina names 4 councilmen

The four are Roy Arrasmith, James Clouser, Robert Case and Roy Lynch.

Three incumbents won re-election to the East Clinton Board of Education. They are Roger Bernard, Robert Olds and Paul Whittington. An East Clinton school levy was approved while a proposed East Clinton school bond issue was turned down.

Voters in Sabina also approved a 2-mill operating levy.

Elsewhere in Clinton County, a 5-mill additional tax levy for Wilmington City Schools was turned down, but countywide health and mental retardation renewal levies were OKd.

In Wilmington, Walter Peelle, Robert Moyer and Donald Babb won the only contested race as they grabbed at-large Council seats. Council President William F. Haines, Treasurer Dymphna Quinn and Ward Councilmen Kenneth Beal, D. Neil Snarr, Harold Carder and John Hosler were all unopposed.

Federal agency studies auto pool system

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A computer-commuter study here next month may ease the gasoline shortage by squeezing more federal employes into car pools, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration says.

The car pool study will be fed into a computer at NASA's Lewis Research station in early December.

NASA Patent Counsel Norman Musial said the study will encompass 6,000 federal employes who work in downtown Cleveland. The computer's suggestions will be relayed to the workers in January.

"If we can double the people-per-auto density from the current 1.4 we can cut the number of cars in our parking lot from 2,300 to about 1,200," Musial said.

"There's no telling how much gas that would save," he added.

BLUFFTON, Ohio (AP) — Agents have arrested four persons and confiscated 106 pounds of marijuana in a raid on a mobile home near here.

The private undercover agents arrested Monday night Kenneth E. Agner, 28, of Findlay, Rodger K. Wauben, 24, of Waynesfield and Denny K. Wynkoop, 26, of Mt. Cory.

They were charged with illegal possession of hallucinogens for sale and illegal sale of hallucinogens.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow from autumn storms piled up to a foot or more in the northern Rockies and the eastern Great Lakes region today, and zero cold added an extra sting to the weather in parts of the West.

Domenico, Morrow win city board positions

Domenico, 51, of 137 River Rd., led all candidates with 1,194 votes in winning his fourth term on the city board. Domenico, a former board president and a field underwriter for the New York Life Insurance Co., carried the voting in 12 of the city's 19 precincts.

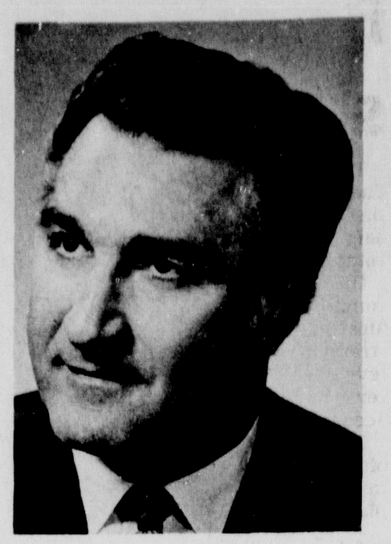

Morrow, 43, of 644 Warren Ave., won a tight race with Mrs. Kathryn G. Lee and will fill the vacancy of board member Mark J. Schaeper who chose not to seek re-election. Morrow, a personnel advisor at Armco Steel here, carried three precincts while Mrs. Lee carried four, but Morrow actually won his first bid for public office with a fine showing in the city's Third Ward with a total of 416 votes compared with 275 for Mrs. Lee.

Only 168 votes separated Morrow and Mrs. Lee. Morrow polled 1,126 and Mrs. Lee, 44, of 521 E. Market St., collected 960 votes.

Voting was extremely close in the city's First Ward as Mrs. Lee led the four-candidate field with 208, followed by 187 for Morrow and 181 for Domenico.

Morrow will join Domenico, James Wilson, Robert Highfield and Eugene Bienz on the city board in January.

Networks face federal lawsuits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is pursuing major antitrust suits against the three commercial television networks despite fears that the public may question its motives.

CBS, NBC and ABC lost the first round in the 18-month battle when a federal judge last week denied their motion to dismiss or delay the case. The order cleared the way for government attorneys to begin the lengthy process of obtaining and examining network records.

The government suits claim that the networks have shut off competition in the production of entertainment programs by producing many themselves, and by retaining ownership interests in programs they buy from independent producers.

The FCC has prohibited the networks from holding financial interests in independently-produced programs, but the Justice Department wants to go further and ban in-house production of entertainment programs.

Questions about the motives of the court action were renewed by the disclosure of White House memos proposing pressure tactics against the networks and other news media the administration considered unfair.

The antitrust division had been preparing the cases since the mid-1950s but two attorneys general, William P. Rogers in the late 1950s and Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach in 1964, decided not to file the suits.

After Nixon took office, Richard W. McLaren was installed as assistant attorney general in charge of the antitrust division. At some point, he recommended to then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell that the suits be filed.

In the 18 months since the suits were filed, the department has taken no legal action against network news programming and sources say none is in the works.

Ford union vote close

DETROIT (AP) — While the United Auto Workers turned its contract sights to General Motors, it found mounting troubles with Ford Motor Co. workers, where 185,000 must ratify a tentative accord reached last month.

UAW president Leonard Woodcock said on Tuesday that ratification votes have been completed in about 25 per cent of the UAW-Ford locals "and it is very close" among skilled tradesmen.

Skilled workers include those in such trades as plumbing, pipefitting, steelworking, carpentry and tool and die making.

"They can vote down its application to them," Woodcock said, but ratification by the company's 148,000 production and parts workers would stand.

Board of Health sees zero balance

The Fayette County Board of Health Tuesday approved expenses of the successful general health levy campaign which appeared before all county voters on Tuesday's ballot.

Dr. William E. Covert, health commissioner, said board members also reviewed the 1973 budget and stressed the need for the additional tax levy. Dr. Covert said there will be a zero balance in the general health account at the end of the year.

The board also held the first reading of a new policy regarding nursing care in the home and reviewed the family planning program and its relation to the Office of Economic Opportunity, the sponsoring agent for the last three years. Funding for the family planning program is being changed from the OEO to the federal Health, Education and Welfare program, Dr. Covert said.

Board members also reviewed a traffic pattern for services rendered by each division of the county health department. Dr. Covert pointed out that there is less than a 10 per cent variation in traffic flow within each of the departments, ranging from sanitation to vital statistics.

He added that the department's services are very well balanced and there's no emphasis on one certain area. The Health Department conducted a 10-day survey which disclosed that the greatest number of visits to one area was 23 and the lowest was 19.

History buff speaker at Rotary meet

Fayette County has had its share of historic and unusual events. At least that's what members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club were informed of at their noon luncheon Tuesday in the Country Club.

Kenneth Craig, a well-known Washington C.H. history buff who is always full of stories about Fayette County's past, told Rotarians a number of entertaining tales concerning Fayette County and some of its former residents.

Craig said that A.P. Warner, inventor of the automobile speedometer, was born and raised in Jeffersonville. During his years in the Fayette County village Warner lived near a blacksmith shop and became intrigued by those works. He later formed the famous Stewart-Warner Co., a well-known automotive firm.

Craig, a former school teacher in Fayette County, told Rotarians that he had a youngster in his class at the old Madison Mills High School who graduated in 1940, joined the U. S. Army and was later captured by the enemy and placed in a German prisoner of war camp. While in the camp, the Fayette County soldier met another prisoner who just happened to be a 1941 Madison Mills graduate.

IN THE SERIES of interesting stories, Craig said that Nancy Hanks Lincoln, the mother of Abraham Lincoln, died of what was called milk sickness. He said he became interested in the sickness and later found five graves at the Cochran Cemetery on New Martinsburg Road where five children in the same family had died during the same week in 1837 of the same illness. Craig said three of the sons died on consecutive days and a Fayette County judge decided to investigate further. The judge discovered that a white snake root plant had caused the fatal poisoning.

He briefly mentioned the Underground Railroad in Fayette County during the Civil War years and told of the local homes that were involved. He talked about a freed slave named Gus West who later beecame a prominent landowner in Fayette County.

Tim Dove and Sue Moore, both WSHS students, explained the 30-hour fast period that will be staged here to dramatize the CROP campaign and asked monetary support from the Rotary Club.

Visiting Rotarians were Ralph Rich, of Mount Sterling, Merrill Kaufman, of Delaware, Sam Marting Jr., Britt, Iowa, and Cecil Cartwright, Yazoo City, Miss. Paul Smith was a guest of Sam Marting Sr. David Ellis, of WSHS, was the only student guest.

Ask no talk with Saxbe

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Slot machine magnate Sam W. Klein of Cleveland has asked that attorney general designate U.S. Sen. William Saxbe not be interviewed by Nevada gaming officials, the Dayton Daily News reported Tuesday.

In a copyrighted story, the newspaper quoted an official at Klein's Bally Manufacturing Corp. in Chicago as saying Klein "wants to spare" Saxbe comment on their relationship.

The Ohio newspaper said Klein, whose name has been linked with underworld crime figures, listed the Ohio senator as a reference earlier this year on an application for a Nevada gaming license.

The Dayton newspaper previously reported that Klein had listed Saxbe as a reference on a 1969 application which later was withdrawn. The newspaper reported Monday that the FBI was investigating a link between the two men.

Saxbe had been a stockbroker in Bally, but reportedly sold his holdings in 1970.

Farm loans for storage cut sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — A series of money-saving moves by the Nixon administration has reduced sharply the amount of loans to farmers for building grain-storage and drying facilities.

The Agriculture Department says those loans, by the Commodity Credit Corp., totaled $22.9 million during the first three months of the current fiscal year, which began last July 1.

That compared with $42.7 million loaned during the first quarter of the 1972-73 fiscal year, the corporation said Tuesday in a financial statement.

A year ago, as part of a general budget-tightening by the administration, the department reduced the amount a farmer could borrow from the corporation to install grain drying and storage from $35,000 maximum to $25,000. Other restrictions also were imposed.

Last Sept. 13, the department boosted interest rates on the organization's loans to nearly nine per cent from six per cent. Also, it was announced, farmers were required to increase their down payments from 15 per cent to 30 per cent.

About two billion bushels of farm grain storage has been built under the loan program since it began in 1949, with loans totaling about $800 million.

Warn of shortage in home fuel oil

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has warned anticipated home buyers they may not have heating fuels this year.

Edmund J. Turk said in a statement issued Tuesday the cautioning applies, too, to mobile homes which use propane gas for heating.

Allocation of the fuels for heating is up to the federal government, he said.

"At this time we're unable to guarantee that anyone who purchases a mobile home or a new home which depends on fuel oil will be able to get the fuel which he needs," Turk said.

FULL HOUSE — Lady Duchess, a black and tan registered German Shepherd owned by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Daugherty, just dares anyone to come closer to her big family than the length of the chain on her collar. She gave birth to 14 puppies — seven boys and seven girls — at Daugherty's gasoline service station, on W. Temple St. at the railroad crossing. One died soon after they were born. Their father, Big Lucky, a black-tipped silver registered German shepherd, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lightner. Mr. and Mrs. Daugherty said they plan to give the pups to "anyone who will give them good homes." To the suggestion that they could get a good price for registered German shepherd pups, Mrs. Daugherty replied emphatically "we just couldn't stand to sell even one of them." This was Lady Duchess' second litter' there were only seven in the first. Lady Duchess is the service station watchdog.

Rail car shortage hurts nation

By DAVID BURKE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Record freight shipments, spurred by a booming economy and a sharp rise in grain exports, have put a severe strain on the nation's railway freight system, causing some critical car shortages.

While the problem apparently has had no major impact so far on consumers, a number of manufacturers report difficulties in obtaining enough freight cars. Some have been switched to trucks.

Government figures indicate the current shortage involves some 33,000 cars a day, less than 2 per cent of the nation's 1.7 million car fleet but still a significant number.

While all types of freight cars are affected, among the hardest hit are covered hoppers used for transporting grain. Large wheat deals with the Soviet Union and other countries have greatly boosted grain shipments, which are currently running about 32 per cent above last year's levels.

"The worst car shortage in the nation's history came earlier this year with the movement of Russian wheat. Now with new bumper crops it looks like we are on the brink of it again," said a spokesman for the Interstate Commerce Commission.

To meet the crush, railroads have been forced to assign livestock cars and open-topped coal hoppers to grain shippers, causing car shortages elsewhere down the line.

"They used everything possible, even regular boxcars normally used for appliances and furniture," said Bill Goldstein, general manager of the Chicago Shippers Association, a nationwide group which handles bulk shipping for large retail chains. "Still the situation was critical."

Some observers blame part of the problem on the financial conditions of some of the railroads, which prevents them from buying enough new cars. However, the Association of American Railroads, a trade group, says that orders for new and rebuilt cars in the first eight months are more than double 1972 levels.

"Adding more cars to the nation's fleet isn't the total answer," said a spokesman for Burlington Northern. "The whole transportation pipeline is not geared to handle the tremendous amounts of grain we have been pushing into it in the last 15 months."

Grain is only part of the problem. Because of the strong economy, total freight shipments this year are so far running about 9 per cent ahead of last year's records.

Burlington Northern, for example, says it is short on virtually all kinds of cars, while the Penn Central and Chessie System acknowledge a shortage of cars used for shipping steel.

A spokesman for Ford Motor Co. said, "We have been experiencing a shortage of rail cars for the past year. As a result, we've had to turn to other forms of transportation, mainly trucks, and pay a premium for this."

And R.J. Breitinger, traffic and transportation director for Westinghouse Electric, said: "We're being affected, but we're not missing any shipments. We just have to spend a great deal of time finding rail cars to ship with."

Prayer breakfast series continues

"God's Visitor from Outer Space was the theme of the message of the pastor, the Rev. Charles J. Richmond, during the meditation period at the weekly prayer breakfast Tuesday at the South Side Church of Christ.

The attendance of 109 students and teachers was slightly less than that at the last several breakfasts.

David Bryan, a senior, and Lu Ann Graham, of WSHS, led group singing, accompanied by Linda Hollingsworth, a WSHS sophomore. The invocation was given by Chuck Oesterle, a WSHS senior.

Following breakfast, which was prepared by Lucille Litz, Karen Massie, La Vonne Creamer, Fern Hollingsworth and Frances Starkey, Bruce Gilmore gave the student devotional and Andy Merritt the benediction.

Anderson family to dominate Milledgeville policy-making

Following Tuesday's election, the Anderson Family Council" is capable of providing the Milledgeville Council with a quorum, and a quorum of Council will soon be necessary for the selection of a replacement for Mayor Johnny Dale Blair, who is now obliged to resign.

Ronnie Anderson, an incumbent who was re-elected Tuesday for another term as Milledgeville councilman will be reunited with his brother, Larry, whose term on the law-making body has not yet expired. The two will be joined in policy making by Ronnie's wife, Anna, who was also elected to serve on Council.

Blair, elected to a four-year term as mayor two years ago, is forced to resign because he was elected to the Jasper Township Board of Trustees and cannot hold both positions.

The ex-mayor will join James R. Pierson, incumbent trustee, who successfully sought re-election. Arnett Kelley, the other candidate for the two openings on the board of trustees, fell 11 votes short of Blair's tally. Pierson had 227 votes, Blair 133 and Kelley 122.

Four of the six seats on the Milledgeville Council were vacant and they will be filled by incumbent Franklin D. Culwell and Wilbur Anders Jr., in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

IN NEARBY OCTA, father and son ran for two of four seats open on the Village Council. Elmer Kingery Sr., maintained paternal prestige by drawing 26 votes to Kingery Jr.'s 25. Donald Hendricks, a write-in candidate received 20 votes, and the fourth seat remains empty.

Bloomingburg's blank ballot provided the Village Council with three incumbents and Daniel H. Thompson, all via the write-in process. David R. Johnson, Michael Simpson and Ray C. Deere are the incumbents.

A fifth write-in candidate, G.H. Biddle, was elected to serve on the Board of Public Affairs. Only the five were eligible for office since no other candidates filed petitions for placement on the ballot or for write-in status.

Three positions in Jeffersonville were left open when only three candidates stepped forward to fill six vacancies. Although four persons were to be elected to Council, there were only three candidates. Gordon McCarty and Larry Milstead, incumbents, retained their seats, but Richard Thornberry a newcomer to Council, received the most votes with 58.

No one declared himself a candidate for treasurer, nor did anyone express interest in becoming a member of the Board of Public Affairs.

In the only contested trustee race incumbent, Jack Cubbage finished a mere seven votes ahead of Roy E. Coe to retain his seat on the Union Township governing body. Cubbage received 348 votes to Coe's 341. The other seat was retained by Ronald J. Campbell who led all candidates with 401 votes.

OTHER TRUSTEESHIPS two in each township, went to unopposed candidates.

In Concord Township Robert F. Garland received 177 votes; Charles E. Ellis, 155.

In Madison Township Russell D. Lindsay received 141 votes; Lawrence E. Grim, 132.

Voting turnout short of guess

The turnout for the 1973 off-year election in Fayette County fell just short of a conservative estimate made by Board of Elections officials last week.

A total of 5,868 ballots were cast in Fayette County Tuesday, which was just 132 short of the 6,000 prediction. The turnout, termed light, more than doubled the turnout for the May election in Fayette County when only state issues appeared on the ballot.

Ironically, Tuesday's election and the 1969 election when city councilmen were also elected show some similarities. This year's election produced only 285 more voters than the one four years ago when 5,583 cast ballots.

The first results filtered into the Board of Elections office at 8:50 p.m. Precinct F in the city's First Ward was the first to report while the last results were not received until about 11:30 p.m. from Perry Township.

APPARENTLY there was some keen voter interest in Perry Township where a liquor question was the primary issue. Election officials reported that several voters were standing in line at the polls in Perry Township located at the Township Hall in New Martinsburg. The liquor issue was turned down.

Women candidates fared quite well in this year's election as Mrs. Bertha McCullough was elected to a City Council term and Mrs. Nancy M. Black finished sixth in the balloting for four members to serve on City Council. Mrs. Kathryn G. Lee rounded out the women candidates and turned in a strong showing in her bid for a seat on the Washington C.H. City Board of Education by collecting 960 votes.

There apparently was some confusion regarding the write-in candidates for the Fayette County Board of Education. It was reported that the names of the declared write-in hopefuls were found on Township trustee ballots.

The Courthouse lobbies were unusually quiet for the biggest part of the evening as just a few curious persons mingled while the results were being received. Most of the onlookers were keenly interested in the City Council race.

Walkout continues

At least 30 persons were arrested on minor charges in connection with the walkout that began Monday after suspension of 120 workers.

No negotiations were reported scheduled.

The arrests came when police dispatched tactical squads to the plant to control picket lines and remove cars from blocking entrances to the plant.

Charles Bigrigg, president of Local 20202 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said the strike was unauthorized by the union because of a no-strike clause in the contract with Western Electric.

Paul Narcross named as Greenfield mayor

GREENFIELD — Paul (Bo) Narcross, former Council president who has been serving as mayor for the past 10 months, was elected as Greenfield's mayor by a comfortable margin Tuesday.

Another incumbent, Republican Robert Trent, was defeated by Larry Chapman 137-113 in the Ward IV race and incumbent Robert Williams won handily over Ronald Haines for the Council president seat by a 696-365 count.

Ray Devitt, a Republican, repeated as city auditor and was unopposed. Alice Jury was also unopposed for the city treasurer post. Devitt garnered 830 votes and Mrs. Jury received 876 votes.

Voters in Greenfield also cast ballots for school board members. Only three candidates filed for three vacant seats.

The unopposed school board candidates and their complimentary vote totals were Ralph W. Phillips (1,098), Ted Dumbauld (1,034) and Daniel Thompson (1,183).

Minor traffic mishap investigated by police

A minor accident was investigated by the Police Department Tuesday afternoon.

George M. Smallwood, 16, New Holland, said he was following another vehicle in the curb lane on W. Court Street as the car ahead began a right turn. When it stopped in the middle of its turn, Smallwood swerved left, striking a car in the center lane which was driven by Gladys K. Larkins, 54, Rt. 6, Washington C.H. Damage was minor and there were no injuries.

YUAN MOUN-RU

Former prisoner of Chinese Reds will speak here

The thaw in relations between the United States and Communist China will be the subject of an address by a former Chinese Red Guard, Miss Yuan Moun-Ru, at Sunnyside Elementary School Saturday night.

Her appearance at 8 p.m. is sponsored by the John Birch Society of Fayette County. The public is welcome to attend, and tickets are available at Pensyl's Camera Shop.

Miss Yuan, whose subject will be "I Accuse Mao—Let's Cut the Red China Connection", is an electrical engineering graduate of Chungking University and was sentenced to a labor reform camp in Communist China after being denounced by the regime as a "rightist". She escaped in 1969 and made her way to the United States where she testified before a congressional committee about a Red Chinese drug offensive against this country.

Miss Yuan charges that "The ping-pong diplomacy being conducted by Mao Tse-tung and Henry Kissinger is lulling the American people into a false sense of security regarding the true intentions of the Communists. You don't have to see a tiger in action to know it's dangerous. Too many Americans are accepting the new policy of accommodation toward China without realizing that the tiger has not changed its stripes."

"The Red Chinese are today the most vicious, outspoken, and determined enemies of the United States anywhere in the world," Miss Yuan warns.

By JOSH FITZHUGH
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pushed by a Congress anxious for reform, the nation's fragmented securities industry is moving slowly and painfully toward a central market system designed to serve the American investor as fairly and efficiently as possible.

Despite continued controversy and disagreement within the industry itself, the first step in such a central market — a composite ticker tape to record the sale of securities anywhere in the United States — could begin to operate as soon as next summer.

Further steps foreseen by most observers include a composite tape for bid and ask prices, and central facilities for paperwork on securities transactions and handling of stock certificates.

The goal "is a network of brokers and dealers, operating both from offices and on exchange floors, linked together by an electronic communications network and subject to a common regulatory framework," according to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Though technologically the central market could begin relatively soon, the controversy now is over who will have access to it and on what terms. "We want to know the rules of the games before we start playing," said a spokesman for the New York Stock Exchange, the nation's biggest auction market for securities.

"Like motherhood and apple pie, everyone here is in favor of a central market," said one broker intimately involved in current negotiations. "The only question is how."

Resolving the "how" requires the delicate balancing of strong and varied interests throughout the industry and within the government itself.

Many stocks today are traded, auction-style, on the New York Stock Exchange, the American Stock Exchange, and 11 regional exchanges. In addition there is the over-the-counter market, in which dealer firms buy and sell thousands of stocks not listed on the exchanges.

Because of the tremendous increase in block trading, particularly by such institutions as banks and pension funds, a dealer-operated "third market" has developed to buy and sell large quantities of listed issues away from exchange floors. Finally there is the so-called "fourth market," where institutions simply swap stock among themselves at whatever price is mutually acceptable.

Why is the central market needed? To assure greater efficiency and give the investor access to the best available price, observers agree. Proliferating markets have caused inequities between markets and tended to confuse and befuddle the average investor.

For an illustration, take the stock of XYZ Corp., traded both on the New York and Philadelphia's PBW stock exchanges. Although XYZ may be quoted at two different prices simultaneously on both exchanges, the investor may not be able to get the better price because exchange rules prohibit his broker from operating on both exchanges.

Likewise, XYZ trading may be halted on the Big Board because of an imbalance of buy or sell orders, even as it continues to move on the regional exchanges.

The third-market can be even more frustrating to the average investor. There, large blocks of XYZ moved at undisclosed prices. For example an institution may be able to buy XYZ at $25 a share from a third market firm, while the Exchange ticker shows a price of $25.25. The small investor must also pay a brokerage fee, while the dealer's commission is included in his quoted price.

As a Senate subcommittee which has studied the issue concluded, "We believe that all investors are entitled to the best market available, given the characteristics of the particular stock."

To achieve this, most government officials believe in "regulating in" more competition among the different markets. As former SEC Chairman Bradford Cook said, "We want the chips, that is, the profits, to fall where they may in fair and open competititon between markets."

But to some in the industry, closer government supervision — even in the name of competition — means more red tape and lower profits.

Americans active in Egypt despite low official profile

By C.C. MINICLIER
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO (AP) — It's not easy for a stranger to find the American diplomatic presence in Egypt; it appears on page 69 of the diplomatic list under "Espagne" and is identified by the red and gold flag of Spain.

Cairo broke formal diplomatic relations with Washington with the 1967 war, and Spain has been the official American representative here ever since. But its embassy shelters a small American diplomatic mission, just as the Indian Embassy in Washington provides a cover for the Egyptian government's representatives.

Despite the low diplomatic profile, Americans are all over Egypt, prospecting for and producing oil, digging for archeological treasures, examining the sick, teaching and doing business.

Country taxis tend to be 25-year-old Dodges or Chevrolets. Egypt Air, the national airline, has just bought three more Boeings to add to its mixed Soviet and American fleet.

Three billion cigarette filters a year are to be produced by new machines from America. American cigarettes continue to be popular, even at $1.25 a pack. American movies, television shows and Time and Newsweek also are popular with the Egyptians.

Some 2,285 Egyptians went to the United States in the first seven months of 1973 as tourists or students and another 617 obtained visas to emigrate to the United States. As many Egyptians have studied at Harvard, Princeton or Yale as at Cambridge or Oxford.

There is an American university in Cairo two blocks from the Nile, and a TWA advertisement with the American flag is posted on a railroad underpass on the road to the pyramids. Chicago House, run by the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, is on the Nile at Luxor.

American oilmen are operating in the Gulf of Suez, opposite the battlefront in the southern Sinai Desert. They have prospected in the Western Desert and soon will be looking for oil off the Nile Delta in the Mediterranean. An Egyptian official pointed out that other Arab countries already have their oil, but Egypt is still searching and needs American know-how and money to help.

The tallest structure in the world will be the Polish National TV Service Tower in Plock, Poland, which will be 2,100 feet tall upon completion in 1974.

MT faces revived Eagles in finale

BY DENNIS STAPLETON
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Big games are everything to a team. They make for good team spirit and morale. It provides the incentive for a player to give more than the so-called 100 per cent. It stimulates fan support for the battling players. Big games can also prove to be most hazardous.

If a team, such as the Miami Trace Panthers, would have defeated the Washington C.H. Blue Lions last week, well, feelings would certainly be different than they are now. But then, all is not lost just in one game. The Panthers can still come out second in the South Central Ohio League with a victory over Madison Plains this Friday. Second to whom someone asks? Second only to the No. 1 team in the state in both wire polls. That is a pretty darn good finish.

After losing such a crucial game as the one last week, a team is certainly left out in the cold. Hopes of a league championship floated down the drain along with the cold rain left on Miami Trace Field last Friday evening. But the pride of a good football team must remain intact in order for that team to keep face with itself. And a good football team indeed will be put against the test when the Panthers travel to Madison Plains for the 8 p.m. contest.

The Golden Eagles have been bantered all year for a lack of quality players. But the tide has turned for the Madison Plains players.

Against Wilmington the ridiculed Eagles smashed the hopes of a strong Clinton County team. Madison Plains, a dreadful underdog in almost every game this season, popped Wilmington 32-30 last Friday night.

So see the difference in big games. The Madison Plains team is coming off a big win while the Panthers are licking the wounds from a defeat.

Head coach Dean Porter, in his 14th season, has brought his Eagles a long way from the start of the season. Even though a 2-3 record in the league and a 2-7 record overall is not that impressive the size of the Eagles is surprising.

The offensive team, described as punchless early in the season, drilled Wilmington for 32 points in its last contest. Balancing the attack for the Eagles are running backs Thom Barker and Geoff Smith. Against Wilmington Smith scored three touchdowns on the ground. Barker tallied 82 yards in 20 carries against the Clinton Countians.

AGAINST A powerful Wilmington team Madison Plains picked up 293 total yards with 120 of those yards coming through the airways.

In the Wilmington contest the Golden Eagles managed only three offensive plays in the first quarter as compared to 20 plays for the Hurricanes. But the remaining three quarters had the Eagles with 19, 15, and 16 plays respectively, as compared to Wilmington's 12,10 and 9 plays.

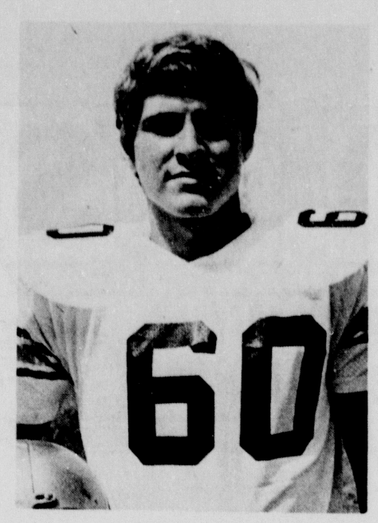

Coach Porter reported on Tuesday that his boys had come a long way since the beginning of the season and are a completely different team now. Against Hillsboro the Eagles coughed up the ball eight times. But, in the rain-soaked Wilmington game, the players didn't turn the ball over to the Hurricanes at all.

Before Tuesday's practice head coach Fred Zechman reported that there weren't any injuries that would keep his players from participating in the last game of the season.

GREG WIELAND

MT's Players of Week

Two seniors have been selected as Miami Trace's Players of the Week for their performances in last Friday's 36-12 loss to Washington C.H.

The top offensive honors went to fullback Doug Ford, while Greg Wieland polled the most points in the defensive category. Both players are tri-captains for the Panthers this season.

Ford, a bruising fullback, curned out 69 yards in only seven attempts. The majority of Ford's yardage came from well-executed draw plays. Several times quarterback Tom Riley slipped the ball off to Ford without the Washington C.H. team knowing it until Ford had picked up big yardage.

THE PANTHERS also received good efforts from junior tightend Jay Mossbarger and running back Jeff Sagar. On numerous occasions both Mossbarger and Sagar broke loose for pass completions.

Defensively, Greg Wieland collected 42 points, the most points received by any player this season. Wieland, coming off an injury the last three weeks, played inspired football against a very physical Washington C.H. team. The strong linebacker garnered seven individual tackles and had assistance on 12 other stops. Included in those tackles were four take-downs behind the line of scrimage.

Finishing second and third to Wieland were John Woodrow and Tom Pfaff respectively. Woodrow played his best game to date against some pretty rugged opponents. Pfaff's touchdown-saving tackles from his defensive backfield position kept Miami Trace in the game in the early going.

The Panthers "big lick" awards went to Ford on defense for a jarring tackle on the first play of the game. The hard smack by Ford caused a Washington C.H. fumble. On offense the award went to Dan Ryan for a crackback block on an invert man.

Miami Trace is tied with Wilmington for second place honors in the South Central Ohio League and finish out the season against a rejuvinated Madison Plains team Friday night at Madison Plains.

Golf Tourney doesn't draw big names

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — United States Open champion Johnny Miller has joined a growing list of big-name absentees for the richest golf tournament in history.

The new World Open begins a two-week, 144-hole run Thursday at the Pinehurst Country Club. It offers one-half million dollars in total prizes with $100,000 to the winner.

Both figures represent records. The biggest previous prize money for a single event was $300,000 by two recent Japanese tournaments and in the Dow Jones Open, a onetime event played in New Jersey in 1970.

The huge prizes have drawn a field of 240 professionals, with more than 20 countries represented.

But the absentees include Jack Nicklaus, the present PGA champion and leading money winner; Tom Weiskopf, winner of the British Open and five other events this year, and Lee Trevino, who scored his third victory of the season just last Sunday in Australia.

None of them entered. Miller pulled out Tuesday. He told tournament officials he has influenza and would be unable to play. Dave Hill and former PGA champion Ray Floyd also withdrew. Hill wasn't completely recovered from a knee operation, and Floyd has tendonitis.

"It looks like there's $100,000 just sitting there that no one wants," mused Arnold Palmer, the 44-year-old who ranks as one of the top attractions in the tournament that stretches through Nov. 17.

Some of the other leading contenders in the bulky field include rookie sensation Ben Crenshaw, the winner of last week's San Antonio-Texas Open; South African Gary Player; Australian Bruce Crampton; Argentian's aging Roberto de Vicenzo; Masters champion Tommy Aaron; England's Peter Oosterhuis; ageless Sam Snead, and all but a handful of the 1973 winners of regular tour events.

'Wild Card' race seen by Brown

CINCINNATI (AP)—With six games remaining in the National Football League's regular season, Cincinnati Bengals' Coach Paul Brown says the race is on for the "wild card" spot.

"It's a five-team race," said Brown Tuesday as the Bengals regrouped from a 38-10 loss to Dallas—the worst setback in 50 games for Cincinnati.

"We're not out of it, not by a long shot," said Brown.

Cincinnati dropped to 4-4 for the season. The Bengals wrap up a three-game road trip Sunday against the Buffalo Bills then return home for a fourgame stand. Cincinnati is unbeaten at home in six games, including three exhibition outings.

Brown isn't ready yet to concede a division title to once-beaten Pittsburgh. The Steelers are 7-1.

As far as Sunday's meeting with Buffalo, Bengals' safety Neal Craig says: "we welcome it. But we'd better not forget that they still play with 11 men."

Harper sparks Tiger triumph

SPRINGFIELD — Lowell Harper, Wittenberg University's star senior tight end from Washington C.H., was the man of the hour last Saturday as the unbeaten and seventh-ranked Tigers won their eighth game of the season.

Harper caught a vital 19-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Lloyd Ball to give the Tigers the go-ahead score in a 31-14 romp over last year's Ohio Conference and Stagg Bowl champion Heidelberg College.

Wittenberg was trailing 14-9 when Harper made his scoring reception.

Harper, who was switched to tight end midway last season from fullback, now has a total of 13 pass receptions for 257 yards, or an average of 19.8 yards per catch.

In addition to his touchdown, Harper help set up two more Tiger scores with key catches.

Wittenberg's win over Heidelberg lifted the Tigers into the Ohio Conference game Nov. 17 at Marietta College.

Pistol match set Saturday

The Fayette County Fish and Game Association will conduct a pistol match starting at noon Saturday at the association lodge on Stafford Road.

Don Leisure, chairman, said events will be conducted for several different categories of handguns. Cash prizes will be awarded in each event and the public is invited to participate or watch.

Pistol matches are now being held regularly on the second Sunday of each month at the association range.

Ohio high school

Sheared gridders still win

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Turmoil over haircuts swirled around the Dayton Jefferson High School football team last week, but the Broncos still pushed the state's longest current winning streak to 38 games.

"I told them I didn't care if they won or lost," Shelby said, "they weren't playing for me looking like that."

Three players didn't play. They refused to cut their hair. Several others had their hair trimmed in the lockerroom before a 14-0 victory.

The Broncos' margin was the smallest of the 1973 season and the players said the reason was because they were upset over their haircuts.

Around Ohio: Yellow Springs is in its second season of football, yet the Bulldogs need only a victory at Waynesville for a 10-0-0 campaign. "Our kids knew fundamentals from club football," Coach Bob Hartley explained of the unbeaten record.

Buffalo Bills superstar O. J. Simpson telephoned Youngstown Mooney standout Ted Bell last week to plug his alma mater of Southern California. The 6-foot-2, 190-pound Bell has 1,551 rushing yards and 24 touchdowns this fall.

Walnut Ridge and Northland clash Saturday morning for the Columbus City League title. Northland won it a year ago. Columbus Watterson has won eight Columbus Central Catholic crowns and tied for another in 12 seasons.

Bron Bacevich coaches his final Cincinnati Bacon game this week, ending 43 high school seasons in Illinois, Michigan and Ohio. The 67-year-old Baevich, with 311 career victories, spent the last 20 at Bacon.

Bob Lewis, who once guided Wyoming to statewide recognition, is assured of his worst year in 23 seasons. The Cincinnati school is 5-4 going into its finale against Sycamore.

Terry Belli of Sugar Grove Berne Union suffered his first high school coaching loss in 19 games. Berne Union bowed to Canal Winchester 12-6. Teams of Circleville mentor Larry Cook haven't been shut out in 59 games.

Beaver Local, near Lisbon, can claim its first unbeaten season against Jefferson Union this week. Incidentally, Beaver Local has recovered 30 fumbles and intercepted 21 passes in nine triumphs.

Warren Western Reserve, No. 1 in Class AAA, has handed Barberton and Youngstown Mooney, both in the top ten, their only losses this season.

Cleveland Benedictine's Class AA record of 5-2-2 is deceiving. The two losses were to 9-0 Class AAA teams, Willoughby South and Lake Catholic. The two ties were against AAA toughies Massillon (8-0-1) and Lakewood St. Edward (8-0-1).

Zoarville Tuscarawas Valley shoots for its 100th career victory against Tuscarawas Catholic. Valley opened in 1957. John Fishley rushed for 236 yards and scored four touchdowns for Valley against Centerburg last week.

A couple of opposites: Warren Western Reserve, with 26 straight victories, meets Lorain Southview, which has lost 29 in a row.

John Shoemaker, grandson of state legislator Myrl Shoemaker, has hit 77 of 147 passes for 975 yards and six touchdowns for 1-7-1 Waverly. Frankfort Adena in Ross County enjoyed the first perfect campaign in its nine years.

Cincy Bearcats coach cooler

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Gale Catlett, the University of Cincinnati's head basketball coach, said Bearcat fans can expect more fireworks on the floor and fewer of his stormy sideline outbursts this season.

Catlett, at 33 one of the youngest major college cage coaches, said he's more mature after a lesson-learning rookie season.

He learned the hard way. A year ago, in his debut, he was expelled before halftime and charged with four technical fouls after a heated exchange with a referee.

"Officials don't and won't bother me," said Catlett. "Last year they did. I really was too involved with the players."

"Every foul, every call against my players, I took personally," said Catlett. "I am not going to worry so much about those things now. I am not going to worry about officials."

The West Virginia native said he learned more about coaching— "I mean what coaching really is"—than in nine previous years as an assistant at Kentucky, Kansas, and Davidson.

"And I had some good teachers too," he said, referring to former tutors Adolph Rupp of Kentucky, Ted Owens at Kansas and Lefty Driesell at Davidson.

His first Bearcat club won 10 of its last 13 games after a disappointing 7-6 start to finish with a 17-9 record.

"But the way they played at the end convinced me we would have been very competitive in either the NCAA or National Invitational tournaments," said Catlett.

He faces a major rebuilding job, but high-scoring 6-foot-5 guard Lloyd Batts is back to ease the burden.

Oklahoma heads winners list by grid forecasters

NEW YORK (AP) — Courtesy of Kansas State's Vince Gibson, we bring you in advance the winner of Saturday's key Big Eight Conference clash between Oklahoma and Missouri.

"Oklahoma is a better football team than Missouri, but Missouri will play them close," Gibson said following a 31-7 loss to Missouri last week. The previous week, Gibson lost to Oklahoma 56-14.

The experts thought Nebraska would be leading the Big Eight by now, but there is Oklahoma with a 3-0 record (6-0-1 over-all) to Missouri's 3-1, 7-1. Coach Barry Switzer says the Sooners would be "in a great position to win the conference championship" by beating Missouri on the road. But he also says it won't be easy.

Last week's mark was 42 right and 17 wrong with four ties for .712, including picking the exact score of Pitt's 28-14 victory over Syracuse. For the season, the count is 382-134-14 — .740.

Michigan State at Ohio State: Woody Hayes is wild about his defense but is concerned about offensive errors in last week's 30-0 triumph over Illinois. "Our offense did not have a good ballgame. We made mistakes, especially in the first half, that a good, veteran team like ours shouldn't." Ohio State was unbeaten last year, too, coming into this game and lost 19-12. Hayes has a good memory. Ohio State 28-6.

Illinois at Michigan: After the Ohio State game, Illinois' Bob Blackman said he has ranked Ohio State and Michigan "No. 1 and No. 2 all season long and I didn't see a thing out there to make me change my mind." The Wolverines may help him see the light. Michigan 27-7.

Notre Dame at Pitt: Pitt hasn't had a winning season since 1963, but the Panthers now are in the Top Twenty with a 5-2-1 record. So long, it's been good to know ya. Notre Dame 35-14.

North Carolina State at Penn State: The experts predicted N.C. State would lose to Nebraska, Georgia and Penn State. They've already lost to Nebraska and Georgia. Penn State 45-21.

Stanford at Southern California: This one has been billed as the Blood Bowl ever since USC's John McKay said he wanted to beat Stanford by 2,000 points following last year's 30-21 triumph. Cardinals are coming with three in a row and it could be an aerial duel between Pat Haden and Mike Boryla. Southern Cal 34-17.

UCLA at Oregon: Ducks got caught looking ahead by Washington State. Bruins haven't stumbled in seven games since the Nebraska debacle. UCLA 31-21.

Iowa State at Nebraska: Coach Tom Osborne says Nebraska isn't going to romp despite ISU's 2-5 record. "They tied us last year and they should have won but they missed the last extra point. And they have virtually the same team back." Nebraska 34-10.

Texas Tech at Texas Christian: After losing this game the last two years, Jim Carlen of 71 Tech says the only bowl he's concerned with is "The TCU Bowl." Texas Tech 28-14.

Baylor at Texas: Baylor has lost three in a row by six points each. Enough of that. Texas 49-20.

Wyoming at Arizona State: Sun Devils after double revenge. They lost to Wyoming last year and to Utah last week. Arizona State 56-14.

Houston at Colorado State: One loss is Houston's limit. Houston 45-14.

Miami, Ohio at Kent State: This one's for the Mid-American Conference title and it could be the best game of the day. Both are undefeated in MAC play. Miami's 8-0 over-all, Kent is 7-1,losing only to San Diego State. How's a 20-20 tie grab you?

Colorado at Kansas: After playing Oklahoma, Missouri and Nebraska the last three weeks, Kansas should seem like a breeze for ... Colorado 21-14.

Richmond at East Caroline: Southern Conference crown on the line. East Carolina 24-17.

Miami, Fla. at Army: Will the real Hurricanes please stand up. Are they the team that upset Texas and almost beat Oklahoma or the club that struggled to defeat winless Florida State and Syracuse? Upset Special of the Week ... previously winless Army 20-17.

Second Upset Special: Previously winless Syracuse 17, Holy Cross 14.

Professor's lifestyle takes a major turn

DOVER, N.H. (AP) — Things that seem ordinary to most career women are extraordinary to Jeanne Gardner.

For the first time in her life, she is financially independent. She comes home to her own apartment filled with bright clothes, skiing and sailing equipment. She goes out at night with both male and female friends, and she can take off for a European vacation anytime she wants.

Jeanne Gardner is 40 years old, but she began her current lifestyle just 10 months ago.

Now she is assistant professor of education at the University of New Hampshire in Durham. She is strong-willed and dedicated to teaching.

"I have been accused of being powerful, overwhelming," Dr. Gardner said. "A male-oriented society just can't accept that. I have my feet on the ground, and it's not always appreciated."

SHE LEFT the Sisters of Mercy Convent in Cumberland, R.I., last August when she realized she couldn't resolve the questions she had about herself and her status in the order.

"I think the direction of my life changed because the direction of education and thrusts have changed. It doesn't mean that I'm turned off on the church. That has nothing to do with it at all," Dr. Gardner said.

"It's just that my dedication to education is stronger at this point than my dedication to service in the church."

As a teaching nun, Dr. Gardner said she often felt thwarted by the religious community.

"I saw myself doing some different things in the community if they would let me," she said. "As time went on, it became much more obvious they weren't going to let me.

Dr. Gardner earned a master's degree from Rhode Island College and a doctorate from the University of Connecticut while she was still in the order.

She used the time at school to make up her mind about leaving the Sisters of Mercy.

"My belief in the church has not changed" since she left, she said. "My stand on birth control very definitely has. I still can't accept abortion, but that is for my own personal reasons. I think the church would not be in the position that it's in concerning abortion if it had realistically looked at the birth control issue."

"I'm not sorry for that 22-year phase of my life. I think I gained as much from it as they gained from me," she said. "But admittedly there is a need for other kinds of companionship that were not available in the church."

Opening lead — jack of hearts.

It would seem that South must go down one against proper defense, but actually the contract can be made in a perfectly legitimate way.

A heart is led, won by South with the queen, and declarer, whether he realizes it or not, is now faced with a crucial decision. He can see that if he attacks diamonds, forcing out the ace, he will certainly run into a dead end.

Back will come a heart and West's suit will become established. South can then cash eight tricks — two hearts, three diamonds and three clubs — but, when he leads a spade, West takes the ace and runs his hearts to put the contract down one.

So, instead of putting his head in a noose by playing a diamond at trick two, South hits upon the expedient of playing a low spade towards the king. He does this for two reasons. First, there is a chance that West, holding the ace, will make a mistake and not go up with it. If this occurs, South is home free. Having stolen a spade trick, he speedily attacks diamonds and so makes nine tricks.

Second, there is the possibility of West's holding three spades to the ace — in which case he is dead whatever he does. Thus, if West rises with the ace, South makes his nine tricks by scoring four spades, two hearts and three clubs.

So the principle emerges that you don't always attack your strongest suit — diamonds, in this case — when there is a good tactical reason for attacking another suit. Bridge is by no means a game of hard and fast rules. You play according to the common sense of a situation, not by rigid rules.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Coronary: Worse for the Young

Is there any truth to the statement that older people are better able to survive a coronary heart attack than younger people?

Mr. S.E.I., Fla.

Dear Mr. I.:

There are many factors that alter the predictability of recovery after a coronary heart attack.

If contributing factors like excess tobacco, marked overweight and high blood pressure are not present, the elderly do seem to survive an uncomplicated attack of coronary thrombosis better than a man of 35.

If the severity of an attack for a young men and an older man is the same, there may be reasons to explain better recovery in the elderly.

Some of the reasons are valid, while others are speculative. The arteries that bring blood to the heart muscle itself are called the "coronaries" because their distribution around the heart resemble a crown.

It is believed by some that as one gets older tiny, additional arteries may have sprouted from the main blood vessel to bring additional blood and oxygen to the heart.

This is called "collateral circulation" and may well be a factor in recovery. Perhaps in the young this fine network of additional blood vessels has had little or no time to develop.

Health campaigns are devoted to eliminating the major causes of coronary heart disease. Would that the young respect their lifegiving possession and listen to the dictates of authority! The chances of prolonging their life span are great if they follow the teachings of modern medical educators and their own doctors.

Cigarette smoking, excess weight, undiscovered high blood pressure, emotional stress and indiscreet diet are culprits that should be eliminated.

A firm growth was found on the palate of our newborn child. It doesn't bother her now, but can it be the cause of trouble later on?

Mrs. B.A., N.M.

Dear Mrs. A.:

This bony enlargement is known as a "torous" or "torose." It does not alter normal growth nor does it usually affect the child's speech.

It is caused by some slight malformation of the embryo and is not associated with any unusual changes in the body.

Many people do not learn about the presence of a torous until they are adults.

Rarely is it ever necessary to remove these growths by surgery.

You really have no cause for concern, but you should seek the added assurance of your own doctor.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH . . . All teeth, even in the young, should not be indiscriminately removed. Modern dentistry tries to preserve teeth as long as possible.

Organized crime eyed by workshop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — How does organized crime infiltrate legitimate businesses? Why are racketeers compelled to commit economic crimes?

Herbert Edelhertz, former head of the criminal fraud section, U.S. Justice Department, was to discuss these and other topics at today's session of the Ohio Organized Crime Training Conference.

The conference, which ends Friday, has brought together some 200 law enforcement, legal and state officials to study ways to recognize and combat organized crime.

A workshop on gambling and organized crime was to be held this afternoon, keynoted by Alfred N. King, director of evaluation and planning, organized crime and racketeering section, U.S. Department of Justice.

A federal drug expert told participants Tuesday that the bulk of illegal narcotics in the United States is brought over southern borders.

Andrew Tartaglino, acting deputy administrator of the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration, said brown heroin and cocaine entering the U.S. is grown mainly in Latin America and Mexico.

Most major European drug rings supplying the U.S. have been broken, he said, and now Chinese and Cuban suppliers are concentrating on the American drug market.

Domestically, Tartaglino said all agents involved in mistaken drug raids on residences should either be suspended or fired.

He referred to two such raids in Illinois, and said they were caused by "bad judgment, impatience and overzealousness."

Commuter train ending

County board eyes wage-hour rulings

Members of the Fayette County Board of Education Tuesday night heard a report from Superintendent Guy M. Foster that a compliance officer with the U. S. Department of Labor had reviewed with the administration some changes which should be made in terms of wage and hour regulations.

Superintendent Foster said the board agreed to review the report at a later meeting and make adjustments deemed necessary after a full investigation. A resolution was adopted to comply with one of the requests that would reduce the work week of employes holding two contracts with the board to a maximum of 40 hours. The regulation becomes effective Dec. 1.

Information was received prior to the meeting that the cost of extra milk sold through the school lunch program may be reduced as schools were now eligible for a federal reimbursement. A motion was adopted to reduce the cost of a half-pint carton of milk from 9 cents to 5 cents. The new price of 5 cents will become effective Nov. 12. It was also mentioned that within a short time the overall cost of lunches could be increased to meet rising costs, Foster said.

BOARD MEMBERS expressed concern over the fuel shortage situation in response to a letter received recently stating that Miami Trace School District would receive only three-fourths the amount of fuel oil in November as it did in the same month last year.

Michael Yamber, principal at Madison Mills, was appointed coordinator of the junior high basketball program. Coaches assigned were Joe Henry, Eber; Sonny Walters, Madison Mills; Roger Zimmerman, Wayne; Paul Petitt, New Holland; Richard Bell, Bloomingburg, and Larry Garringer and Rick Hughes, Jeffersonville.

The board agreed that many citizens of the district had worked hard in support of the junior high school issue. The level of support seemed considerably higher than in the past, and board members expressed their appreciation to everyone who had assisted with the campaign.

In other matters:

The board authorized Cecil Coates, transportation supervisor, to allow five school buses to be used at the district transportation rodeo in Wilmington Saturday;

Appointed Principal Curtis E. Fleisher as acting athletic director until a permanent assignment is made; and Authorized Mrs. June Slaughter to attend the Ohio Supervisors' meeting Nov. 8-9. Also, Mrs. Lucille Hammond, a Bloomingburg teacher, along with Mrs. Slaughter will be visiting a Cleveland school during the month.

Brown will head Hillsboro Council

HILLSBORO — Voters Tuesday reaffirmed Paul E. Brown, Democrat incumbent, as president of city council over William J. Alexander (R), 854 to 551, but defeated Mark McMahon, Democrat incumbent, by voting for H. Lawson Walker (R) 855 to 537.

City school board members and county board members were unopposed.

Highland village renewed a 5-year levy for current operating expenses, 50 to 18, and also approved a 2-mill additional levy for operating expenses, 35 to 32.

SHERIFF

Woman sues Greenfield

HILLSBORO — A woman who claims she is permanently disabled by injuries received when she stumbled into a hole around a sewer drain on a street, asks $100,000 damages in a suit against the City of Greenfield. The plaintiff in the action, Ruth E. Mick, Rt. 1, Bainbridge, states that the accident occurred June 9, 1972.

VFW post plans part in parade

Preliminary plans for participating in the Christmas parade here Dec. 1 were made at the meeting of the Burnett-Ducey post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Tuesday night.

The Voice of Democracy program, which is designed to interest more young people in politics and public service, also was discussed and a $25 contribution was made to the National Children's Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Members of the post, who have been attending Sunday worship services at different churches, will attend the First Baptist Church Sunday, Nov. 11, the day still observed as Veterans Day by the three veterans organizations here.

Cmdr. Ben Jamison urged VFW members to join members of the American Legion and Veterans of World War I at the Legion Home at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and then attend the memorial service at the monument on the Courthouse lawn. He also announced that the post has for sale 24 American flags suitable for display at homes on national holidays. He said those interested could contact him or Quartermaster Walter Wilson for a flag.

The Rev. Cloyce Dean Copley, post chaplain and past commander, urged the members to visit the VA hospital at Chillicothe and give encouragement to the patients.

Conservatives win school contests

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The conservative Better Neighborhood Schools slate, which campaigned against busing for racial integration, won control of the Cincinnati Board of Education by a two-to-one margin Tuesday.

The group campaigned for retention of neighborhood schools and against added educational programs.

Bradshaw named Jamestown mayor

JAMESTOWN — Jamestown elected a new mayor Tuesday, giving Virgil Bradshaw 154 votes. William Harden, incumbent, was a write-in and got 141 votes. Willard Thuma received 128.

Four members elected to Council from a slate of six were Phyllis Lang, John Reese, Roy Heading and James Collins.

Robert Heifner and Lamar Long, incumbents, were returned to the Greeneview Board of Education, along with Frances Tidd. There were four other contenders.
